CUBAN CRISIS ENDING; HARMONY IS NEAR

The Veterans Abandon the Idea of Rebellion and Turn Their Minds to Charity.

CENSURE THE PRESIDENT

Newspaper Criticism of Gomez for Expressing His Views Through The New York Times—A Little Duel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—With the official statement issued from the Palace this evening, the conference of the President with the Veteran leaders has resulted in the latter promising to abandon entirely their anti-traitor campaign.

The conflict seems ended, although the more radical Veterans assert privately that they will continue their agitation, which they call patriotic.

Gen. Nunez, President of the Veterans' Association, Col. Coronado, Secretary, and the editor of La Discusion, the recognized organ of military circles, had a three hours' conference with the President of the Republic to-night.

At to-night's conference it was agreed that Gen. Nunez should address the Veterans throughout the island by a circular directing them to cease the agitation, and transform their circles into benefit institutions for charitable purposes to better the condition of needy compatriots and families in reduced circumstances through the sacrifices of the war for independence, co-operate with Gomez's Administration to improve industrial conditions, develop resources, maintain order, sustain the Constitution, and avoid all warrant for intervention.

President Gomez to-morrow will consult with Gens. Menocal and Rabi and others who took part in the August outbreak. All are disposed to second the Veterans' project for pacific solution. The Presidential Secretary, Señor Remirez, says Gomez, will then take action calculated fully to reassure the Washington authorities.

Consul General Rogers regards the crisis as over.

El Diario de la Marina and other Spanish organs criticise Gomez for cabling THE NEW YORK TIMES and utilizing the columns of the American press.

Gen. Nunez, while yielding, is most bitter over the result of last night's meeting, which practically kills the Veteran movement and him politically.

The general opinion is that the Deputies exceeded their legislative powers, encroached on the Constitutional reserve, and virtually defied the American military when they undertook to annul the Civil Service law, which Gomez signed. It is counterclaimed for the President, in forbidding the military to attend the Veterans' meetings, that his order was Constitutional, in that it only applied to army men when they were uniformed.

The Veterans of Batabano, in view of the situation, have voted to dissolve, urging their compatriots to a like action.

Pino Guerra, General of the August revolt, which brought Taft and Magoon on the scene as Governors, has organized 1,000 former followers, who are drilling near Wajay, and propose to support President Gomez, in accord with the American intimation, against the Veterans, should the latter revive in their menaces against the Government.

La Prenza, the Spanish daily, whose attacks and persecution recently contributed to the recall to Madrid of the Spanish Minister, now demands that President Gomez declare the United States persona non grata, and hints that Gomez requested Washington to threaten intervention to save him from the Veteran movement.

Vice President Zayas's organ, La Opinion, in a leading editorial says it is impossible to believe that Mr. Taft's mere admonition will suffice to convert Gomez from his essentially evil ways of governing.

Many Americans condemn the note as premature, saying that it merely prolongs the agony, whereas had the movement been permitted to progress, permanent intervention would have been inevitable, bringing stable peace and confidence with a consequent development of the country. They say too, that the note will have an unfavorable effect on prospective investors in Cuban capital, who are being scared by Washington's official recognition of intolerable political conditions in Cuba, which have heretofore been explained away as merely sensational newspaper exaggerations. Spanish merchants almost universally deplore that the intervention is postponed.

Exciting rumors were rife this afternoon that Washington would send an ultimatum to Gomez unless the Knox memorandum was answered in forty-eight hours, send a fleet and land men at Guantanamo and blockade ports. Secretary of State Sanguilly denied the rumor. The Knox warning was merely an unsigned memorandum, not asking an answer. President Gomez is preparing a reply, which he will send after a conference with the Generals of the War of Independence.

TAFT'S BID FOR CONNECTICUT

President and Senator Brandegee Fear Feud Will Make State Democratic.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18.—The policy of the Republican Party of Connecticut in the coming State and National campaigns will be settled to-morrow when the State Central Committee meets here. President Taft and United States Senator Frank Brandegee are coming from Washington to try to reconcile the warring factions, whose feud allowed the election of a Democratic Governor last year. To-morrow's meeting will decide routine details of minor importance like the place and date for holding the State Convention for choosing delegates to the National Convention. More momentous questions which it will tackle are whether the delegates shall be instructed for Taft or not, whether the election of Brandegee three years hence shall be favored or not, and how the committee stands in the coming State campaign. Four years ago Senators Brandegee and Bulkeley opposed instructing the Connecticut delegates for Taft.

The State Convention overruled the Senators. Brandegee has made peace with Taft, and both will come here with a general harmony message. Fearing that the present condition of the Republican Party of the State will eventually cause the election of a Democratic Senator and of the Democratic electors for President, they will to-morrow urge the factions to heal all differences. If the faction in power in the recent Legislature and the last State campaign should assert its supremacy in the State Central Committee meeting to-morrow, the resignation of the committee Chairman, Michael Kenealy, would be forced and the committee reorganized with a majority hostile to the re-election of Senator Brandegee.

President Taft will arrive here at 4 o'clock to-morrow. He will be accompanied by Senator Bailey of Texas and Rabbi Wise of New York City, who will be the guests of honor at the Chamber of Commerce dinner to-morrow night. President Taft will attend a meeting of the Yale Corporation on Saturday morning, and will go to New York City on the afternoon of that day, when he is scheduled to attend three dinners there, those of the New York Bar Association, the Society of the Genesee, and the Twenty-four Karat Club.

"THE MEANEST GRAFTER."

So Court Styles Katzenstein in Imposing Two-Year Sentence.

Simon Katzenstein, a Bronx bone and fat dealer, who was recently convicted of bribery in connection with the theft of 100,000 pounds of meat from the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane at Ward's Island, was sentenced by Judge Edward Swann in General Sessions yesterday to two years in Sing Sing.

In pronouncing sentence upon Katzenstein Judge Swann denounced him as "the meanest of all the grafters who stole from the insane," and said that although the jury strongly recommended mercy he felt it his duty to impose a severe sentence in order to deter others from stealing from public institutions.

Katzenstein was convicted of having given $50 to Policeman John Phalen, who arrested him, and of having promised $1,000 more if the bluecoat would let him escape. He was arrested while driving to his bone yard, and 1,200 pounds of fresh meat were discovered in his wagon, having been covered over with bones and fat. Katzenstein's defense was that he was the victim of a police plot, backed by Commissioner of Accounts Raymond Fosdick. The maximum penalty for the crime of which he was convicted is four years.

STILL GUARD GOV. FOSS.

Governor's Country House Surrounded to Keep Off the Black Hand.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—The bodyguard, which for twenty-four hours has accompanied Gov. Foss to protect him from possible attack by Black Handers, moved out from the State House late today, and followed the Chief Executive closely as he motored to his home in Jamaica Plains.

To-night the Governor's residence was again guarded on all sides, and all persons passing through the street were scrutinized by policemen until they had gone beyond the limits of the Foss estate.

While the Governor himself laughed at the fears for his safety, the reason for posting the guards was given by Dudley M. Holman, the Governor's secretary, in a statement issued late in the day. Mr. Holman declared that information had come from six trustworthy sources that at a secret meeting certain interests had sent to New York for Black Hand bomb-throwers to come to Massachusetts and attack Gov. Foss and other officials, as a form of protest against the sending of the State militia to Lawrence to keep order among the striking mill men.

Mr. Holman added:

"The sources of information were considered important enough to warrant sending notice to the State police and asking Police Commissioner O'Meara to guard the Governor's house. One confirmatory report came from Lawrence.

"It was our information that the feeling against the Governor was due to his action in sending the militia to Lawrence as well as because he had signed the 54-hour bill, which is an issue in the strike.

"The steps were merely precautionary and we believe that nothing will happen."

WORRY KILLS PASTOR'S WIFE.

Strain of Husband's Fight with Classis Too Great for Mrs. Vandenheuvel.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan 18.—Illness, brought on by worry over the troubles her husband had with the members of the North Side Christian Reformed Church and the Classis of Hudson, to which it belongs, hastened the death of Mrs. Arie J. Vandenheuvel, according to a statement made to-day by her physician.

Six months ago Mr. Vandenheuvel was dragged into the divorce suit of one of his churchmen as a witness. His testimony was a large factor in causing Vice Chancellor Stevenson to annul the marriage, but caused a row in his congregation, which resulted in his being suspended by the Classis. Mrs. Vandenheuvel, who helped her husband in the fight, was taken ill, but even in her illness she kept in touch with every movement made by her husband's enemies.

Recently the members of the church, a majority of whom favord Mr. Vandenheuvel, withdrew from the Classis, declaring themselves free and independent and restored Mr. Vandenheuyel to the pastorate. Mrs. Vandenheuvel, seriously ill in bed, was overjoyed with the victory, and the excitement it brought on, together with the strain caused by the long fight, made her condition worse. She died today.

'WATTERSON NICE OLD GENTLEMAN'—WILSON

Governor's Response When Asked if He Would Reply to Editor's Criticisms.

WILSON LOSES SOME FRIENDS

Governor in Speech Says Business is Deep in Politics, Especially the Tariff Industries.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was besieged all the afternoon and evening by newspapers who begged him to make some answer to Col. Henry Watterson's attack upon him for cutting loose from Harper's Weekly and Col. George B. Harvey, but he steadfastly declined.

"Watterson is a nice old gentleman, but I have no reply to make to him—not just now," was the most that could be gotten out of him.

He intimated, however, that he had the Watterson statement very thoroughly, and that when he had considered the situation from every angle he might issue a prepared statement in reply.

The only occurrence which could be taken to refer to the Wilson-Watterson incident was a portion of an address made at a political mass meeting to-night by Dudley Field Malone, who is Gov. Wilson's traveling companion, and who addressed the meeting before Gov. Wilson arrived from the Wayne Gardens, where he spoke to the Michigan Press Association.

Mr. Malone said:

"The newspapers of the last few weeks show whom the enemies of the people consider dangerous. They do not bother to shoot unless they see it is worth while. And any man who dares to attempt to personally attack and besmirch a character so above question as that of Gov. Wilson will be replied to with the ignominy and contempt of silence which such an attack deserves."

Gov. Wilson was lionized by the Democratic politicians who gathered here from every part of the State to consult with him. He found plenty of defenders of his course in the Harvey incident, among them E. E. O. Wood. National Committeeman from Michigan, and Alfred Lucking, former Congressman from the Detroit district.

Ex-Congressman Lucking expressed his view most fully. He holds that Wilson acted only as an honorable man should.

"If any one will read exactly what Col. Watterson says," he said, "he will see at once that there is nothing in what occurred to reflect on Gov. Wilson. He was asked the direct question whether the active support of Harper's Weekly was injurious to his candidacy. What answer could a truthful man make? The most striking fact about Gov. Wilson is that he tells the truth. He answered what everybody knew to be a fact. Even Col. Watterson admits it was a fact. From a political standpoint the incident will hedp the candidacy of Gov. Wilson because the belief is general that Harper's Weekly is owned by J. P. Morgan."

Wilson's Speech.

Gov. Wilson closed the day's visit to Detroit with an address at the Light Guard Armory to-night. His topic was "Belated Politics," and he said, in part:

"A few years ago, a few months ago, it was a matter of common remark that the field of our policies was singularly confused and disordered; party lines everywhere broken or breaking; party labels losing their significance; party combinations threatening to break and reform themselves. But in recent months the scene has become more ordered and definite. Every careful observer can now perceive that certain great, definite, calculable forces are at work, the character of which is being more and more plainly disclosed, their movement and direction more and more clearly defined.

"The great progressive sentiment which now more and more dominates the country, and only awaits its opportunity to determine the policies of the Government, is not accidental, is not merely a passing phase expressive of the temperament of an eager people; it is a thing that has arisen steadily by natural and inevitable force, like the tides of the ocean.

"The most profitable thing that we can do, in order to reassure ourselves, is to ask why this great body of progressive opinion has grown so strong; why it has spread to almost every part of the country. The facts are unmistakable enough. The history of the present Administration has illustrated them at every turn. We have seen an honest and patriotic man in the Presidential chair struggling with the rising power, involved in greater and greater difficulties, because he did not understand that power or comprehend the great purposes that lay behind it, and yet unable to curb it, and seeming, in spite of himself, to increase its volume by the very acts attempted to check it. What has happened? What is it that the stand-pat ranks of the Republican Party vaguely battle with? Why is the country attempting to break away from old party formulas and blaze a new path for itself in politics under a changed leadership and by new measures of reform?

"Because, within less than a generation, all the economic conditions of life and business in this country have changed almost beyond recognition, while our politics have all but stood still. There has been much controversy. There has been loud shouting, as if upon a field of battle. Some measures of reform there have been, but there has been no steady, consistent force to give them their full effect, to guide them, to adapt them to conditions all along the line. The sum of the matter is that our life has changed and that our policies are belated. Our laws lag almost a generation behind our business conditions and our political exigencies.

Necessity for Remedies.

"Those who once contended that nothing was the matter are now admitting that a great deal is the matter; that much has been done in the world of business and in the money market that ought not to have been done. They are growing willing to discuss the matter; to confer; to admit the necessity for remedies, and while their temper has changed the temper of reformers has perhaps grown more sober. They are beginning to discuss the practicable means of change in a more direct and businesslike way.

"Recent investigations have been of the greatest service. They have disclosed and are disclosing, item by item, just the methods of business which have been most harmful and most unjust. I think they have opened the eyes of the very men who gave the testimony.

"We see that somewhere near the centre of the whole trouble lies the great system of governmental favors which we call the tariff. Round about the tariff has been built up a body of business undertaking in which control has been too much concentrated.

Business Deep in Politics.

"In order to maintain this control it has been necessary to be secure of the patronage of the Government, and so business has gone deep into politics. Legislative action has been controlled by special business interests. Party machinery has been used to serve private purposes and to make sure pecuniary profit.

A STORY OF TRAGIC HUMAN INTEREST.

An intimate view of a chapter in the life of John D. Rockefeller, written by Frederick T. Gates, who represents Mr. Rockefeller, will occupy three pages in Next Sunday's Times.

FREDERICKS IS HERE HUNTING DYNAMITERS

Los Angeles Prosecutor Keeps a Revolver at Hand to Protect His Life.

FINDS TRAIL OF CRIME EASY

Knows, Too, Just Where it Will Lead, but Won't Tell Now.

District Attorney J. D. Fredericks of Los Angeles, who prosecuted the McNamara brothers, now in St. Quentin Prison, is now in New York, working on certain details of the larger dynamiting inquiry, which he says involves more than 100 separate cases, a positive record of which is now in the possession of the officers of the law.

When a TIMES reporter asked him at his room in the Hotel Astor where the clues now being followed would lead, he said:

"Newspaper men are my friends. They have been fair with me. They have helped me. But to talk to them now is to talk to the 'other fellow,' for the 'other fellow' reads what is written every day, and he reads cleverly between the lines. My message to the people just now is simply this: the trail is an open one, and we are following it without any difficulty.

"We know where it will lead, but we cannot now state this. We know where we stand, and whoever is at the end of the trail will have to pay the penalty of his mistakes. Some day, when this thing is all over and the people realize its magnitude, I am going to get hold of some good, clear-headed newspaper man whom I know to be open minded and able to write plainly, and tell him how it was done. The real story has never been told. It has hardly even been guessed."

An idea of the strain under which Mr. Fredericks works may be appreciated from this incident. When THE TIMES reporter knocked at his door he called "Come in." He sat at a desk at the far end of the room, and was watching the door. He is a tall man with rugged features, and every line of him denotes great physical strength. One long arm rested carelessly on the writing desk, and a big hand sprawled over a sheet of typewriting paper, beneath which could be seen the outline of a revolver.

"What is it, a thirty-two or a thirty-eight?" the reporter asked.

"A thirty-eight; but please let's have none of that. I hate such things, they look dramatic. But more than once now it has been a question of life and death with me, and I never know how it is going to work out."

It was learned that only yesterday morning he was accosted by a man in the Subway, who tried to pick a quarrel with him.

Mr. Fredericks told something of the detail with which the dynamiting cases have been built up. He has a book of signatures of the McNamara brothers, which consists of more than 500 pictures of signatures on hotel registers, of express receipts, manuscript visiting cards, freight orders, and penciled memoranda. On one page of the book appears J. B. Bryce, J. B. McNamara, J. B. Smith, S. J. Miller, F. Miller, Frank Sullivan, and Frank Caldwell, all written by J. B. McNamara.

"It was the letter 'S' which made this work easy for us," said Mr. Fredericks, "for you will notice that it is similar in all cases." One picture is that of an American Express receipt from Milwaukee to a far Western city, bearing the signature of J. B. McNamara, a receipt for dynamite. Another is an enlargement of a little visiting card, upon which chemicals were used to bring to light the faded pencil lines of the inscription, "Ask for Bryce." Bryce was the name used by McNamara at San Francisco, when he bought the dynamite with which the Times Building was eventually destroyed. In this book is a fac simile of practically every code wire sent by the men at work in the conspiracy.

One thing brought out clearly in the interview with the Prosecutor was his loyalty to honest labor's cause. Laboring men, he says, had been bitterly misled. They simply elected officers of their organizations, voted upon them, and then went on with their work. He does not regard the acts of violence which have been uncovered as in any sense an expression of labor's views.

"The fight at Los Angeles was not a fight against labor," he said. "It was a battle for the supremacy of the law. If we can't have that we're down and out. The rank and file of labor is honest, fair, and square and manly. But many of the men in power were out-and-out criminals. It is positively a sad thing that this terrible calamity should have hit honest men."

BOWLER MUST PAY $33,700.

Ex-Harvard Student and Forger Mulcted for Notes to Woman.

DEDHAM, Mass., Jan. 18.—A verdict for $33,700 against George P. Bowler of Boston, a former Harvard student, who attracted attention by his financial transactions some time ago, and served a sentence for forgery, was returned in the Norfolk Superior Court to-day in the suit brought by H. Colby Little of City Mills to recover on two promissory notes.

The notes, for $15,000 and $10,000, respectively, were dated at New York in 1906. They were made payable to the order of Edith Stevens Reynolds and indorsed to the order of H. C. Little. The plaintiff set forth that the notes were delivered to her before maturity and for value, and that she had demanded payment and been refused. The verdict gives the plaintiff full value of the notes, with interest to date.

BOY COASTER KILLED BY A GOULD AUTO

Sled Ran Into Howard's Car at a Dangerous Port Washington Crossing—Companion Dying.

ANOTHER DEAD IN RIVERSIDE

Thrown Against Rock on Last Slide Before Going to Supper—Truant Pupil Killed at Farmingdale, L. I.

Cyril Rumens and John De Mar, schoolboys, of Port Washington, L. I., each 12 years old, had only one sled yesterday afternoon, but they managed to coast down the long hill through the woods there by lying full length on the sled, one above the other. Every time they went down the dozens of other children, on the hill with their sleds, stopped to watch and laugh, for usually the youngsters lost their balance somewhere on the hill and were pitched out into the snow.

They had got a fine start and were coasting down the hill with the speed of an express train, late in the afternoon, their companions watching for the almost inevitable upset, when Howard Gould's automobile, driven by William Holland, and carrying several servants from the Gould place to the railroad station, appeared in the Old Hicksville Road, which the coasting hill crosses at right angles.

Auto and sled were less than a dozen feet apart when the machine flashed out from behind the trees and clumps of bushes which line the coasting hill. Each was traveling fast and before Holland could turn or stop his car, or the boys roll off their sled, the sled drove into the iron shod running board at the auto's side between the front and rear wheels and the boys were tossed into the road. The rear wheels of the car passed over young Rumens, but De Mar was thrown clear of the running gear. Like Rumens, however, he lay still on the snow.

Auto Stops to Help.

A crowd of frightened children ran down the hill to where the boys lay, and Holland, stopping his car as quickly as he could, returned to them. He put the boys in the automobile and then drove at full speed to Dr. William Cock's sanitarium.

Dr. Cock saw at once that young Rumens was dead. He said the child's skull had been fractured and he probably had been dead before the wheels of the auto crossed his body.

Young De Mar was still unconscious, and the physician said his condition was serious. He said the boy had concussion of the brain and probably internal injuries. He said there was practically no hope of his recovery.

The hill on which the accident occurred is an ideal place for coasting, but has been considered dangerous because it crossed the Old Hicksville Road and is concealed from the view of travelers on the road by the bushes and trees. To-day's accident is the first which has occurred, however, and though there was talk in town of forbidding sledding on the hill, nothing had been done. It is believed now that the authorities will put a ban on sledding on the hill.

Killed on His Last Coast.

Several men and women saw a crowd of small boys running away from the hill in Riverside Drive at Ninetieth Street late yesterday afternoon. They went over and found a small boy unconscious beside an overturned sled. They called Policeman Flood of the West 100th Street Station, who got Dr. Baldwin and an ambulance from the Red Cross Hospital.

The boy was hurried there, but died a few moments afterward. An instant later the boy's mother, Mrs. O'Hare of 613 Amsterdam Avenue, hurried into the hospital. She was hysterical, and almost collapsed when she learned her boy was dead.

She said that the youngster, whose name was Thomas and who was 10 years old, had gone out after school with several other boys to coast on the hill. She was worrying over his failure to return to supper when some of his companions called.

They told her that Thomas had been about to return home when he had decided to coast down the hill just once more. With another boy on the sled he started, and near the foot of the hill tried to steer his sled around a corner. It overturned, and he was thrown head first against a rock. His companion was tossed off, too, but was unhurt. When the other lads saw Thomas unconscious and bleeding from a cut in the head they became frightened and ran away.

Schoolboy Truant Dead.

While coasting on the Nassau Street hill, at Farmingdale, L. I., on Wednesday night, James McKenna, 15 years old, a pupil in the Nazareth Trade School, was thrown against a tree and died five hours later of a fractured skull.

The hill was crowded with boys and girls on sleds. McKenna, wth a lantern in one hand, was trying to steer his sled with the other. A runner caught in a rut and the sled overturned, hurling him against the tree.

His parents live at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y. The boy had left the school without permission and at the time of the accident a search was being made for him.

SIX GIRL TEACHERS HURT.

Their Sled Crashes Into Telegraph Pole on Park Hill Avenue, Yonkers.

Six young women teachers of Public School 18 in Yonkers, who had watched the small boys and girls coasting down Park Hill Avenue, Yonkers, for the last few days, decided yesterday that under cover of darkness they would have a coast themselves. They borrowed a big bob sled from Charles Clancy of Lowrie, and about 9:30 o'clock went to Park Hill Avenue. The hill slopes down some 1,300 feet into McLean Avenue, where there is a slight turn to the left. The girls negotiated the trip several times, but presently the girl at the helm lost control, and the big sled ran into the curbstone, jumped over it, and crashed into a telegraph pole. The girls were tossed off and all were injured. They are:

BAKER, Miss LULU, 20 Highland Place, to St. John's Hospital; badly bruised.

GUERNSEY, Miss MARION, 530 Van Cortlandt Avenue, to St. John's Hospital; left leg broken.

GUERNSEY, Miss MARY, to St. John's Hospital; both legs broken.

HOFFMAN, Miss RUTH, 20 Highland Place; badly bruised; taken home.

SHORT, Miss AGNES, 15 Stanley Place; badly bruised; taken home.

WHITNEY, Miss, 15 Stanley Place, to St. John's Hospital; badly cut scalp.

Miss Mary Guernsey was at the wheel of the big sled, the other girls sitting in single file behind her. The sled had attained high speed, and was descending nicely along the middle of the hill when Miss Guernsey sighted an automobile truck ahead of her. To others on the hill who were watching the girls it seemed that she need not have turned out. She tried to, however.

The twist of the steering wheel threw the rapidly moving sled from its course. It bounded across the road, hit the curbstone, jumped this, and crashed into the telegraph pole. When the sled first left its course the girls began to scream. Their cries were redoubled as the sled hit the curb, and then they were silenced for an instant when the crash came.

SHIP LOSES RUDDER AT SEA.

The Mount Temple Standing by the Dart, Wireless Message Says.

Capt. W. T. Turner, who is in command of the Cunard liner Carmania on her incoming trip, while the Mauretania is out of commission, transmitted the following wireless message late yesterday from Capt. Moore of the British steamship Mount Temple:

"Report us standing by steamer Dart of London with rudder gone. Will take her into St. John's, N. F."

KING GEORGE TO VISIT US?

London Paper Suggests Duke of Connaught's Trip Prepares the Way.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The coming visit of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and their daughter, Princess Patricia, to New York is the subject of further comment to-day.

In a leading article The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"The trip of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught to New York prepares the way for the fulfillment of one of King Edward's dearest wishes—the visit of an English monarch to the White House."

Max Nordau Declares Jews' Situation Will Be Worse Than Before.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Jewish Chronicle prints a letter from Max Nordau, the noted writer, with reference to the abrogation of the Russo-American treaty, in which he says that President Taft could not help denouncing the treaty, but managed to do it in such a way as to enable Russia impudently to affirm that the passport question had nothing to do with it.

"Russia will not yield to the United States," says Dr. Nordau. "I will not insist that no other Government will imitate the United States, but the English Jews won't stir. The situation for the Jews in Russia will be worse than before, and the anti-Semites in America will make the American Jews pay heavily for their manful stand—that's all."

FORCING AMERICANS OUT.

Persian Treatment Resented by Former Aids to Shuster.

TEHERAN, Jan. 18.—Since the departure of the former Treasurer General, W. Morgan Shuster, the Cabinet's communications to the American officials appear to have become increasingly provoking and insulting in tone. It is generally believed that the intention of the Cabinet is to induce Americans voluntarily to abandon their contracts, since the British and Russian Governments do not desire their continuance in the Persian service and Persia does not desire to pay compensation in case of a breach of contract.

The Foreign Minister has sent a scathing reprimand to F. E. Cairns, who temporarily succeeded Mr. Shuster in the Treasury Department for entering into direct communication with the British, Russian, and American Legations regarding previous Government communications. It should be understood that the Americans are the sole foreign officials in Persia whose Government is not expected to support their interests other than their personal rights. The English, Belgian, Swedish, and Italian officials are directly supported by their respective Governments, the Belgian Government strongly pressing the appointment of M. Mornard as Treasurer General.

COLD VICTIMS TO CUT ICE.

Weather That Drove Homeless to City's Shelter Also Provided Work.

Since the first spell of real cold weather this Winter Charities Commissioner Michael J. Drummond and Supt. W. C. Yorke of the Municipal Lodging House have been trying to find work for the men who have sought shelter in the Municipal Lodging House. Yesterday afternoon Commissioner Drummond went to Hoboken, N. J., and arranged with the Alton Ice Company to employ 300 men to cut ice at Greenwood Lake and Lake Hopatcong at $1.75 a day.

The Commissioner then bought gloves, sweaters, arctics, heavy caps, leggings, and other necessaries of apparel for the men. Transportation was furnished, and last night the 300 left for the company's offices.

UNITE TO WIN COLONISTS.

Northwest Urged by Hill to Co-operate, Not Compete.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 18.—Adoption of the principles of "big business"—friendly combination and co-operation rather than the scramble of ruthless competition—is urged upon the seven States of the Northwest in their campaign for immigrants and colonists by James J. Hill, Chairman of the board of the Great Northern Railway, in a statement issued to-day on the work of the new Northwest Development League.

One Immigration Bureau for seven States instead of a bureau in each State and a cessation of efforts of the individual States to entire settlers from one Commonwealth into another will, Mr. Hill says, mean large gains in desirable immigrants, and every dollar expended will do the work that five do now.

Mr. Hill emphasizes the fact that industrial and commercial prosperity cannot be provided by legislative artifice or other political means.

The States in the league are Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and the Territory of Alaska.

MORSE PARDONED IN DEATH'S SHADOW

President Commutes Sentence of Banker, Who Says "Thank God!" on Hearing News.

MAY LIVE ONLY FEW WEEKS

Too Weak to Be Removed from Sick Ward, Now That the Long Fight for Freedom Is Won.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—A warrant for the commutation of the sentence of Charles W. Morse was signed at 6 o'clock to-night, to take effect at once. The fact was promptly telegraphed to the Warden of the Atlanta penitentiary.

Designated as a special messenger by the Attorney General's office, Mrs. Morse left Washington to-night for Atlanta, bearing the commutation papers.

"I thank God," she said, just before she boarded the train. "I could not have lived longer under the strain. My heart was breaking. Mr. Morse's life is almost ended. No human being can know the suffering I have endured since my husband's imprisonment; I tried every means to bring about his release.

"President Taft's act was one of simple justice. If my husband did any wrong he has more than paid the penalty. His life has been forfeited. I have always believed and always will believe that he was an innocent man—the scapegoat of others.

"I have no hope that my husband will live more than two months, even though we can get him to Carlsbad, where he will have the benefit of the baths.

"I have no criticism to make against any one. I know all the officers acted according to a sense of duty. But it is hard—hard to think that my husband's life has been taken from him, and that he is paying the forfeit of his life. The Judge never intended to sentence him to death."

The President's decision to act came after a long conference with Attorney General Wickersham, who yesterday went over the case in detail with Morse's attorneys. A little after 5 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Wickersham went to the White House, taking with him a warrant for commutation, already filled out, and this document the President signed after giving careful consideration to a long series of medical reports, which seemed to indicate that in doing this he would be giving the sick man only a few months, possibly only hours, to live in liberty before the end of his life shall come.

This statement was given out at the White House:

"The President this afternoon commuted the sentence of Charles W. Morse, to expire at once. This action was taken upon the recommendation of the Attorney General, based on the following report of Surgeon General Torney:

"'A careful review of these reports make it clear to my mind that he is suffering from a combination of diseases, due to degenerative changes, which are incurable and progressive. The reports show that both the condition of the kidneys and of the heart are growing worse.

"'I regard the attack of cardiac dyspnoea, or heart block, from which he suffered on the morning of the 15th instant as an ominous occurrence. In my opinion, the prisoner's duration of life will be, in all probability, less than one month if kept in confinement, and in the event of his release under commutation of sentence it is not probable that he will live as long as six months.'"

Investigations by Surgeons.

By direction of the President last month a special board of army medical officers consisting of Col. H. P. Birmingham, Major P. C. Fauntleroy, and Major F. F. Russell, was sent to Atlanta to make a careful diagnosis of Morse's case and report as speedily to the President as possible. The board made a flying trip to Fort McPherson, where Morse had been removed from the penitentiary a few weeks before, to be under the special care of Major Frank C. Baker, surgeon at that post. The board spent a few hours with Morse and consulted with Major Baker, and on its return to Washington made a report to the effect that tne prisoner was not in such a condition that the board could say that he would not regain a large measure of his health and live for years, and at the same time he might die within a few months. The medical officers cited cases where men, who had the same maladies that afflicted Morse, have been supposed to be dying, have been unconscious a week or ten days, and then have recovered to live ten years or more.

The report led the President to refuse at that time to commute the sentence or grant the pardon that was asked. In the meantime Major Baker was directed to make frequent reports to the Surgeon General on the case, and Dr. Fowler of Atlanta, who was retained by Mrs. Morse, was permitted to forward to the Surgeon General and the Attorney General regular reports of his observations of the case.

The reports of the two men tallied closely and went far to satisfy the Surgeon General, and later the Attorney General and the President, that a painstaking effort was being made to get at the truth as to Morse's condition.

The President decided last week that Morse should be taken to the Hot Springs Army Hospital, but the prisoner could not be removed and it was decided that the trip would hasten his death.

A Serious Sinking Spell.

Major Baker's orders were to send a report each week, but of late he has sent three extra reports because of the sinking spell Morse suffered Monday night. Major Baker was awakened by the nurse coming from Morse's bedside and summoning him to come and endeavor to give him relief from an aggravated condition of heart failure. By means of heroic remedies Morse was saved from what seemed to be approaching death. Major Baker sent a full report of this by telegraph to Gen. Torney, and the matter was duly reported to the President. The next day Mrs. Morse was in Washington to see the Attorney General, but was not able to do so and went on to New York. Morse's attorneys also came here that day and remained until to-day to see Mr. Wickersham, and, if necessary, the President.

There is grave doubt whether Morse can stand removal from Fort McPherson now, but as soon as he can be moved he will be taken to the home of F. L. Seely in Atlanta, where he will have every comfort. The interest of Mr. Seely, who is the owner of The Atlanta Georgian, in Morse's case began soon after the arrival of the prisoner at the penitentiary. A New York reporter, who was assigned to report the trial and had conceived a positive conviction of the guilt of the man, was sent to Atlanta when Morse was taken there from New York and on the way had the opportunity to become acquainted with him with the result that he was won over to faith in Morse and a desire to help him if he could. This new-found friend went to Mr. Seely and told him what he knew of the banker prisoner and asked him to be friendly to him.

From knowledge of the self-sacrifice of Morse's wife the interest of Seely and his immediate friends grew, and they became ardent advocates of the man's pardon.

SAYS "THANK GOD!" AT NEWS.

Morse May Die Any Minute, Says Post Commandant.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18.—"Thank God!" said Charles W. Morse when told to-night that he had been pardoned by President Taft. Morse is very weak, and the ejaculation with which he received the news was hardly more than a whisper.

Warden Moyer, in whose custody Morse has been for two years, received a telegram this afternoon from Washington advising him of the action of the President. He drove to Fort McPherson and was conducted to Morse's sick room.

Morse, however, had heard of the pardon before the Warden's arrival, having been told by Major Baker, the post surgeon. To the Warden's information Morse simply replied that he was glad to be a free man again, but was in no way elated over what was told him. Warden Moyer saw the patient was weak and highly nervous, made so probably by the good news, and remained in the sick room but a few minutes.

At the military post, none except those having official business with Morse was allowed to even enter the hospital.

It is hardly likely that Morse will leave the fort soon. The present indications are that it will be some time before he is able to stand even the short trip to the city, and until he is he will remain in the ward he has occupied since the transfer from the penitentiary.

"Morse is likely to die at any time," said Col. J. T. Vanorsdale, commanding at Fort McPherson. "On Sunday night Morse's pulse action dropped to 38. Ammonia was administered to bring about a quick restoration. Since then his pulse has been kept up almost to normal by the administration of alcoholic stimulation—whisky and brandy. To-day's medical report shows no improvement in his condition over that of yesterday. If anything, he is a little worse. His condition is really critical."

Morse's only relative was his sister, who has been here several weeks. Miss Morse wept when she heard the news of the pardon.

Dr. A. L. Fowler, who was physician at the penitentiary when Morse was brought to Atlanta, and has been attending him at the hospital at Fort McPherson, said to-night:

"There is no hope for Charles W. Morse. I do not believe he will ever recover. The diseases he is afflicted with are positively incurable, and though they have no crises, are inevitably fatal.

"He might die at any minute. He may live several months. I do not think he can possibly live more than a year, and I do not think he will ever be able to undertake any active work again. He was afflicted with these diseases before January, 1911.

"It will be impossible to move him from Fort McPherson for at least a week and possibly ten days. He may never be able to leave there. No plans have been made as to where he will be taken, if he does leave Atlanta, though his New York physician has recommended that he be taken to Neuheim, Germany, a famous health resort."

Dr. Fowler would not say whether Morse acquired the diseases from which he is suffering before or after entering the penitentiary.

MORSE'S CHILDREN REJOICE.

Three, Living in Baltimore, Hope He Will Come There.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 18.—"That is the best news I ever heard," said Harry F. Morse to-night, when told his father was to be released. Three of the Morse children—Benjamin W., Harry F., and Anna Morse—have been quietly residing in a pretty cottage in Elsinore Avenue, Walbrook, a suburb of this city. Few persons in the neighborhood were aware that they were the children of the convicted former banker.

The eldest son, Harry, is Secretary of the Knickerbocker Ice Company, here. He and his sister and brother have made their home here for several months. The announcement of their father's release was made the occasion for a home rejoicing to-night.

Miss Anna Morse returned from Atlanta yesterday. She said her father was a physical wreck and that his one desire was to spend his remaining days with his family. A family conference will be held in a few days to determine what can be done for him. If his condition will permit, he may be taken to some health resort. His children hope that he may sufficiently improve to be brought to Baltimore.

BATH, Me., Jan. 18.—The news of the pardoning of Charles W. Morse by President Taft aroused this city, which is the birthplace of the financier, to a high pitch of excitement and joy.

A band was called out and bonfires were lighted. Led by the band, several hundred men marched through the streets, burning red fire and cheering for Morse and Taft. Telegrams were sent to Mr. and Mrs. Morse and to the President, extending congratulations.

Charles W. Morse was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on Feb. 12, 1908, on the charge of violating the National banking laws in his management of the affairs of the National Bank of North America, and was arrested upon his arrival here from Europe on April 30. He pleaded not guilty, and on Oct. 15 his trial was begun in the United States District Court and lasted until Nov. 3. Three days later the jury brought in a conviction, and the following day he was sentenced by Judge Hough to serve fifteen years in the Federal Prison at Atlanta.

From that time he has made an unrelenting fight to obtain his freedom, aided by his wife and thousands of friends. Through his counsel, Congressman Martin W. Littleton, who entered the case on Jan. 17, 1909, Morse obtained his release on $125,000 bail, pending the outcome of an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals. This was on June 16, 1909. He lost his appeal and was returned to the Tombs on Oct. 12. Still the fight was kept up, and on Dec. 6 the Circuit Court denied an application for a writ of certiorari. Morse lost practically his last chance to escape his sentence of fifteen years on Dec. 29, 1909, when Judge Hough, before whom he was tried, handed down a decision in the Circuit Court, holding that the court had no jurisdiction to pass upon a motion for a new trial, based upon allegations of improper influence upon the jury which convicted Morse and also that the motion "lacked merit."

Morse began service of his term on Jan. 3, 1910. He had been confined in the Tombs for ten months before he was taken to Atlanta.

While out on bail pending decision on his appeals Morse was an active figure in the financial district, and on Oct. 2, 1909, he stated that he had made approximately $7,500,000, which he had applied to wiping out his debts and then had but $500,000 more to pay before the old scores were all settled. Only a few days before that he had been elected President of the Hudson Navigation Company, and he expressed confidence that he would be acquitted.

Not many weeks after Morse was taken to Atlanta his wife started petitions asking President Taft to pardon the banker. One of these petitions, containing 500,000 names, was sent to the President on Dec. 14, 1910. Prior to that, in May, 1910, Mrs. Morse had obtained the signatures of 200 Congressmen to a petition, but received a cold reception in the Senate. Morse had characterized himself as a "victim" in an interview, and Mrs. Morse, in what was conceded to be one of the most remarkable documents of the kind ever sent to Washington, declared that the sentence imposed upon her husband was "outrageous." President Taft, however, refused to pardon him.

On May 24 last President Taft again denied applications for clemency, declaring that the "record shows moral turpitude of that insidious and dangerous kind to punish which the National banking laws were especially enacted." The spirit of Morse was apparently broken by these fruitless efforts, and soon reports spread that his health was rapidly failing.

Friends again appealed to President Taft, but the President, relying on the opinions of three Government physicians, for the third time refused a pardon. It was said then, however, that the President was reluctant that a dying man should be kept in close confinement, and that if his condition was later declared hopeless he would set the prisoner free.

Morse Concern Receivers Discharged.

William T. Cobb, Calvin Austin, and Abel I. Culver, receivers of the Metropolitan Steamship Company, of which Charles W. Morse was elected President while he was out on bail pending his appeal from his fifteen-year sentence of imprisonment, were discharged yesterday. They were appointed in the litigation begun by the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company and the American Trust Company. In their final report they show total operation receipts between Feb. 4, 1908, and Oct. 31, 1909, of $2,785,865 and total operating expenses of $2,362,055, leaving net earnings of $423,810.

TUG RAMS FERRYBOAT IN HELL GATE TIDE

Twenty Passengers Seize Life Preservers as Ferryboat Threatens to Break on Mill Rock.

STRUCK ABOVE WATER LINE

Ferryboat Bowery Bay Gets a Line to Steinway from Astoria and Tows Her to a Landing.

For half an hour a group of sixteen men and four women on a ferryboat drifted in the Hell Gate tide last night while the nose of a seagoing tug was rammed fast into the upperworks of the ferryboat, which was crossing from Astoria to the foot of East Ninety-second Street. The great danger was that either boat would crash into Mill Rock, on which the current was splitting itself in midstream. From this danger they were finally rescued by another ferryboat, which threw them a line, and gradually worked them into the East River shore. The passengers discarded hastily adjusted life belts as they were helped ashore.

The lucky feature of the accident was that the tug smashed through the ferryboat's prow above the water line. The collision occurred at 8:30 o'clock, while the ferryboat Steinway was coming from the Long Island shore toward Manhattan. The tide was running stronger than usual and the ferryboat had trouble in getting through the east channel. In midstream it stopped, turned around and, drifting down stream, sought the west channel, where its skipper figured the going would be easier.

As the ferryboat swung into the west channel the sea-going tug Asher J. Hudson, on its way to New Bedford, came puffing slowly up against the tide. Neither boat could do much manoeuvring in the fast water, and they met head on.

Robert Moon, Captain of the tug, attempted to pull his craft loose by reversing the engines, but in this he was not successful. The two boats turned side on to the current and started toward Mill Rock, while a scream went up from the cabin where the twenty passengers had been seated.

Passengers rushed out to the main deck, only to meet Owen Cavanaugh and James Costigan, deck hands, who were intent upon driving them indoors again. They all tried to get out the life preservers at once, and as they fumbled their way into them the deck hands lent valuable aid, at the same time assuring the more excited ones that there was no danger and that the boat was all right at the water line.

As the two boats swung toward Mill Rock the ferryboat Bowery Bay, in charge of Capt. Maxwell Kahn, put out from the Manhattan shore to offer aid. The Bowery Bay came alongside about two city blocks off Mill Rock and succeeded in passing a line to the Steinway. Her pilot soon found that he could do nothing with the two boats, so far as making headway against the tide was concerned, so he decided to drift with it, making for the shore at an angle sharp enough to keep well out from Mill Rock.

Capt. Kahn with his tow pulled in at Eighty-ninth Street at 9:10 o'clock, and then worked northward, hoping to make the Ninety-second Street ferry slip. In this he failed, but he was able to make headway close to shore and finally tied up alongside a scow at the foot of Ninety-third Street. The Steinway's passengers were helped first to the scow and then up to the sea wall and to land. Several were thoroughly undone by their experience.

BATTEN PURSUED BY WIFE.

Former Mrs. Rothschild Threatens Trouble for Husband Seeking Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Jan. 18.—Eugene C. Batten's fears that his wife would assault him were justified to-day. He was standing on a corner of one of the crowded streets when his wife, who he believed had started East, rushed toward him. He fled and she pursued him for three blocks. Batten kept well ahead of his wife and ran through an alley. He reached the office of his attorney just ahead of the woman and slammed the door.

The divorce hearing to-day was taken up with the question of alimony and counsel fees. Batten said that he loved his wife and would live with her if she would give up drinking.

Mrs. Batten's first husband was David Rothschild, who died in Sing Sing. A few weeks ago his widow was credited with saying that he left a fortune in securities in some safe deposit vault. This she later denied. A box in the name of Rothschild in the Madison Safe Deposit Company was opened, but no fortune found.

MEDAL TO DR. DOTY FOR HEALTH WORK

Honors for Him Announced as the Feature of American Museum of Safety Awards.

AND HIS REMOVAL DOUBTED

A Medal to the Pennsylvania Railroad for Life-Saving Devices and One to the Norton Company.

The American Museum of Safety at its annual exercises in the Engineering Societies' Building last night, presented three gold medals for the greatest achievements in the last year of safeguarding life and limb in American industry and promoting safety and sanitation in daily and industrial life. The first medal, presented by the Scientific American, for the most efficient safety device invented in the last three years, was awarded to the Norton Company of Worcester, Mass., for safety devices in its manufacture of grinding machinery and emery wheels. The second gold medal, presented by the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., for the employer who did most for the protection of the lives and limbs of his workmen by means of safety devices for dangerous machines and processes, was awarded to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The third gold medal was presented by Dr. Louis Livingston Seaman "for progress and achievement in the promotion of hygiene and sanitation, and the mitigation of occupational diseases," but the name of the person to whom this was awarded was not announced in the programme. The award was made, as a dramatic surprise, in the midst of the meeting, to Dr. Alvah H. Doty, recently ordered removed as Health Officer of the Port of New York by Gov. Dix, but acclaimed last night as "the watchful Cerberus at the door of the Port of New York, guarding the Nation's health."

Dr. Doty was not there, but it was announced that the matter of his removal at Albany was not yet settled, and that there was a chance of his remaining as Health Commissioner of this port.

Arthur Williams, Chairman of the museum's Committee of Plan and Scope, presided. He announced that the museum proposed to have a new building at a cost of about $1,000,000, for which an appeal would be made presently to the State and the city government. He introduced Prof. F. R. Hutton, Chairman of the Jury of Award, to present the medals.

Prof. Hutton explained that the jury had made its awards on the basis of these requirements for all safety devices or processes submitted to it: Wide applicability and the affecting of large numbers of persons, practicability, simplicity, reliability, durability, and commercial availability.

"The first medal," he said, "has been awarded to the Norton Company of Worcester, Mass., for achievements promoting safety in machinery for grinding processes manufactured in its shops, rapidly revolving emery wheels and the like, all attended with numberless dangers, most of which have been eliminated through the careful study and improved protective devices adopted by the Norton Company. The second medal is awarded to the Pennsylvania Railroad for achievements of safety in its shops, the diminishing of accidents to its employes at the bench or operatives on the line, and to the traveling public it carries."

Prof. Hutton paused briefly.

"The Louis Livingston Seaman gold medal," he then continued, "has been awarded to Dr. Alvah H. Doty, who for many years has been the watchful Cerberus at the door of the Port of New York, guarding the Nation's health.

The Medals Conferred.

"It is awarded to him as the man who has achieved more than any other in securing the public health and preventing disease and providing safety for us, our industries, our homes, our children, and all we hold most dear. Dr. Doty himself has telegraphed that he cannot be present to-night, and asks that his friend, Dr. John Winters Brannan, President of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, reply for him."

George N. Jeppson, who received The Scientific American medal for the Norton Company, replied briefly in behalf of his company, telling of the Committee of Safety established by the company to educate the employes into greater carefulness, and to examine each worker for physical defects and guard him against danger in his work.

William Wallace Atterbury, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and in charge of the operating department of the road, replied in behalf of his company, declaring that the great value of the medal is the incentive to the officers of the road to still further achievement.

"Recognizing fully the continuing necessity for this work," he said, "nevertheless, in the future, the work must be extended and carried on along broader lines. Is disregard of human life and limb a fundamental characteristic of the American people? I believe not, but rather the natural result of the lack of proper early education."

Speaks for Dr. Doty.

Dr. Brannan, who has taken a leading part in the defense of Dr. Doty in the recent attack that led to his removal, received the Seaman Medal and thanked the museum in behalf of Dr. Doty.

"To all who know Dr. Doty," he said, "it must be a keen disappointment that he is not here to-night. You know what he has been through all last Summer, when he was fighting the attacks of cholera from Europe, and another attack in this city. He is now in Washington taking a rest. I will say for the benefit of the press that he is not ill. He is on the job all the time, and even to-day, I know, he telephoned several times to Quarantine. But I don't believe even if he were in the city and not resting that you could get him to stand on this platform and listen to laudation. He is the most modest and shy man I know.

"You would not have thought him shy, though, if you had seen him, as I did, diagnosing typhus in fetid dens and tenements on the Bowery twenty years ago, or if you had seen him, as I have seen him, going into the holds of cholera-infected ships last Summer and there handle case after case of deadly cholera. There he was the master, but he couldn't stand on this platform. He would be afraid to face this audience.

"Then, when the State needed a Health Officer in 1894 and 1895 he was appointed by Gov. Morton, not because of political backing, not because he was a Republican—to this day I don't know if he is a Republican—but because leading physicians of New York wrote to Gov. Morton asking Dr. Doty's appointment, and the Governor had the courage to appoint him despite politics. It was an open secret that Gov. Morton had made up his mind to appoint another man who had been recommended by a United States Senator. But when the physicians wrote recommending Doty he told the Senator he would appoint the best man, and turned down the other.

"And after the occurrences of last Summer every one of those physicians who recommended Dr. Doty seventeen years ago wrote to Gov. Dix recommending him again, and in a few instances, where some of those men had died, their sons wrote. Dr. Doty has put not only this city but the State and the entire country under obligations to him for his faithful services in guarding our ports.

"What the outcome at Albany may be is not known. Some of you may think the matter there is settled. I doubt it. The matter is not yet closed. It is still possible that wiser counsel may prevail, and that we may once more have the opportunity of being further protected by Dr. Doty—ourselves, our homes, our wives, and children—against another invasion of epidemic, for it is coming again this Summer, no matter what you say or think. I thank you in the name of Dr. Doty himself, but particularly in behalf of the medical profession of this city and State, and I think I am right when I say the medical profession of the whole country."

The rest of the meeting was taken up with lantern slides illustrating the safety devices used by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Norton Company, and others, and explained by Dr. William H. Tolman, Director of the American Museum of Safety.

The medal to Dr. Doty was a simple golden disk, inscribed with his name and thereunder: "The Louis Livingston Seaman Prize, for Mitigating Occupational Diseases." Dr. Brannan explained that that was only one of the achievements for which the medal was awarded, and that the inscription would be altered so as to name rather the other two, the promotion of hygiene and sanitation, in which Dr. Doty was more truly interested. The jury which decided the awards of the medals consisted of Prof. Hutton, Dr. Charles Kirchoff, President of the Institution of Mining Engineers; T. Commerford Martin, Dr. N. E. Ditman, and Dr. William H. Tolman.

The whole normal process of government has been reversed and Government itself has been privately owned. The phrase may be exaggerated, but it is only the brief epitome of a state of affairs the main facts of which are only too plain.

"And so the progressives are drawing together, not to destroy anything, but to effect a wholesome readjustment; not hastily, not by any too extensive plan which runs beyond what we see and know; but, item by item, we must set the Government free from private control and set business free from private control, so that the economic courses of our life may run free again, and that with their freedom we may return to individual opportunity and open the gates to fresh, untrammeled achievement. This is the gospel of the progressive."

Speaking at the Board of Commerce luncheon this afternoon on "The Patriotic Function of Commerce," Gov. Wilson made the declaration "that the patriotic function of business is vision; we can't have any Trustees for the prosperity of a big nation. Do not be duped by books and men. No individual can interpret life to you. He may know a great many people, but not all the people."

NUGENT UPHOLDS HARVEY.

New Jersey ex-Chairman Says Wilson's Act Was No Surprise.

A statement was given out last night by ex-State Democratic Chairman James R. Nugent, of Newark, N. J., in part as follows:

"I was not surprised to read the statement of Col. Henry Watterson exposing the manner of man Woodrow Wilson has again proved himself to be by his cold-blooded casting off of one who sacrificed real friends in order that he might advance the political fortunes of Mr. Wilson. I had heard of the break between Col. Harvey and Gov. Wilson, and I realized how utterly repugnant the Governor's conduct must have appeared to a man of the fine character and true gentlemanly instincts of Col. Watterson.

"Gov. Wilson had never been ignorant of the services and personal sacrifices made in the cause of his election, and for the success of the Democratic party, by former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., and in a humbler way, perhaps, by myself and others, yet the moment he discerned his ambition of the hour gratified he heartlessly spurned those whose zeal and efforts had developed him into a great political factor and to whom he was most deeply indebted.

"Perhaps the remark I made at a well known New Jersey seashore resort on a certain occasion last summer, in which reference was pointedly made to the lack of verity and of gratitude in the make-up of a certain highly honored gentleman is now better understood than it was."

CAUSES WISCONSIN SPLIT.

Chairman Schutz Says Break with Harvey Injures Wilson's Chances.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 18.—The Wilson supporters' State conference, held to-day, developed a prolonged discussion of the Harvey-Wilson break, but despite the letter issued yesterday by Matt Regan of Milwaukee, demanding that the Wilson men cease their efforts to pledge the State delegation to a candidate who could not be relied upon to support his friends, the conference adjourned after declaring its intention to proceed with the efforts to organize the State for Wilson, regardless of the Harvey controversy.

State Chairman Frank B. Schutz, a former Wilson man, split from the other Wilson supporters with the declaration that the loss of Harper's and Watterson's support would undoubtedly be a blow to the Wilson hopes.

State Committeeman Davies declared: "The Wisconsin Wilson men will stick to Wilson if a hundred Wattersons come out against him."

John Donovan of Milwaukee declared that Wilson could not win with the East and South against him, and that Wisconsin's past experience should teach the Democrats not to become a tail to a kite that would not rise.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 18.—The Harmon leaders to-day held a hurried conference, called as a result of the Watterson-Harvey-Wilson episode, and decided to take advantage of the situation, to push with might and main the Harmon candidacy. The Harmon men expect to win the aid of State Chairman Schutz, formerly a Wilson man, but who since his declaration that Wilson's candidacy will suffer by the Harvey episode, is expected to aid in the Harmon campaign instead.

CALLS WATTERSON HASTY.

W. C. Bruce Says Editor Was Actuated by Kentucky Feud Spirit.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 18.—William Cabell Bruce, a leading independent Democrat, former President of the State Senate, now the President of the Wilson Club of Baltimore, said of Henry Watterson's criticism of Woodrow Wilson:

"After making due allowance for the unexpected directions in which his impulsive and flambouyant pen is apt to hurry him, I cannot but suspect that the real inspiration of this remarkable statement was the belief on the part of the writer that Gov. Wilson had been receiving letters from Kentucky written by enemies of Watterson and warning Gov. Wilson against him.

"Unreasoning animosity engendered by Kentucky fueds appears to have been sufficient, notwithstanding Gov. Wilson's denial that any such letters had even been received by him to induce a statement that not only plainly exaggerates the final significance of what passed between Gov. Wilson and Mr. Harvey, but also plainly indicates that at the time of the interview the mind of the writer was to say the least fully as much influenced by resentment excited by misrepresentations supposed by him to have been made about him to Gov. Wilson as by his sense of ingratitude upon the part of Gov. Wilson to Mr. Harvey.

"I go further. No reasonable man, it seems to me, can read this statement without harboring the thought, too, that if Gov. Wilson had received letters from enemies of Col. Watterson, in Kentucky, warning Gov. Wilson against him, perhaps these letters would have been timely."

NEWLANDS AIDS WILSON.

Senator Withdraws His Name as Candidate—Views on Harvey Incident.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—The publication this morning of Col. Henry Watterson's article on the break between Gov. Wilson and Col. Harvey of Harper's Weekly led to the withdrawal of one candidate for the Democratic nomination, Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, who comes out this evening in a letter to the Chairman of the Nevada Democratic State Central Committee with a vigorous declaration for Wilson and an earnest appeal to the Pacific Coast and inter-mountain States to support the New Jersey candidate. Senator Newlands had been indorsed by the Legislature of Nevada for the Presidency and had received promises of support from other Pacific coast and inter-mountain States. His letter says in part:

> Washington, D. C., Jan. 18, 1912.
> To the Hon. Clay Tallman, Chairman Democratic State Committee, Rhyolite, Nev.
>
> Dear Sir: I received your letter of Dec. 20 regarding the Presidential nomination. I have delayed answering it, as well as many other letters of like import, until I could form my own mind. As to my own candidacy, I appreciate your expression of the sentiment of the Nevada Democracy, and the indorsement of the Nevada Legislature and the earnest solicitations of influential friends in the Pacific Coast and intermountain region during the past few years that I should sanction an organization which would urge me, not as the candidate of a single State, but of an entire section embracing the fifteen or more States of that region, which, it was suggested, look upon me as the representative of certain constructive and reform policies upon which the Democrats of that region were substantially united.
>
> Realizing the importance of solidifying the Democratic sentiment in the West in favor of that candidate who best represents the Democratic conscience and who is most in sympathy with the progressive policies for which the West stands, I have, after earnest reflection and careful inquiry, come to regard Woodrow Wilson as the man who above all other candidates voices the convictions and the aspirations of the American Democracy.
>
> It is evident that the big interests have isolated Wilson from all the other candidates, and have made him the special object of attack. There is all the more reason, therefore, that the Democrats of Nevada and the West should recognize him as the true progressive leader and rally to his support. Very sincerely yours,
> FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS.

Those of the Wilson supporters who were willing to be quoted to-day with one accord declared that the Harvey-Watterson episode did not in the least influence them, and that it would not damage their candidate in any way. Senator Gore of Oklahoma, who has been a consistent Wilson boomer from the first, came out this evening with the following statement:

"This whole Wilson-Harvey-Watterson episode is a mere bubble, not a billow. The people of this country have decided to support Gov. Wilson for the Presidency not because Col. Harvey favored him but because of his record of splendid achievements as Governor of New Jersey, and because of his eminent fitness and availability. The progressive Democracy has not for one moment wavered in its loyalty and support merely because the Governor told the pointblank truth in answer to a pointblank question."

Congressman Hughes of New Jersey had this to say:

"I was both amazed and amused on reading Col. Watterson's statement to learn that he credited Col. George Harvey with being responsible for the present commanding position that Gov. Wilson occupies in the public mind with relation to the Presidency."

NEBRASKA SEEKS ANOTHER.

Dahlman Says Elimination of Wilson Makes New Choice Necessary.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 18.—A Statewide meeting of Nebraska Democrats was called to-day by Mayor James C. Dahlman to confer on Presidential possibilities. The meeting is a result of yesterday's meeting regarding Col. Harvey's editorial in Harper's Weekly on the candidacy of Gov. Woodrow Wilson and the statement of Col. Henry Watterson. Mayor Dahlman was formerly National Committeeman.

The call, in part, reads:

"Realizing that the statements of Col. Watterson and Editor Harvey have made the nomination and election of Gov. Wilson an impossibility, all precinct, county, and district committeemen of the Democratic Party in Nebraska are herewith invited to meet in Omaha at a date soon to be announced to talk matters over.

"Without the support of such men as are now turning their backs upon Gov. Wilson no Democrat can hope to be elected President of this country, and with the elimination of Wilson as a possibility there must of necessity be a realignment of those Democrats who once supported his candidacy."

WESTERN VIEW OF WILSON.

Kansas City Star Says His Record Won't Be Hurt by Controversy.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 18.—Regarding the Wilson-Harvey incident, the Kansas City Star says editorially to-day:

"In view of the affiliations of Harper's Weekly, doubtless Gov. Wilson felt that the support of the editor, his friend, Col. Harvey, was putting him in a false light with the country. Doubtless, too, it might be wished that the Governor had not found it necessary to convey any such intimation to Col. Harvey. A man may have well meaning friends whose assistance he would like to get along without, but which he must simply accept as one of the handicaps to be carried as best he can.

"Nevertheless, the American people are not inclined to be critical in dealing with effective public men whose purposes they believe to be right.

"At Princeton Woodrow Wilson took his life in his hand and struggled for democracy within the university. As Governor of New Jersey he has made a fine record in wresting from a divided and reluctant Legislature a body of progressive laws.

"In all his relations he has shown himself a strong fighter for progressive ideas. His energy, courage, and ability have made him a National leader in the forward movement.

"Against these qualities it is believed his lack of tact in this case will not weigh heavily with the mass of the voters."

WILSON MANAGER EXPLAINS.

C. G. Heiffner Says Governor Feared Harvey's Affiliations.

FARGO, N. D., Jan. 18.—According to the statement of C. G. Heiffner of Seattle, Gov. Wilson's campaign manager in the West, who is attending the Democratic meeting here, the support of Harper's Weekly was personal on the part of Col. Harvey and subjected him to possible criticism by the magazine's owners.

Mr. Heiffner also declared that Gov. Wilson was of the opinion that it would indicate support from J. Pierpont Morgan, and the suggestion was made to Col. Harvey that his support hurt more than it helped.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Norman E. Mack Sends Out Official Notices of Party Gathering.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The official call for the Democratic National Convention to be held at Baltimore on June 25, was issued by Norman E. Mack, Chairman, and Urey Woodson, Secretary of the Democratic National Committee, to-day. The representation and the method of naming of delegates is outlined as follows:

"Delegates and alternates from each State of the Union shall be chosen to the number of two delegates for every Senator and two delegates for every Representative from the States respectively in the Congress of the United States under the Congressional reapportionment of districts based upon the census of 1910. The District of Columbia, Alaska, the Philippines, Hawaii, and Porto Rico are each allotted six delegates.

"In the choice of delegates and alternates the Democratic State or Territorial Committee may, if not otherwise directed by the law of such States or Territories, provide for the direct election of such delegates or alternates if in the opinion of the committees it is deemed desirable and possible to do so with proper and sufficient safeguards. Where such provision is not made, and where the State laws do not provide the manner of such notice, then the delegates and alternates to the said National Convention shall be chosen in the manner that governed the choice of delegates to the last Democratic National Convention."

POSTAL PEOPLE START WAR.

Officials in Cincinnati Will Establish Own Messenger Service.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 18.—The fight between the Postal Telegraph Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company has reached Cincinnati. Officials of the Postal Company are arranging to establish their own messenger service.

For some time mysterious attempts have been made to pick up all the loose Cincinnati and Suburban telephone stock and it was believed that the big telephone concern was trying to get control of the local company, which is the only independent Bell interest in this section. This effort has been abandoned for the present, it is believed, and the Postal Company is now breaking away from the only subsidiary of the American company with which it has been on good terms.

Railway Board Opposes Hook.

FARGO, N. D., Jan. 18.—The North Dakota State Railway Commission last night telegraphed United States Senators McCumber and Gronna of North Dakota, protesting against the appointment of Judge W. C. Hook to the United States Supreme Court. The protest characterized Judge Hook as "an unsafe person to whom to submit the Minnesota rate cases."

GALE OVER BRITAIN WRECKS MANY SHIPS

Steamer Wistow Hall Lost—Only Captain and Three Others Are Saved Out of 57.

OTHER STEAMSHIPS FOUNDER

Large Vessel Disappears Off Aberdeen Coast—Many Small Wrecks, Each Involving a Few Lives.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The gale which still continues in some parts of the United Kingdom has been the most severe in a long period.

About one hundred lives have been lost in shipwrecks and other accidents, and it is feared that the tale of disaster is not yet complete.

Off the Aberdeen coast the weather has been particularly wild. A large steamer was seen to disappear to-day. It may have put to sea, but it is feared that it has been wrecked. Two other wrecks are reported along that coast of which no details can be obtained. Another vessel was seen to founder yesterday, and it is supposed to have been an Aberdeen collier, with fourteen hands.

Nothing has been heard of the steamship which was seen in distress off the Yorkshire coast a day or two ago, and a boat washed ashore at Ramsay, Isle of Man, appears to indicate the wreck of a large trawler. These disasters are in addition to many small wrecks on various coasts, each involving a few lives.

The British steamer Spilsby, from Baltimore for Rotterdam, signaled when passing Portland Bill to-day that she had had a rough passage across the Atlantic, and that one of the mates and a seaman had been lost overboard.

ABERDEEN, Jan. 18.—Fifty-three of the crew of the British steamer Wistow Hall were drowned this morning, when the steamer foundered on the Bulls of Buchan, off the coast of Aberdeenshire. Only Capt. Stoddart and three of the crew reached shore.

Capt. Stoddart, who was resuscitated after a long period of unconsciousness, relates a story of extremely tempestuous weather from the time of leaving the Tyne on Monday. The vessel got into difficulty on Wednesday, when two of the crew were mortally injured. The Captain himself had his spine hurt and his arm broken, confining him to his cabin.

Finally the fires were extinguished, and the vessel was at the mercy of the sea. A few minutes before she struck the steward assisted the Captain to dress. No sooner had he reached the bridge than the steamer crashed on to the rocks. The Captain was washed overboard, and remembered nothing more until he recovered consciousness in the cottage where he is now lying.

Capt. Stoddart was making his first voyage as commander of the Wistow Hall, owing to the illness of the regular master. After Monday the crew had no food or drink, and all of them huddled in the engine room, not daring to venture to the forecastle to procure supplies.

The scene from shore was harrowing. The vessel soon broke up and the crew clung desperately to the wreckage, but every wave claimed a victim. Nothing could be done to help the men, and in a short time all disappeared except the four who were carried by the sea to shore. The lifeboat crew of the village of Bullers tried several times to put out to sea, but their craft was hurled back on to the shore. Most of the drowned sailors were Lascars.

The vessel, which was built at Greenock in 1890, was owned by the Hall Line of Liverpool. She was of 2,139 tons.

The steamer which foundered off Peterhead yesterday in the gale is supposed to be the Frederick Snowden, belonging to the Aberdeen Coal Company. She was laden with coal, on the way to Aberdeen. The owners, however, have no confirmation of her loss. The Frederick Snowden was built in 1866, and displaced 431 tons net.

MILLION A DAY FIRE LOSS.

January One of the Most Disastrous Months Known to Insurance Men.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 18.—During January the fire insurance companies of the country have become liable for $15,000,000 in losses, according to a Hartford company, which is one of the largest in the world. The company acknowledges that it has paid out for adjustments more than twice the amount it has received in premiums, but the numerous fire scares have made new business unusually good.

In the opinion of Hartford fire underwriters, there has never been such a severe and steady drain on their resources for one month as the statistics for January will show. For the first ten days of the year the losses were nearly $10,000,000.

Not many fire insurance companies made big profits in 1911 on their underwriting, the investment side of the business alone sufficing for the carrying through of regular dividends, but this year's beginning is the most discouraging in the memory of local officials.

PARIS STUDENTS PUNISHED.

Medical School Closed Owing to Campaign Against Professor.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The long conflict between the students and the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Paris over an unpopular Professor of Anatomy culminated to-night in an order by the Minister of Instruction closing the Faculty to first and second year students. The period of disbarment is fixed at six months.

The students object to the radical changes introduced in the methods of teaching by Prof. Nicolas, and they are opposed to him, too, because he comes from the University of Nancy.

In spite of the presence of police, Prof. Nicolas has been persistently howled down and pelted with missiles.

In a duel this morning Ferrara's bullet grazed Rey's forehead above the eyebrow. The conditions of the duel were unusually serious. It is said that Rey on leaving for the field, told a friend that he intended to kill Ferrara.

At the word both fired, Rey missing. He fired again, and again missed. At the third shot Rey's pistol snapped. Ferrara, who might easily have killed Rey, refused to fire after the first shot which grazed Rey. Other duels are likely.

ROOSEVELT DOUBLY SILENT.

Won't Discuss the Harvey-Wilson Incident or the Cummins Boom.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt was strictly uncommunicative yesterday when asked to comment upon various phases of the political situation.

"Have you anything to say on the Harvey-Wilson-Watterson incident?" he was asked.

"No," the Colonel replied.

"It has been said in some quarters that the launching of the Presidential boom of Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa might really be in your interest," it was suggested.

"Might it?" inquired the consulting editor of the Outlook.

Asked about the amendments to the proposed arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France as suggested by Senators Root and Lodge Mr. Roosevelt said that he could only repeat his previous declaration that he believes that either resolution would render the treaties entirely acceptable.

STATE WANTS ROOSEVELT.

Governor of West Virginia Calls Sentiment Overwhelming.

CHARLESTON, West Va., Jan. 18.—Gov. William E. Glasscock issued a statement to-night declaring that a canvass of the situation has convinced him that the people of the State are overwhelmingly for Col. Roosevelt for the Republican nomination, and he calls upon the people to elect delegates to the National Convention who will vote for his nomination. Gov. Glasscock says in part:

"I am certain Roosevelt will not seek the nomination or work for it in any way, directly or indirectly, and I believe he would not accept it if it came as the result of intrigue for his personal benefit. But if it comes to him as the result of a genuine popular movement because the people want him to do a job for the people as a whole, because the people as a whole believe that he is the best man to do that job, then I am sure he will accept."

ST. LOUIS FOR ROOSEVELT.

City Committee Indorses Him by Vote of 15 to 10.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 18.—By a vote of 15 to 10 the Republican City Committee of St. Louis to-night indorsed Roosevelt for the nomination for President.

A State-wide movement in the interest of Roosevelt has been started since E. Mont Reilly of Kansas City, President of the Republican Clubs of Missouri, visited Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay.

Through the league clubs, Reilly has made a partial canvass of the State. His reports show that Roosevelt is a 5 to 1 to 20 to 1 favorite over Taft for the nomination, and that a third of the Republicans would vote against Taft if he was renominated.

GET JEWELERS' ERRAND BOY.

After He Had Pawned Mrs. Leroy King's Bracelet—Other Goods Missing.

Mrs. Leroy King of 20 West Eighty-fourth Street, sent a bracelet to Udall & Ballou, jewelers, at 547 Fifth Street recently to be repaired. Detectives Finn and Donovan of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station, saw a boy enter a pawnshop, near the corner of Third Avenue and East Eighty-fourth Street, yesterday afternoon. They were about to follow him, after a wait of perhaps five minutes, and encountered the boy in the store door. He was chewing on something.

He was pushed back into the store, the police say, and a yellow pawn ticket was taken from his mouth. The proprietor of the shop explained the boy had pawned a bracelet, and produced it. The lad, bracelet, and the pawn ticket were taken to the station, where the boy said he was Thomas Barrett, 17 years old, of 3,802 Third Avenue, and employed as an errand boy by Udall & Ballou.

The bracelet he had pawned was Mrs. King's. When she learned the facts she put a valuation of $25 on it, and said she was sorry for the boy.

The jewelers said they had missed goods valued at more than $1,000 since Christmas. Barrett was taken to the Men's Night Court for arraignment, and Magistrate McQuaid held him in $500 bail for trial on a charge of larceny.

RISING IN PEKING TO-DAY IS FEARED

Placard Calls on the People to Resist to the Death the Abdication of the Throne.

YUAN'S GOOD FAITH DOUBTED

He Is Accused of Working Against the Manchus and for Power for Himself—His Troops Kept Idle.

PEKING, Jan. 18.—Foreign legations are preparing for trouble in Peking to-morrow, when the question of the abdication of the throne will be discussed by the Empress Dowager and the Princes. It is not thought that Premier Yuan Shi-Kai will take part in the conference.

An uprising in the capital has been looked for many times in the last few months, and has not materialized, and the outbreak may not occur to-morrow. But it has been long expected that the Manchu irreconcilables will unite in a massacre when all hope for the Administration has vanished.

A placard posted to-night indicates that the Manchu threats may be fulfilled. It calls upon all loyal Manchus and Chinese to resist the abdication of the Emperor to the death.

The streets near the office of the Foreign Board, at which Yuan Shi-Kai resides, are heavily guarded by the Premier's own men, of whom it is said there are 3,500. Many Chinese who have not yet deserted the city are preparing for flight to-morrow, and prominent followers of Yuan Shi-Kai are taking refuge outside their own homes to-night, hoping that in the event of a massacre they will not be found.

The charges that Yuan Shi-Kai has been disloyal to the Manchus, although pretending to support them, are attracting the attention of foreigners, as well as the Manchus and Chinese. Some of the revolutionaries have long been saying that he was working for the overthrow, not the salvation, of the dynasty, but it has been thought that this charge was designed to discredit the Premier with the Manchus. Others charge Yuan with working for his own interests, and that he intended to become dictator, if he did not assume the throne.

The Imperialists who distrust him point out that Yuan has persistently withdrawn his army, although the trained troops could easily disperse the untrained rebel volunteers. It is also said that the withdrawal of the army from Nanking was at Yuan's order.

Even after obtaining sufficient money from the Empress Dowager and the Princes for a month's campaign, and after a request by the Generals that they be permitted to fight, Yuan continues to withdraw his forces. The proposition which he is now making to Wu Ting-Fang is thought to be tantamount to a dictatorship. It is understood that he offers the abdication of the Throne if the Government is left in his hands until a properly elected National Assembly shall decide the form of Government.

Whether the suspicions against the Premier are false or true, they receive sufficient credence to cause the organization of anti-abdication bodies, against which Yuan Shi-Kai has been compelled to take measures of defense, and it is authoritatively stated that the bomb outrage against his life was the work of a Manchu faction.

So complex, indeed, is the situation that the foreign Ministers no longer attempt to elucidate it for their Governments.

The three men who were arrested after they had thrown the bomb at the carriage of the Premier were executed this morning. They were strangled by the public executioner.

The United States troops from Manila are expected to arrive on the transport Logan at Chin-wang-Tao to-morrow morning. Capt. Reeves, Military Attaché of the American Legation, has gone to Chin-wang-Tao to meet them.

TELLS HOW NANKING FELL.

Religious Workers in Besieged City Were Witnesses of Battle.

Nearly all the missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church who were shut off by the revolution in West China are now out of the danger zone is the news cabled yesterday to the Board of Foreign Missions in this city by Bishop Bashford, from Shanghai. Twenty-four of those sent out by the board and sixteen of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society have reached Shanghai from Chungking and Chengtu. The Rev. and Mrs. Spencer Lewis, Dr. J. H. McCartney, and the Rev. W. E. Manly remain behind to look after the native Christians. The others are now attending the West China Conference in Shanghai. The Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Curnow, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Freeman, the Rev. and Mrs. Elrick Williams, and the family of Dr. McCartney are leaving for America.

The revolutionists were under the impression that the imperialists at the South Gate fort would join them, so on the night of the 9th they made an attack on the fort. The imperialists hoisted a white flag to mislead their enemy, and when they advanced opened fire upon them. Lack of ammunition forced them to retreat, but they returned to the attack on the next night. The next day the German and American Consulates moved to the warships at the river port, the gates of the city were closed, and the real siege began. There was much excitement, Dr. Blackstone writes, but the fourteen foreigners were confident they would come to no harm. Order was maintained at the point of the sword, and all who looted or disturbed were beheaded without trial.

Looters Are Beheaded.

Dr. Blackstone saw one case of "justice" delivered on the spot. Three soldiers purchased 25 cents' worth in a store, but paid only 10 cents. A rumpus followed, and an officer, riding by, dismounted and had the three soldiers beheaded. Three Manchu soldiers robbed a missionary of $300. They were soon captured, beheaded, and their heads carried on polls while a warning was shouted to all. Then followed wholesale beheading, for when the outbreak came it was suspected that many revolutionists were in the city. A student, passing the mission house, was beheaded and his heart cut out. His 'ricksha man suffered the same fate. The announcement that all queueless Chinamen would be beheaded was followed by a search of the city for such, and the missionaries helped many to get away.

Revolutionists Take Fort.

"Thursday, the 30th, was the day that saw the hardest fighting," Dr. Blackstone writes, "and marked the time of victory. Early in the evening the booming of the cannon at the South Gate Fort began, and was soon followed by a continuous roar of musketry. We listened to this battle with intense interest, knowing that the revolutionists would make a desperate effort to capture the fort this time, as it was their fourth attack. The big guns shot forth red flames, which flashed against the smoke and clouds, adding to the weirdness of the tragedy. At one time we could hear spent bullets dropping near us, which were from the revolutionists firing from the further side of the fort toward the city. Finally, after about three hours, a big charge was made, the great guns were worked at a rapid rate, and the roar of the musketry doubled; then a perfect fusillade of explosions, heavier than the musketry, followed, and immediately all was silent, and we knew the fort had been taken.

"Later in the night very heavy firing started up at the Northeast Gate, outside of which there is a high mountain, within a half-mile of the wall. There had been continuous light firing going on there for eighteen hours, and after midnight the firing increased to a regular bombardment. The day previous we had seen the imperial tents at the first peak of this mountain, where 250 imperial soldiers were stationed with rapid-fire and mountain guns. Above them on a higher peak we had seen the revolutionists take a stand with mountain artillery. The fort just inside this Northeast Gate had two 6-inch, two 4.7-inch, and two 8-inch guns, these being manned by Tartar soldiers, probably because this fort is near to and overlooks the Tartar city. On the north side of the city are the Tiger and Lion Hill Forts, both of which were in action in this battle. With the three forts in action and the two mountain artilleries also, we had by far the fiercest cannonading of the whole siege. Just before daylight a fierce rush was made, and the victory was won. Eighty of the "Dare-to-Die" band had charged the height and, with hand bombs, drove the imperialists in a wild flight down the mountain."

Mere Boys as Soldiers.

Dr. Blackstone declares the work of the young soldiers, mere boys, was characterized by the highest bravery, and that, with proper training, they will make the greatest fighters the world can produce.

Negotiations for the surrender were conducted by Vice Consul Gilbert, the Rev. A. J. Bowen, and a Mr. Tseo.

When word came that Gen. Jang Hsuin had fled through the North Gate and escaped across the river, the soldiers began to loot. The havoc they wrought, writes Dr. Blackstone, was awful. The local police went out after the looters. As fast as they were caught they were beheaded in a brutal fashion. Two were caught at the doctor's gate. One was beheaded, and he interfered and saved the other man's life. The looting was not directed against the foreigners. The mutilated bodies of soldiers were strewn about the streets.

Dr. Blackstone heard that the gunners in charge of the imperial fort at Nanking were revolutionists, and worked the guns with the officers standing over them with drawn swords. They shot to miss.

The missionaries witnessed the burning of the Manchu City, a step made necessary because there were eighteen mines secreted there. The Manchus were well treated by the victors, none being killed except those who resisted or who had arms hidden. The populace were delighted with the change, for they felt they were in the hands of their friends.

GERMAN SPY TO SIBERIA.

Anger Over Russian Sentence—Spies in Germany More Fortunate.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—The greatest indignation prevails in the highest German military quarters owing to the severity of the sentence just imposed upon a Captain of the German General Staff for espionage in Russia.

The officer has been condemned to five years in a convict gang in Siberia. He is a relative of a General of a German Army corps, and his aged parents are prostrated over their son's fate.

The sentence is contrasted with the mild punishment of three years' detention in a fortress imposed by the Supreme Court at Leipsic to-day upon Baron von Vinogradoff, a Russian officer, for the attempted betrayal of German military secrets.

LEIPSIC, Jan. 18.—Sentneces were imposed on two spies by the Imperial Supreme Court to-day.

Baron Vinogradoff, a Lieutenant in the Russian Navy, and Lieut. von Cerno, belonging to the reserve of the Hungarian Army, were both condemned to three years' imprisonment. Baron Vinogradoff is to be confined in a fortress, while von Cerno is to serve his term in an ordinary prison.

The espionage of which they were convicted was connected with naval matters. Baron Vinogradoff was detailed to supervise the operations of von Cerno and stimulate him to further activity. While they were engaged in this work German secret service police captured them.

TO JAIL FOR POETRY.

Morosoff, in Prison Most of His Life, Again Sentenced.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—"Darkest Russia" says that N. A. Morosoff, the Russian genius who, in spite of the fact that he has spent the greater part of his life in prison and exile, has made a name for himself for researches in chemical and physical science, has been sentenced to another year's confinement in a fortress in connection with a volume of poems published by him in 1906.

Morosoff was first arrested when he was a student at the University of Moscow for spreading Socialistic ideas among the peasants. In 1881 he was again arrested in connection with an attempt on the life of Emperor Alexander II. and also on account of his literary activities. He was kept a prisoner in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul and Schlusselburg until the revolution of 1905, but was released in October of that year.

As soon as he regained his freedom he took to writing poetry, the publication of the first volume leading to his recent arrest.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 18.—The press is urging a revision of the trial of M. Lopukine, an ex-Director of Police, who was sentenced in May, 1909, to five years' imprisonment at hard labor on a technical charge that he was a member of the revolutionary organization.

The newspapers point out the absurdity of the conviction of Lopukine for his alleged disclosure of the true character of Azeff, who figured as one of the most successful plotters against the Emperor, the State, and the lives of police agents and Government officials, and at the same time was a daring police spy.

It is argued by the writers of the articles that if Lopukine contributed to the unmasking of Azeff he should be regarded as a savior of Russian lives and Russian honor, and that if he did not so contribute, then, they ask, why was he sentenced.

The arrest and prosecution of Lopukine caused a great sensation throughout Russia.

LEISHMANS AGAIN RECEIVE.

German Court Society Introduced to Our New Ambassador.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—The American Embassy was this evening the scene of the customary reception to Court society which is given after the presentation of an Ambassador's letters. It was attended by a great number of prominent personages, to whom "commands" had been sent by the Court Marshal, who had charge of all the arrangements.

Ambassador and Mrs. Leishman received in separate rooms. The presentations to Mrs. Leishman were made by the Empress's Lady of the Court, Countess von Harrach, assisted by the Royal Chamberlain, Count von Rantzau, and the Vice Over-Ceremony Master, Count Kanitz. The presentations to the Ambassador were made by Vice Over-Ceremony Master von Roeder, assisted by the Royal Master of Ceremonies, Count von Cabrera, and Count von Hopffgarten.

The members of the Diplomatic Corps were not present, as they attended a special reception at the Embassy yesterday afternoon.

LONDON TRACTION MERGER ARRANGED

Sir Edgar Speyer Combines General Omnibus and Underground Electric Companies.

MANY AMERICANS INTERESTED

Underground Electric Company Was Founded by the Late C. T. Yerkes—Reported Terms of the Deal.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—It is now regarded as certain that Sir Edgar Speyer has carried to a successful issue the negotiations which have been going on between the London General Omnibus Company and the Underground Electric Railways.

Omnibus stock again rose to-day 4 points, to 235, a new high record. These figures in themselves are a handsome tribute to the dogged perseverance that Sir Edgar has shown in surmounting the difficulties in the way of the fusion and the confidence of the public in the successful development of this phase in the problem of London traction.

As a large number of Americans are financially interested in the Underground Electric Company, which was founded by the late Charles T. Yerkes and taken up after his death by Speyer Brothers, the terms upon which the Electric Company is to take over the General Omnibus Company are of importance.

The Evening Standard to-day gives an outline of the terms arranged, which THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent has grounds for believing to be near the truth.

The shareholders will receive in exchange for each £100 of London General Omnibus Company's ordinary stock £105 of Underground Electric 6 per cent. cumulative income debentures, maturing in 1945, but redeemable either by purchase or drawings at 125 and secured on the whole of the undertakings of the Underground Electric Railways Company and of the London General Omnibus Company, together with £105 of 6 per cent. income bonds ranking equally with the present income bonds of the Underground Electric Railways Company, and also 100 shares of one shilling each entitled to one-third of the surplus profits after the income bonds have received a full dividend.

Sir Edgar Speyer had a difficult task in completing the amalgamation, which is regarded as a remarkable step in advance in the settlement both of the problem of London transportation and of the adequate remuneration of those whose capital is invested in metropolitan traffic ventures.

FRANCE WANTS SHIP FREED.

Reserves All Indemnity Rights—Annoyance Over the Seizure.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—At a meeting of the Cabinet to-day Premier Poincaré announced that he had instructed the French Ambassador at Rome formally to request the release of the French steamer Carthage, which was arrested by Italian warships and taken to Cagliari, Sardinia, because she was carrying an aeroplane and parts of another, which were regarded by the Italians as contraband of war. The Ambassador has been told to inform Italy that France reserves all her rights in reference to indemnity.

France is beginning to show considerable annoyance over the seizure of the Carthage. It is asserted with emphasis that the arrest of the vessel was entirely unjustified, in the first place, because aeroplanes were not mentioned in the list of contraband articles which was furnished to France by the Italian Government at the outbreak of the war between Italy and Turkey. In the second place, the Conference of London in 1909 declared that aeroplanes were only conditional contraband and were not liable to seizure when found on board a neutral vessel unless it was proved that they were intended for the enemy.

The aeroplane which was found on board the Carthage was purely for exhibition flights in Tunis, Egypt, and Greece, while the portions of an aeroplane also seized were for purposes of repair.

The third point raised is that the Carthage was a mail steamer, the seizure of which was a violation of The Hague agreement of 1907.

The French Parliamentary Group for the Promotion of International Arbitration at a meeting to-day presided over by Baron d'Estournelles de Constant voted a resolution to the effect that incidents like the Carthage affair establish the necessity for bringing the Turkish-Italian war to an end. The meeting passed a resolution asking the French Government to intervene in order to put a stop to the conflict.

MARSEILLES, Jan. 18.—The French Steamship Line received a dispatch this morning from the French Consul at Cagliari saying that the Carthage had not yet been released.

ROME, Jan. 18.—Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter, the German Foreign Secretary, will arrive here on Saturday, when he will lunch with Premier Giolitti at the German Embassy. On Sunday Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter will dine with the King at the Palace. On the same day he will have luncheon with Foreign Minister San Giuliano. He will leave Rome that evening.

The visit of Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter is intended to emphasize before the world the intimacy of the relations between the German and Italian Governments.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 19.—The reports of special correspondents in Macedonia and other parts of Turkey describe in the most gloomy strain the condition of affairs throughout Turkey generally.

According to one writer, Macedonia is in a state of anarchy. The conditions at present are even worse than they were under the rule of Sultan Abdul Hamid. There is a complete absence of security for life and property and the authorities appear to be unable to put any check on the prevailing lawlessness.

Another correspondent says that a similar state of affairs exists in Northern Albania, and that the first outbreak may be expected to occur in that region.

The condition of unrest in Turkey is fully realized by the European Powers, who are anxious to bring about a cessation of hostilities between Turkey and Italy before the season is sufficiently advanced for the Macedonians and Albanians to begin a campaign of guerrilla warfare.

TRIPOLI, Jan. 18.—An aeroplane sent out from the Italian quarter dropped a manifesto in the Arab quarter to-day announcing the Italian victory in the Red Sea, near the Bay of Kunfa, where Italian warships sank several Turkish gunboats.

MUCH AMERICAN MAIL SAVED.

Fire on Train from Paris to Cherbourg Was Confined to One Car.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Investigation shows that only one mail car was destroyed of the three attached to the special train conveying passengers and mail from Paris to Cherbourg for the American Line steamer Philadelphia, bound for New York, which caught fire last night.

Of the 400 sacks of mail which were on the train, 106 will be forwarded to America on La Touraine of the French Line. These were entirely undamaged, and a considerable part of the remaining sacks will also be saved, although somewhat scorched and damaged.

WANAMAKER TO AID Y. M. C. A.

Will Give Large Donation to London Fund, Which Is Now £41,884.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—"I am sure we can do it. I don't know where the money is coming from, but I believe it is coming," said Mr. Arbuthnot, Chairman of the Business Men's Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association Fund, at to-day's Guildhall meeting. The spirit of confidence is shared by every one, despite the fact that to-day the total is only £41,884, and the twelve-day campaign to raise £100,000 closes next Tuesday. The execrable weather of the last few days has made the work of the collectors doubly hard.

Charles S. Ward, the American organizer of the collection, when asked whether he was not holding big donations back for a "grand stand finish," said he was not holding back any money; other persons were doing that.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—John Wanamaker to-day confirmed reports from London that he will be a large contributor to the Young Men's Christian Association fund which is being raised there. He declined to state the amount of his intended subscription, but intimated that it would be large.

ARTHUR COLLINS COMING.

Drury Lane Manager Hopes to Obtain Some Plays for London.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 18.—Arthur Collins, the Managing Director of Drury Lane Theatre, London, sailed to-day in the Celtic. He told a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent he was going to America chiefly for a rest after his heavy work on the pantomime, and to bring home Mrs. Collins, who was born in America.

Mr. Collins, however, will certainly keep his eye open for anything suitable for the English stage, and hopes to obtain several pieces.

WOMEN OF ULSTER TO FIGHT.

Say Proposed Change Will Reduce Ireland to Rags.

BELFAST, Jan. 18.—Fifty thousand women members of the Ulster Unionist Associations to-day issued a fiery manifesto to their sisters in Great Britain, asking them to aid in defeating the Home Rule bill.

The Duchess of Abercorn presided at the meeting of the Council of the Ulster Unionist Associations which adopted the appeal to the women of Great Britain. In the course of a speech she said:

"We will not have home rule, and if we are thrown out of our heritage we shall stand by our men folk, resisting to the uttermost the domination of a rebel Parliament in Dublin."

The manifesto declares the Unionists' determination to hold Ulster for the empire and asserts that home rule "will reduce the whole country to the rags and poverty which are found in Ireland only in those districts where the rule of the Nationalist leagues is supreme."

DUBLIN, Jan. 18.—Most of the active politicians having now returned after a brief holiday interest in the home rule campaign is becoming more acute every day.

During the last few weeks the Unionists have made much use of the recent Papal decree forbidding Catholics under pain of excommunication to summon ecclesiastics before lay tribunals. The Right Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, Catholic Bishop of Raphoe, has now followed Archbishop Walsh of Dublin in expressing the opinion that the Papal decree does not apply to Ireland.

John Dillon and John Redmond to-day give out statements in regard to land purchase in Ireland. Mr. Dillon in a letter concerning the tenants in the County of Clare who have not been able to effect purchases of their land under the terms of the Land Purchase act of 1903, which empowered the Government to lend money to tenants to enable them to purchase their holdings, says:

"If the Lords hold up home rule it will be necessary to institute a campaign on the land question and bring pressure to bear on the landlords of the County of Clare to sell their estates on reasonable terms."

SHAKESPEARE SHOW MAY BE SEEN HERE

Mrs. George Cornwallis West Says That She Hopes to Bring It to New York.

TO BE A SHOPPING CENTRE

Leading London Tradesmen Promise to be Represented—Mrs. West Confident of Success of Exhibition.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Mrs. George Cornwallis West, formerly Lady Randolph Churchill, in an interview to-day with a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent on the Shakespeare Exhibition scheme, said:

"I am looking a great deal to the American people to help me. I will let you into a secret. My great hope is that if the exhibition is a big success, as I think it will be, I want to reproduce it in America, for there are just as many lovers of Shakespeare there as elsewhere."

"With the same object in view?" was asked.

"Yes, always with the same object. We have got to get money before 1916 to build the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. If we go to America, it will probably be immediately after the close of the London exhibition."

Mrs. West said she made the announcement through THE NEW YORK TIMES of the contemplated American exhibition now because she was afraid some enterprising showman might forestall her by promoting a similar exhibition. "But there is one thing," she said. "They may take my idea, but they cannot take my scheme from the beginning, and I am running it my own way."

The official title of the exhibition, according to Mrs. West, will be the "Shakespeare English Sixteenth Century Exhibition in Support of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre."

"Most of the leading tradespeople of London have promised that they will be represented at the exhibition," said Mrs. West, "making it the best shopping centre in the world, for it will have only the very best houses. My idea is to work it so that any Americans who have not much time to spare can do all their shopping under one roof, and at the same time get the very best articles Europe can supply."

FRANCE'S PLANS IN MOROCCO.

Treaty Like That with Tunis Is to be Concluded with the Sultan.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Premier Poincaré, before the Committee of the Senate on the Franco-German Treaty, to-day urged its quickest possible ratification and outlined how the Government proposed to put it into effect. He said a special committee had been formed, and co-ordinate work had already been done by separate committees of the Foreign Office and the Ministries of War and Finance toward evolving a scheme for the occupation of Morocco.

M. Poincaré estimated that the expenditure in connection with the occupation for 1912 would not exceed 90,000,000 francs, ($18,000,000,) this to include the cost of the first urgent reforms. While he did not think it necessary to increase the army of occupation for the moment, it would nevertheless require 36,000 men to assure the protectorate. Later the force could be reduced by the organization of native troops with French officers.

As soon as the treaty is voted an official will be sent to negotiate a convention with the Sultan similar to that signed at Tunis in 1881, which assured to France the right to occupy positions which the French military authorities might deem necessary for the maintenance of order and security.

In answer to a question, M. Poincaré assured the committee that France's legal position with regard to the right of pre-emption in the Belgian Congo was not affected by the Franco-German treaty.

COAL MINERS VOTE TO STRIKE

Will Quit Work in England on March 1 Unless Appeased.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The recent ballot among the coal miners of Great Britain, the result of which was officially announced this afternoon, was overwhelmingly in favor of a strike for a fixed minimum wage. The figures were: For a strike, 445,801; against a strike, 115,921.

Notices to quit work will doubtless promptly be handed in by the miners, and this threatens to bring about a national stoppage of coal mining on March 1. The intervening weeks, however, gives plenty of time for negotiations between the employers and the workers, and efforts at mediation may be expected to avert what would otherwise prove a national calamity.

G. BERNARD SHAW OF THE HOE ELECT

"Passion, Poison, and Petrifaction" by the "Chelsea Shakespear" Put Up at Sale.

WROTE IT ON RAILWAY TRAINS

Edinburgh 1627 Edition of "Venus and Adonis" Brings $3,800 — May Go to H. C. Folger, Jr.

An early issue of the first edition of Capt. John Smith's "General Historie of Virginia, New England, and the Summer Isles," folio, London, 1624, was knocked down at the Hoe library sale at the Anderson Company's rooms last evening to Walter M. Hill of Chicago for $2,500. It is a large paper copy, and probably the most interesting known, as it is supposed to be the dedication copy to the Duchess of Richmond, who contributed largely to the cost of publication. It has the royal arms of James I. and the feathers of the Prince of Wales on the front cover and the arms of the Duchess of Richmond on the back cover. It is the Hamilton Palace copy, which sold in 1883 in London for $3,025. Mr. Hill also paid $590 for "The True Travels" of Capt. John Smith, first edition, London, 1630.

The total for the day's two sessions was $43,695; the total for Part II. of the library to date, $430,968, and the grand total for the 67 sessions of both parts of the library, $1,428,274. Among the other interesting and rare items sold during the evening were:

Sir Philip Sidney's "The Countesse of Pembrooke's Arcadia," second edition, London, 1593, in binding by Mercier, $375, (Smith.)

"A litel boke, called 'Colyn Cloute,' composed by Mayster Skelton, poete Laureate." Imprinted by Mr. Rycharde Kele, dwellyng in the powltry at the long shop under Saynt Myldredes Chyrche," circa 1545, $1,025, (Smith.)

"Marie Magdalens Funeral Teares," by Robert Southwell, London, 1591; probably the only known copy of the earliest known edition, $700, (Smith.)

Robert Southwell's "Saint Peter's Complaint," six volumes in one, London, 1596-1601, $500, (Smith.)

"Complaints. Containing Sundrie Small Poems of the World's Vanitie," by Edmund Spenser, first edition, London, 1591, $250, (Smith.)

Spenser's "Faerie Queene" and "Colin Clout's Come Home Againe," three volumes in one, London, 1595-96, $300, (Smith.)

"Fowre Hymnes made by Edm. Spenser," first edition, London, 1596, $300, (Smith.)

First edition of Spenser's "Prothalamion," London, 1596, $500.

Hans Staden's "Warhafftige Historia," &c., Frankfort-on-Main, 1557, one of the most important books relating to South America, $200, (Smith.)

Original 271 numbers of "The Tatler," and a complete file, 175 numbers, of The Guardian, from the libraries of Lord Hope and the Earl of Munster, $1,025, (Dr. Rosenbach.)

First edition of Sir John Suckling's "Fragmenta Aurea," London, 1646, $200, (Smith.)

"Songs and Sonnets" of Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, London, 1585, $925, (Smith.)

First edition, on large paper, of Jonathan Swift's "Gulliver's Travels," London, 1726, $865, (Smith.)

George D. Smith bought a first edition of Percy Bysshe Shelley's "Queen Mab," with the author's name on the title page and with the dedication "To Harriet" for $455. Almost all copies of the first issue have the name of the author cut out by Shelley himself.

Shakespeare Folios and Quartos.

Shakespeare folios and a number of rare quarto editions of his works were offered at the afternoon session. The rarest and most valuable of the Shakespeareana, however, was an Edinburgh, 1627, edition of "Venus and Adonis," printed by John Wreittoun, "and are to bee sold in his Shop, a litle beneath the Salt Trone." It is a 16mo., and an uncut copy in the original vellum binding. It was in the Griswold library sale, more than a quarter of a century ago, and then sold for a comparatively small sum. The only other known copy is in the British Museum. John Anderson, Jr., who attended yesterday's sale just to see this little treasure disposed of, said that for thirty years he had vainly sought for a copy.

There were three active bidders for it—George D. Smith, Bernard Quaritch, and a Shakespeare collector whose name the auction company would not reveal. Quaritch was the first of the three to drop out of the contest; the unknown held on to $3,700, and Mr. Smith won the prize by a bid of $3,800. He said that he was buying it for himself, but rumor had it that he was acting for Henry C. Folger, Jr., the Standard Oil magnate, who owns the finest Shakespeare collection in America. Mr. Smith, it is known, often executes bids for Mr. Folger.

The other Shakespeareana in the afternoon's sale went as follows:

Second folio, rebound by F. Bedford, London, 1632, fine large copy, $800, (Smith.)

Third folio, London, 1664, rebound in maroon levant morocco in eighteenth century, French style, $2,600, (Smith.)

Fourth folio, London, 1685, one of the rare issues that have the name of R. Chiswell in the imprint, $325, (Smith.)

"The Excellent History of the Merchant of Venice," London, 1600, quarto, in blue morocco binding by W. Mansell, tall copy, $800, (Hill.)

First edition of "The First Part of the Life of Sir John Oldcastle, the Good Lord Cobham," London, 1600, one of the seven spurious Shakespeare plays, probably written in 1599 by Mundy, Drayton, Wilson and R. Hathwaye, no second part known to exist, $200, (Smith.)

"The Puritaine; or, the Widow of Watling-streete," first edition, uncut, London, 1607, binding by Bedford, and other of the seven spurious plays which appeared in the third folio Shakespeare, possibly the only uncut copy known, $510, (Smith.)

Second edition of the "True Chronicle History of the Life and Death of King Lear," London, 1608, in levant morocco binding by David, $860, (Smith.)

"The Whole Contention betweene the two Famous Houses, Lancaster and Yorke," and "Pericles, Prince of Tyre," two works in one volume, London, 1619; the first bears Shakespeare's name, but was not written by him, $710, (Smith.)

"A Yorkshire Tragedy," second edition, London, 1619, one of the seven pseudo-Shakespeare plays, tall copy, in binding by Cuzin, $525, (Smith.)

Third edition of the "Merchant of Venice," London, 1637, $275, (Smith.)

Sixth edition of "Othello," London, 1695, $160 (Smith.)

First edition of "The Birth of Merlin," London, 1662, binding by Bortic, names of Shakespeare and William Rowley on title page, but former probably did not write any part of it, $490, (Smith.)

George Bernard Shaw MS.

Right after the Shakespeareana came an original manuscript of G. Bernard Shaw, entitled "Passion, Poison, and Petrifaction. A New and Original Tragedy, in One Act, by the Chelsea Shakspear." It consists of forty-one quarto leaves, written in pencil on one side of each leaf. It is attested to by Shaw: "This is the true and original copy written by me, mostly in Great Northern Express trains; hence the joggly handwriting in many places." Inserted is a playbill of the first performance of the "tragedy," and two autograph letters of Shaw, relative to the acquisition of the manuscript. It was knocked down to Dr. Rosenbach for $140.

"Rerum Venatarum," by Marcus A. C. Sabellicus, first edition, printed on vellum, Venice, 1487, went for $1,350 to Dr. G. Martini, who has, in his Italian home, a fine collection of early and rare Italian books. This copy has the arms of Marco Barberigo, Doge of Venice. It is a presentation copy to him, and is the earliest official account of Venice. It is a masterpiece of printing, and was executed by Andrea d'Asola, father-in-law of the famous Aldus. A copy sold in London in 1899 for $570.

Other items of especial interest and value were:

"Le Grand Voyage du pay des Hurons," by Gabriel Sagard-Theodat, Paris, 1632, first edition, $295, (Smith.)

"L'Hystoire du Sainct Greaal," first edition, printed in Paris by Jehan Petit in 1516, $1,000, (Dr. Rosenbach.)

"Paul et Virginie," by Bernardin de Saint-Pierre, first edition, Paris, 1789, printed on vellum, $525, (Drake.)

"Nuremberg Chronicle," by Harmannus Schedel, printed by Anthony Koburger in 1493, first edition, $165, (Hill.)

"Speculum Manuale Sacerdotum," by Harmannus Schilditz, Mentz, 1475, said to be the only copy known, $140, (Smith.)

"Clarissa; or, The History of a Young Lady," by Samuel Richardson, first edition, London, 1748, with fourteen lines in the author's autograph on one of the pages, $535, (Dr. Rosenbach.)

One of the most interesting copies was the original manuscript of Sir Walter Scott's "Life of Jonathan Swift," written on 400 quarto sheets, with many annotations. Scott manuscripts are extremely rare. This example was knocked down to Dr. Rosenbach for $1,910.

The sale of Part II. of the library will be brought to an end to-day with two sessions. Part III. will be sold in March, and Part IV. probably in November. Part V. will be offered later, the date not yet determined.

TELLS OF NEW DICKENS MS.

Short Article, Hitherto Unknown, Is in Novelist's Own Handwriting.

A hitherto unknown manuscript of Charles Dickens of special interest in view of the approaching centenary celebration of the famous novelist's birthday is now in possession of Charles Sessler of 1,314 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, who values it at $5,000. It is unrecorded in any of the many bibliographies, dictionaries, and memoirs of Dickens, and apparently escaped the attention of B. W. Matz of the firm of Chapman & Hall, who were Dickens's publishers, although Mr. Matz, for the last two years, has been searching industriously for every bibliographical item obtainable about the novelist for the latest edition of his writings.

The manuscript consists of eight octavo pages, closely written in Dickens's autograph, in the blue ink which he used, with numerous corrections, also in his handwriting. The title is "Ecclesiastical Registries." These eight pages are inlaid in quarto sheets and are accompanied by a typewritten copy of the article. In all there are thirteen quarto pages. They are in new full levant morocco binding by Riviere.

Mr. Sessler recently noticed a description of this manuscript in an English dealer's catalogue. There it was stated to be a Dickens rarity, which had never appeared in book form. Mr. Sessler did not believe that an article of such importance, by the great novelist, could have escaped the printing press, so he set to work going through all the publications with which Dickens at any time was connected in any capacity.

In the issue of Sept. 28, 1850, of Household Words, of which Dickens was editor, he discovered an anonymous article, entitled "The Doom of English Wills." Upon comparing it with the manuscript of "Ecclesiastical Registries" he found them to be identical, as far as they went. "The Doom of English Wills," however, is longer than the manuscript. Dickens evidently enlarged the latter, and, under the changed title, it appeared in four serial numbers of Household Words, beginning Sept. 28, 1850.

Now, none of the bibliographers of Dickens apparently has ever attributed "The Doom of English Wills" to him. On the contrary, the general impression has been that this anonymous article was written by William Henry Wills, one of Dickens's most intimate friends, and assistant editor of Household Words. Wills, who was born in 1810 and died in 1880, was the son of a wealthy shipowner. The elder Wills, however, met with misfortune and the support of the family fell upon the son. He adopted journalism as a profession and was one of the original staff of Punch.

"Ecclesiastical Registries" is an attack on the gross abuses attending the various registries of wills attached to the old ecclesiastical dioceses. The statements made in it by Dickens can hardly be realized as true at the present time. It begins with a long and graphic account of an old decaying cathedral. Dickens seems to have made use of this in the first three and the last written chapters of "Edwin Drood" when describing Rochester Cathedral.

In the manuscript he relates some of his own experiences, and the suppositious William Wallace, whose adventures he describes, is doubtless Dickens himself. The following passage is apparently taken from "David Copperfield," which appeared the same year that this article was published in Household Words, wherein David is articled by his aunt to a firm in Doctors Commons:

> The public has lately heard some trifling facts relative to Doctors Commons, through the medium of a young gentleman, who was articled by his aunt to a proctor there.

The phraseology of the manuscript is pettifogger in the Supreme Court of God's high law as there are pettifoggers in the lower courts, administering distinctly Dickensesque. He describes the head of a particular foundation as "a the laws of mortal man. The manuscript is in fine condition.

TRY TO FORCE MAYOR TO ACT ON SUBWAYS

Resolution in Estimate Board to Commit the City to B. R. T.'s Queensboro Bridge Route.

PRENDERGAST IS VEHEMENT

Calls Mayor an Obstructionist—Fight Goes Over a Week—Another Step Toward the Broadway Line.

With the Subway conferences believed by all concerned to have resulted in nothing, a motion was made yesterday in the Board of Estimate intended to force an official decision for or against the plan favoring the B. R. T. put forward last Summer by the McAneny Committee. The motion which dealt with the Fifty-ninth Street and Queensboro Bridge route, was introduced as the result of the indignation of the people of Queens at the delay in attending to their needs, and led to a sharp exchange between Controller Prendergast and Borough President Miller of the Bronx.

Borough President Connolly of Queens asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a motion asking Mayor Gaynor to pass at once on the route extending from Fifty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue across the Queensboro Bridge and then branching out to Woodside and Astoria. This route was laid out by the Public Service Commission on Oct. 10, and approved by the Board of Estimate on Oct. 26. The Mayor at that time refused to vote on the ground that he was required to give a separate approval to the adoption of any new rapid transit routes through the city's streets.

Since then he has done nothing, following the precedent he laid down in leaving without action the Malbone Street route in Brooklyn, although it was approved by the Board of Estimate several months ago. There is nothing in the Rapid Transit act to compel the Mayor to take any action on new rapid transit routes within any limit of time, although it is expressly laid down by the Rapid Transit act that the Board of Estimate must act on recommendations of the Public Service Commission within sixty days.

On the Fifty-ninth Street route depends largely the fate of the Steinway Tunnel. Access to Queens can be given either by a rapid transit line across the Queensboro Bridge or through the tunnel.

The Steinway Tunnel connects at present merely with the trolley lines of the New York & Queens County Co., another Interborough subsidiary, and passengers by it would consequently not have nearly as quick means of communication with the outlying parts of Queens as by elevated roads from the Queensboro Bridge. Consequently the view has been taken that once the Queensboro Bridge-Fifty-ninth Street route has been built, the advantage of the Steinway Tunnel to the city will be almost completely wiped out.

Borough President Connolly's resolution declared that "it is the opinion of this board that the failure of the said Mayor of the City of New York to act upon said resolution unduly delays the time when said routes may be put in operation, if they are to be approved by the Mayor, and delays the submission of some other plan, if they are to be disapproved." Consequently it is proposed that the Board of Estimate request the Mayor to make his decision in the matter with as little delay as possible. The Mayor was not present at the Board meeting.

"Don't let us heckle the Mayor," said Borough President Miller of the Bronx. "If I've anything to say, I say it to a man's face."

"Whatever is in this resolution," replied President Connolly, "I'm willing to say to the Mayor personally."

"I want to say right here," broke in Controller Prendergast, "I would be the last man to heckle the Mayor. We are considering facts and we should not let false sentiment hide real facts."

He went on to speak of the length of time the Fifty-ninth Street proposal had lain on the Mayor's desk without action, and urged that the adoption of the route would not interfere with the consideration of the portion of the new routes the Interborough may yet obtain.

"No member of this board," declared Mr. Prendergast, "has a right to interfere with the unanimous policy of the board. It is obstruction pure and simple."

President Miller persisted that he did not wish to consider such a resolution with the Mayor absent, and the resolution went over to next week.

No objection was forthcoming to the approval of the award of the contract for Section 3 of the new Subway to the Underpinning & Foundation Company for $2,295,086.50, and the issue of corporate stock to this amount. This is the first section let in Broadway, and stretches from Howard Street to a point between Bleecker and Houston Streets. As soon as the money is voted by the Board of Aldermen and the contract is signed by the Public Service Commission the city will be committed to the Broadway Subway.

Section 2, the section immediately south of this, will be awarded in the next few days, but Controller Prendergast explained in the discussion over the Queensboro Bridge route that Section 5, from Fourteenth Street and Lexington Avenue to Twenty-sixth Street, was being deliberately held up in the board, because its award would prevent any agreement with the Interborough to complete the "H" system of Subways.

It is likely enough, however, the approval of this section, too, will be made before many days are over. No conference between the Pennsylvania representatives and the city officials was held yesterday, but one will probably take place at noon to-day. It is expected that this will be the last and that at its close a statement will be given out to the effect that the conferrees find that all chance of an agreement is gone.

LITTLETON TO QUIT CONGRESS

Thinks Harmon and Underwood Would Make Strong Presidential Ticket.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 18.—Martin W. Littleton, Congressman from the First New York District, is in this city, and talked freely to-night of National affairs. He is of the opinion that the party should select principles and a platform before selecting a candidate. Of course, it would be well to have a few tried and true in the offering to select from. While he had no particular choice, since those mentioned were capable, he believes that Gov. Harmon of Ohio and Mr. Underwood of Alabama would make a strong ticket.

While he regards both Clark and Wilson as formidable candidates—well, the others would bring the South and East to a common footing. He believes Col. Roosevelt is only awaiting an opportunity to stampede the Republican nomination in the event that Mr. Taft failed to gather the strength his supporters predict. He does not believe in an "insurgent country," but wants safe and sane methods for every application.

Mr. Littleton announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election to Congress from his district.

"I did not expect to be elected when I was nominated," he said. "It looked like a forlorn hope that I was to lead, but it proved different. By a redistricting process, the Democratic end of the district has been cut off, which makes it strongly Republican. Anyway, my legal business is such that it requires all my attention."

WROTE 'DEAR WIFE' TO MRS. BANCROFT

Co-respondent's Letters Are Admitted as Evidence in Delaware Divorce Case.

WIFE'S 'CONFESSION' BARRED

Would Be Proof of Collusion, Judges Decide — Lawyers Believe Husband Will Lose Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 18.—The lawyers for John Bancroft, Jr., who is suing his wife, Madeline Du Pont Bancroft, for a divorce, closed their case this afternoon in the Superior Court. The defense then began, and the testimony will close by to-morrow night, according to the court's ruling last week. If the husband's application is denied the wife's countersuit for divorce will be tried at the March term.

At to-day's session the incident at the Hotel Belmont, New York, on Feb. 25 of last year, when the young wife was intercepted by the husband, his father, and mother, and their lawyer, and prevented from going to Germany, was described. Young Bancroft told of a scuffle with his wife in her hotel room, during which he got possession of four letters which Max Heibler of Munich, the co-respondent, wrote her. This was nearly two months before the birth of the child, whom the husband calls Max Heibler, Jr., and makes a co-defendant.

The husband identified sixty-seven letters written to his wife by the co-respondent. In them Heibler, he said, made use of such terms as "Dear Wife" and "Dear Little Wife." The fact that Heibler called Mrs. Bancroft, Jr., "wife" was a new phase of the case. In one letter Heibler referred to the couple's first child, John Bancroft, 3d, as "My Dear Little Boy Hanse." The letters were mostly written last January from Munich. In one of them Heibler, it is said, admitted the paternity of the child, and offered to provide for the boy and Madeline. "I love you and know you, love me," was his statement.

Young Bancroft admitted that when his wife showed a desire for Heibler's companionship he wrote the latter a letter, signing his wife's name, asking him to come to this country.

The court refused to admit an alleged confession of the wife, holding that if allowed it would be close to showing collusion.

Mrs. Bancroft has not yet appeared in court, and it is doubtful if she will be present. Her lawyers stated this evening that they had one more witness and several doctors to testify. The physicians, some of them professors, will testify that it was possible for young Bancroft to be the father of the child.

MODERN FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION.
The advantage of this form of construction has again been clearly demonstrated by the recent fire in the Knickerbocker Trust Co.'s Building, 60 Broadway. On the morning of January 17th a store on the New Street front, containing a large amount of inflammable merchandise, was completely gutted by fire and the merchandise destroyed. No damage was done outside the store. The Knickerbocker Trust Co.'s Building, where the fire occurred, and the Trinity and United States Realty Buildings are of the one type of construction, and were all erected by the GEORGE A. FULLER COMPANY.

CRUIKSHANK PAID COURT TO GIRL HERE

She Saw Him Off to Porto Rico, Not Suspecting He Was a Vanished Benedict.

DENIES AN ENGAGEMENT

Though a Friend of the Engineer Declares That "Douglas" Said He Intended to Wed Her for Money.

Capt. Barton Cruikshank, once head of the Clarkson Memorial Institute at Potsdam, N. Y., who disappeared from his home on the St. Lawrence River more than eighteen months ago, leaving only a crushed canoe and broken paddle as a clue to his probable fate, paid court to Miss Carol E. Roberts of 447 Rugby Road, Flatbush, while living here as Donald Douglas. His wife and family, meanwhile, mourned him as dead, and his supposed widow had collected an insurance policy amounting to $3,500, but Cruikshank, by a subterfuge, kept supplying his wife with money.

Miss Roberts admitted yesterday that she was the woman who accompanied Cruikshank to the pier when he sailed for Porto Rico last Saturday afternoon, but she denied that she was engaged to marry him, as was asserted by Attorney Lowen E. Ginn of 115 Broadway, a life-long friend of Cruikshank.

Mr. Ginn told yesterday much about Cruikshank's career in the past eighteen months. After Cruikshank had resumed the practice of his profession of civil engineer at 30 Church Street, under the name of Douglas, he had evidently become stricken with remorse, Mr. Ginn said, and began to supply his wife, who is an expert draughtswoman, with work for which he paid three or four times as much as was the usual figure. Mrs. Cruikshank wondered as to the reason for the many orders for work sent her by "Donald Douglas," of whom she had no recollection, until her benefactor explained that he was actuated in his orders by the knowledge that she was the "widow" of a fellow civil engineer.

Ginn related an attempt made by Cruikshank to dispose of a big farm on the St. Lawrence, which Mrs. Cruikshank had received as a bequest under the will of her "deceased" husband. In the guise of a representative of a fictitious advertising company, Mr. Ginn declared, Cruikshank had written to his wife offering to dispose of the property for her at a good figure. At his request she forwarded him $10 to advertise the place for sale. He inserted advertisements in several New York newspapers, but without result. One of his last acts before leaving for Porto Rico, Mr. Ginn said, was to mail a letter containing a balance of $5 from the advertising fee to his wife.

Inexplicable as it may seem, Cruikshank, at the same time that he was attempting to provide for his wife, was the favored suitor of Miss Roberts. Mr. Ginn, who, with Cruikshank's brother-in-law, was the first to make positive identification of the missing man in the engineering concern on the third floor of 30 Church Street, declared yesterday that after Cruikshank had frankly admitted his identity he had said that he was engaged to be married to Miss Roberts. Ginn had been amazed at the utter lack of emotion shown by Cruikshank, who had said that Miss Roberts was the daughter of wealthy parents and he had decided to make her his wife in order to finance a new business venture.

Cruikshank had told him, Ginn said further, that the Roberts family had supplied him with funds to assume the agency for the Michigan Steel Boat Company. To do so he had to have a boat for purposes of demonstration, and was unable otherwise to get the amount of money necessary. Ginn said that Cruikshank had stationed subagents all over Long Island, but that he had failed to make the proposition a paying one, and on his departure had left the boat with instructions that it should be returned to the company, and the Roberts family reimbursed for the expenditures they had made in his behalf.

Miss Roberts denied that she had been engaged to "Douglas," although she admitted that he had paid her attentions and that she had accompanied him to the pier on his departure. She added that he had been introduced to her family as a bachelor and had rendered himself very interesting by reason of his stories of hardships on land and sea. He posed as a traveler, Miss Roberts declared, and that claim was in part substantiated by his extensive knowledge of foreign tongues and countries.

Miss Roberts declared that when she learned yesterday that "Douglas" was a married man with two children, one of whom he has never seen, she was amazed.

"I have been terribly deceived," she declared. "When I accompanied him to the boat last Saturday to bid him farewell he told me that he was only going for a short business trip. I suspected nothing and had lunch with him. After lunch we returned to his office, where he made final arrangements for his departure. We took a taxicab to the pier in Brooklyn, where he advised me not to wait until the boat sailed, and walked with me for a half block, where I boarded a trolley car."

Frank Roberts, the girl's brother, was very indignant over the manner in which his family had been imposed upon by "Douglas."

"I first met him socially," he asserted. "I took a liking to him and invited him to call at my home. When I discovered that his attentions to my sister were serious I naturally made inquiries concerning his family. He told me that he had formerly lived in Brooklyn, but that for more than ten years he had been in business in the West. I wrote out West to the town where he said he had lived, and where, as it happened, I had acquaintances, to make further inquiries, but was unable to find out anything about him. He was such a fine fellow, however, that I never suspected that there was anything wrong for a moment."

GENERAL ALARM FOR A BABY.

Father Took Him Last November and Now Can't Account for Him.

A general alarm was sent out yesterday by the police of the East 104th Street Station for Abraham Benales, two and a half years old. The youngster is the son of Jacob and Pauline Benales, and Mrs. Benales, who had her husband sent to Blackwell's Island for six months yesterday for deserting her, is worried almost sick over the loss of little Abraham, whom the father took with him when he left home on Nov. 15.

The Benaleses lived at 51 Orchard Street till the husband left home. He took the boy, saying he was going to leave him with his grandfather in Brownsville until he could get work and support the youngster and his wife. Meantime Mrs. Benales, who had a little money, was to go to live with a friend at 1,503 Park Avenue, while her husband made his home with his parents.

Mrs. Benales met her husband frequently, and often he had Abraham with him. When Jacob failed to provide for her for two months, however, Mrs. Benales got a warrant for desertion. She found her husband in the crowd at Brooklyn Bridge in the rush hour Wednesday evening and had him arrested. He was sentenced in the West Side Court yesterday.

Benales did not have the child with him when he was arrested, and told his wife he had given a boy 10 cents to take the youngster to a cousin's home. Mrs. Benales went there, but no small boy had delivered a baby there. Benales insists that he doesn't know where the child is, though he suggested that the boy probably would be found in some institution. He offered to get the baby back if the police would let him. He was sent to Blackwell's Island, however, and the police started a search of their own for the youngster.

BROOCH STOLEN AT PARTY.

Relative Is Held for Action of Grand Jury on Charge of Theft.

Following a little gathering at her home last Friday night, Mrs. Olive Branch De Mille of 272 West Ninetieth Street, found that her $450 brooch was missing. She engaged a private detective and upon his investigation decided to have the police arrest Mrs. Harold Spence, 24 years old, of 108 East Twenty-fifth Street, who is the wife of a nephew of Mrs. De Mille.

The young woman was arrested on Wednesday at her home by detectives of the West 100th Street Station. According to the detectives Mrs. Spence said that she had pledged the brooch in a Sixth Avenue pawn shop for a loan of $150, with which she purchased a fur coat. The brooch was located at the place named.

When arraigned before Magistrate Freschi on a charge of larceny, in the West Side Court yesterday morning, Mrs. Spence, accompanied by her husband, said that she was guilty, but when advised by the Court of her rights in pleading, withdrew the plea and waived examination. She was held in $2,500 bail for the action of the Grand Jury.

MARSHALL SUCCEEDS WALSH.

Captain of Engine Co. 111 of Brooklyn Takes Place of Dead Chief.

Fire Commissioner Johnson announced yesterday the appointment of two Battalion Chiefs in place of William J. Walsh, who lost his life at the Equitable Life fire, and Martin Smith of Long Island City, who died about a week ago of heart failure.

Chief Walsh's place is taken by Richard J. Marshall, Captain of Engine Company 111 of Brooklyn, and the vacancy caused by Chief Smith's death is to be filled by James T. Geatons, Captain in command of Engine Company 135, also of Brooklyn.

Both men have long and honorable records in the department.

New Captain of the Ship News Men.

DUTCH DESCENDANTS PRAISE THE FATHERS

Holland Society's Annual Dinner Brings Together Many "Vans" and "Tens."

GOV. "JAN DIJKES" DETAINED

Netherlands Minister Says Holland and America Have Much in Common—Many Societies Represented.

The Van Winkles, the Ten Broecks, the Van Osts, the Van Houtens, the Vandeveers, the Sutphens, the Van Arsdales, the Van Dykes, and the other descendants of the Dutch who settled in Nieuw Amsterdam, and now combined as the Holland Society of New York, held their twenty-seventh annual dinner last night at the Waldorf. It had been expected that Jan Dijkes, for so the present Governor of the State signed himself, would be the guest of honor of the evening, but he telegraphed that he was confined to his home in Albany by a combination of grip and neuralgia. To be a member of the Holland Society, as Henry Van Duzer, former President of the society and toastmaster, explained, one must be able to trace one's ancestry back through the male line to 1667. This is a new rule, and, he said, it had kept quite a few Vans from joining the organization. It was also announced that the Holland Society has limited its membership to 1,000 members, and it is now recruited five above that strength.

Jonkheer J. Loudon, Minister from the Netherlands, spoke as the representative of "the old country." He told of the tie that should bind together Holland and the United States.

"We have both fought the same great struggle for our independence," he said, "and we have both come through that struggle to a realization of the ideals for which we fought. You have had that great man and leader, George Washington, and we have had William of Orange. Both were great men, and both fought for independence; both were men of great personal magnetism.

"Both countries possess the spirit of democracy," he said. "In our Queen we have no great, strong tyrannical power. She is the tie that binds our people together. Of course, we have not the same problems with which to deal. We have no referendum, or recall of Judges; no Sherman law; no Bryanism; no prosecution of trusts, and such questions, but we have the parcels post, and in some ways we are ahead. But we have the same common feeling, the same traits of character, and the same energy that perseveres, and the same enthusiasm."

Former Governor Horace White spoke of the great contribution of Holland to the history and development of the world. He traced that progress down to the Peace Conference at The Hague and eulogized Hugo Grotius. He continued:

"As I observe the conditions and the course of events in America to-day, and reflect upon our perils as a nation, the conviction takes strong hold, that the real danger to our institutions is not corruption, is not industrial conditions, is not predatory wealth, is not a conflict between classes or races, but is rather the tendency of the people, the press, and public officials judicial, executive and legislative, high and low, to be temporarily swept from the moorings of justice, reason, conscience and law, by the popular passion or the sentiment of the hour. It is the peculiar peril of republics, illustrated by the history of Holland, as well as the annals of free states in the ancient and medieval world, to suffer from the transports of blind feeling, which sometimes seize the minds of their citizens."

The Rev. Howard C. Robbins spoke on "Our Ancestors and Others" and "The Hollander and Liberty of Conscience" was discussed by the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz.

The guests were: Lloyd B. Sanderson, President of the St. George Society; A. Vande Sande Bakhuysen, Consul of the Netherlands; John H. Burroughs, President of the Empire State Society, Sons of the Revolution; George A. Morrison, Jr., President of the St. Andrew's Society; William Mitchell, of the Huguenot Society of America; Charles Isham, Vice President of the St. Nicholas Society; John R. Planten, Consul General of the Netherlands; the Rev. John Williams, Vice President of the St. David's Society; Hamilton B. Tompkins, John J. O'Keeffe, Treasurer of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick; Herbert Treadwell Wade, Historian, Society of Colonial Wars, and Benjamin R. Lummis of the Sons of the Revolution.

PET CAT FIGURES IN FIRE.

Supposed to Have Caused Blaze Which Nearly Costs Woman's Life.

Mrs. John McKenzie, who lives on the third floor of 256 West Forty-first Street, saw last night a red reflection in the glass of the door to the flat of her neighbor across the hall, Mrs. Elizabeth Kenny. She tried the door, but it was locked. Then she shouted to Mrs. Kenny, and, getting no answer, ran downstairs shouting "Fire!"

Her cries aroused Edward Maher, who was asleep in his flat on the first floor, and he started upstairs, just as Policeman Daly of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station ran into the house. The men burst open the door of Mrs. Kenny's flat and found the woman unconscious in bed. The bedclothes were afire, and the remains of a lamp beside an overturned table, which was burning, showed how the fire had started.

Daly threw the lamp out of the window and carried Mrs. Kenny to the sidewalk. Meantime firemen had come in response to an alarm, and they put the fire out. Mrs. Kenny's feet were burned and she had inhaled smoke. A doctor from the neighborhood dressed her injuries.

It is supposed that a pet cat kept by Mrs. Kenny pulled the table bearing the lamp over on to the floor by trying to sharpen its claws by dragging them against the hanging table cover.

EVIL EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL.

Doctors at Lecture Agree That Liquor Serves No Good Purpose.

"Rum before coffee or a cocktail before breakfast in the tropics, then commit some little imprudence, and you go home in a box."

That is what Dr. Margaret York told a good-sized audience which filled Hosack Hall, at the Academy of Medicine yesterday afternoon. "Alcohol in Relation to Efficiency" was the topic of the public health lecture for the day. Dr. York talked of its relation to the stomach and liver, and the information concerning the tropics had come from a rosy-cheeked, healthy Englishman who told why many men who had preceded him in a position in the tropics had succumbed to the climate.

They felt the need of a stimulant in the morning, took a glass of liquor, lost their appetite for nourishing food, and the result was physical dissolution.

"I took a cup of black coffee in the morning," said the Englishman, "ate a little simple nourishing food, let liquor alone, and I could sleep on the ground, wear damp clothes, and still keep my health."

All the evidence was against alcoholic drinks.

DAY OF REST FOR CARDINAL FARLEY

Refreshed by Night's Sleep, His Eminence Receives Congratulations of Clergy and Friends.

THREE NEW MONSIGNORI

Cathedral Will Be Lighted Up Each Evening from 6:30 to 11 o'Clock to Satisfy the Sightseers.

Yesterday was a quiet day for Cardinal Farley, as compared with the celebration of the preceding day. The greater part of the time was spent at the archiepiscopal residence receiving visitors and messages of congratulation. The chief event of the day was the announcement yesterday afternoon by the Cardinal of the appointment of three Monsignori, the Rev. Gherardo Ferrante of St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Rev. Charles A. Cassidy of St. Peter's, New Brighton, S. I., and the Rev. John J. Dunn of the Society of the Propagation of the Faith.

Refreshed from the strain of the day before, the Cardinal arose at 6 o'clock, his customary hour, yesterday morning, celebrated mass at 7 o'clock in his private chapel, breakfasted at 8 o'clock, after which he spent a few minutes reading messages of congratulation, and at 9 o'clock was ready to receive visitors, who arrived continuously throughout the entire day and evening. At noon the Cardinal, in street attire, was driven to the late home of Eugene Kelly, Madison Avenue and Sixtieth Street, who died yesterday. The visit was one of condolence. Mr. Kelly was a personal friend of the Cardinal, and was a joint donor of the Lady Chapel of the cathedral.

Among those who paid their respects to the Cardinal yesterday was Mgr. Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University at Washington, of which Cardinal Farley is Vice President. The Monsignor was returning home from a visit to Rome. Among the messages of congratulation was one from Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore.

Preparations were begun yesterday for the ecclesiastical celebration in the cathedral, Thursday, Jan. 25, commemorating the elevation of the Archbishop of New York to the Cardinalate. On the same evening at the Catholic Club, 120 Central Park South, the Cardinal will be tendered an elaborate reception.

On Sunday night a reception will be held at the Hippodrome in honor of the Cardinal, at which United States Senator James A. O'Gorman will preside. It was announced yesterday through the committee having in charge the annual charity ball of the Knights of Columbus that Cardinal Farley had accepted an invitation to be present upon the occasion. At the residence of the Cardinal, however, this was said to have been a mistake.

The cathedral was illuminated again last night, and thousands of people strolled along Fifth and Madison Avenues to see the sight. Each evening at 6:30 o'clock the lights will be turned on, and at 7:55 o'clock will be extinguished until 8 o'clock, when they will be turned on again and extinguished at 8:55 o'clock, and at each succeeding hour until 11 o'clock, when they will be finally turned off.

MRS. R. C. ANDERSON WANTS DOWER RIGHT

REALTY WENT TO HIS FATHER

Insurance Man's Wife Sued for Separate Maintenance a Year Ago—Had Husband Arrested Later.

Mrs. Bertha Andersos, who about a year ago sued her husband, Robert C. Anderson, one of the owners of the State Mutual Life Insurance Company of Massachusetts, with offices at 220 Broadway, Manhattan, for separate maintenance, started suit yesterday in the New Jersey Court of Chancery before Vice Chancellor Garrison in Jersey City to have a deed set aside, made by her and her husband, and conveying to the latter's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Anderson of 227 Upper Montclair Avenue, Upper Montclair, N. J., a $60,000 office building at Belleview Avenue and Valley Road, Upper Montclair.

Mrs. Anderson on the witness stand said her signature to the deed was obtained fraudulently and demanded her dower right in the property. In the office building is housed the First National Bank of Montclair, of which Robert C. Anderson is a Director and stockholder.

Vice Chancellor Garrison refused to set aside the deed holding it to be a valid instrument, but he directed ex-Sheriff Sommer of Newark to sell the property as a special Master in Chancery. After paying to Charles W. Anderson $15,000 for loans to his son, Robert C., the ex-Sheriff is to give Mrs. Bertha Anderson her one-third dower in what is left.

Robert C. Anderson testified that he owed his father the $15,000 and gave him the deed to the office building as security to operate as a mortgage. The father testified concerning his son's debts and produced a note for $4,300, dated Nov. 10, 1906, and made by the son to his father. He said the note was made at the time specified on the face.

Vice Chancellor Garrison took the note to the window, and, scanning it, declared that the 0 in 1906 had been made over on the numeral 1 on a printed note form that bore the numerals 191, where the year date was completed. He then announced the note a fraud and threw it out. He held, however, that other debts to the father, amounting in all to $15,000, were good.

Robert C. Anderson and his wife are well known in Montclair. When Mrs. Anderson instituted the separate maintenance suit against her husband she said he spent at least $10,000 a year for living expenses. In her petition for maintenance Mrs. Anderson alleged that for more than a year her husband was infatuated with a young woman named Lilly Lihou, a stenographer in the New York office of the John Hancock Mutal Life Insurance Company, and that in 1905 he went on a three months' trip with her through the South.

In court yesterday Mrs. Anderson said that on March 4, 1910, while she was hurrying to catch a train to New York, her husband shoved a paper in her hand and asked her to sign it. She said that she thought it was all right and that they went to the office of a notary, where the deed was executed transferring the office building property to Anderson's father.

On Feb. 1, 1911, Mrs. Anderson, after suing for separate maintenance, had her husband arrested on a writ of ne exeat issued by Vice Chancellor Garrison. She said he was going away to Brazil. He was released on a bond of $2,500 for his appearance in court furnished by his father.

HEYBURN ATTACKS GOMPERS.

Objects to Senate Receiving Petition from Him, but It Does So.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The name of Samuel Gompers was connected with the McNamara case in the Senate to-day, when Mr. Heyburn of Idaho objected to the Senate receiving a petition from Mr. Gompers relating to the Government printing establishment and raising the question of Mr. Gompers's citizenship. In the end the memorial was ordered printed in The Record by a vote of 67 to 3. Mr. Gompers is a naturalized American.

Mr. Heyburn was careful to restrict his observations to Mr. Gompers personally, and not to extend them to the American Federation of Labor. His objections, he said, he based on developments involving Mr. Gompers in the recent McNamara trial and on the pending investigations resulting from those trials.

Mr. Reed of Missouri, a radical Democrat, warmly defended the American Federation of labor. Mr. Fletcher of Florida explained that from other sources the committee had received Mr. Gompers's views and had embodied his recommendations substantially in the bill at issue.

"In view of the overwhelming vote," said Mr. Heyburn, scornfully, after roll call, "it is for one party or the other to nominate Mr. Gompers for President."

STEEL SUIT CONFERENCE.

Wickersham and Dickinson Expect Trial to Begin March 1.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Jacob M. Dickinson, former Secretary of War and counsel for the Government in the anti-trust suit against the United States Steel Corporation, to-day conferred with Attorney General Wickersham regarding the prosecution of that company.

The Government expects the case to come to issue about March 1. The defendants will file an answer to the Government's bill on Feb. 5.

Justice Day Attends Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Associate Justice Day resumed his duties in the Supreme Court to-day. He had been absent since the court met in October because of the illness of Mrs. Day, who died recently.

Confirm Morgan as Envoy to Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Senate to-day confirmed the nomination of Edwin V. Morgan of New York to be Ambassador to Brazil.

TAFT SEEKS PUBLICITY.

Economy and Efficiency Programme Will Be Put Before the People.

Widespread publicity is one of the weapons which President Taft proposes to employ in obtaining from Congress the legislation necessary to carry into effect his plans of efficiency and economy in the administration of the business of the Government, according to Harvey S. Chase of Boston, a member of the President's Efficiency and Economy Commission.

"The President has given us direct instructions to resolve ourselves into a publicity commission," said Mr. Chase to-day while stopping in New York, "to get the importance of this subject of efficiency and economy in the administration of the Government understood by the people. He does not expect that the measures we have proposed and which he has approved will be passed by Congress without opposition from some quarters.

"The saving we are trying to effect is in expenses not expenditures, which is a distinction that needs to be understood. Senator Aldrich is reported to have stated that from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 should be saved, but I doubt if he ever made such an assertion. That would mean economy by cutting down expenditures, not expenses, which would be false economy. The saving must be effected by getting efficient return for every dollar expended."

MOTHER-IN-LAW AFTER HOARD

Mrs. Stark Obtains Order for Production of Jacob Finelite's Property.

Surrogate Fowler granted the application yesterday of Mrs. Gussie Stark, as administratrix of the estate of her son-in-law, Jacob Finelite, brother of City Court Judge Finelite, for an order of discovery of the property of his estate. In her application Mrs. Stark charged that Rebecca Lewis, sister of her son-in-law, was hiding from her various pieces of personal property which belonged to him

The Finelite family fought the proceedings brought by Lena Fanny Stark Finelite, to be adjudged the widow, and who claimed the estate. The young woman, who was 15 wears old when she married Finelite at Hoboken in January, 1905, however, established her rights as a widow. Her mother now claims that property which Finelite had before his death has disappeared and that Mrs. Lewis had access to her brother's effects.

The application recites that Mrs. Lewis lived with Mrs. Lena Fanny Stark Finelite and her brother at 864 Lexington Avenue until the time Finelite died Aug. 22, 1909. He had, Mrs. Stark said, jewelry, watches, diamonds, stocks, bonds, notes, and mortgages as well as bank and check books. The check books have all disappeared, and the bank books show only slight balances. One of the things Mrs. Stark is concerned about is an $18,000 mortgage on the premises 164-166 Park Row, which she said Finelite held and a purported transfer of which has been filed.

TELLS OF SECRET WEDDING.

Friends of Miss MacMath and A. L. Rower Surprised by Notice.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 18.—Miss Alice MacMath, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. MacMath of 98 Mason Street, Greenwich, was married secretly to Alfred L. Romer of Greenwich on Dec. 11. The marriage became known after the publication of a notice in a Stamford newspaper that Alfred L. Romer would not be responsible for debts contracted by his wife.

Mrs. Romer said:

"I'd like to know who caused that to be published. Mr. Romer says he did not. There is no earthly reason for publishing such a notice. I certainly bought nothing in my husband's name, and I had no intention of doing so. I am able to pay for what I want."

The young woman said she and Mr. Romer "just took a notion" that they would be married quietly.

"We went to New Rochelle on Dec. 11, 1911, and were married by the Rev. B. T. Marshall, at the Presbyterian Manse," she said. "We did not tell any one in Greenwich, not even my parents. Two weeks ago my mother found out about the marriage, and I told her the truth when she questioned me."

Mrs. Romer has continued to live at home since her marriage. The MacMaths once lived in Stamford. There are three daughters and one son, James MacMath, who is paying teller in the Astor Place Bank, New York.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Heyburn sub-committee, which has been investigating the election of Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, to-day unanimously agreed upon a report which holds that the charges of corruption and bribery made against Senator Stephenson have not been proved.

The report will be made to the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections.

FATHER LOYAL TO RICHESON.

"Although He Is Disgraced," He Said, "He Is Still My Son."

LYNCHBURG, Va., Jan. 18.—Thomas V. Richeson, father of the Rev. Clarence Richeson, the condemned murderer of Avis Linnell of Boston, to-day denied the report from Boston that he had or ever would desert his son.

"Although he is disgraced and degraded," said the elderly man, "he is still my son."

FOR RIGOROUS CHECK ON UNDESIRED ALIENS

Dillingham Bill Makes Sweeping Changes in Law—Grounds for Deportation Widened.

COMPANIES MADE LIABLE

As Well as Their Representatives Who Disregard Provisions—Contract Labor Clauses Made More Stringent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—On behalf of the Committee on Immigration, Senator Dillingham of Vermont introduced a bill this afternoon covering the whole subject of immigration.

There are five striking pieces of new legislation in the bill. The arbitrary power of the Executive to exclude or deport aliens considered undesirable is greatly increased. The provisions of the contract labor law are sharpened. The Chinese Exclusion act is repealed, as a separate racial discrimination, and embodied in a general clause including all aliens not qualified for naturalization. The responsibility of ship companies for the immigration of undesirables and for violations of the statute are increased.

In general, every prohibition upon the admission of persons of certain disqualifications is a prohibition upon all persons aiding their entry or concealing or harboring them after they have landed. These prohibitions are set forth in several places as affecting the ship companies, but an amendment proposed by Senator O'Gorman of New York and accepted by the committee greatly enlarges this characteristic of the bill. Mr. O'Gorman's amendment provides that the word "person," as used in the bill, shall be construed to import both the plural and singular, as the case may be, and include corporations, companies, and associations, that the omission or failure of any Director, officer, agent, or employe of any such concern to observe the provisions of the act shall be deemed to be the omission or failure of such concern, as well as that of the person acting for it.

One favor to steamship companies is a provision for the refunding of the immigration tax on an alien not intending to settle in this country, but merely to travel as a tourist.

The strengthening of the arbitrary power of deportation lies in the insertion of the word "vagrant" in the description of deportable immigrants. This word is used in charges by the police against all suspicious persons against whom nothing definite can be proved, and the same use, it is expected, will be made of it in getting rid of immigrants who have attracted police attention. The present limit of three years within which, if an alien commit a felony, he may be deported is extended to five years, and if he becomes a public charge within three years—instead of two years, as at present—he may be deported.

The contract labor provisions of the law drop the exceptions as to artists, clergymen, and the like, and insert instead the word "manual" as qualifying labor. This at once raises the question of the status of artists and musicians, who manifestly work with their hands.

Not only are persons actually under contract forbidden entry, but also those who come to this country induced by hand bills distributed in their countries advertising positions in the United States.

For the enforcement of the contract labor sections not only may civil action be brought but criminal action also. The civil penalty will be $1,000 for each offense, and the criminal penalty will be a fine or imprisonment ranging from six months to two years. Separate suits may be brought for each alien affected.

Any sort of invitation or solicitation by a transportation company or otherwise to immigrants to come to the United States is declared unlawful, and if a ship line persists in violations of the statute the President is authorized to deny admission to passengers of any class or all classes coming by its vessels to the ports of the United States for as long a time as he may see fit. It is made unlawful to bring to any port of the United States an alien afflicted in any way so as to impair his ability to earn a living, and if it appear that the person bringing the afflicted alien might by the exercise of reasonable diligence have detected the affliction, a sum of $100 shall be paid to the Collector of Customs at the port of entry for each afflicted alien so brought to that port.

A system of spies is established under the name of Inspectors and matrons for duty on immigrant ships. On voyages to the United States these Inspectors shall remain in the steerage.

MRS. HARRIMAN BUYS COPLEYS

Two Famous Portraits Are Now on View at Blakeslee Galleries.

The sale of two famous portraits by John Singleton Copley to Mrs. E. H. Harriman has just been announced, and the portraits have been placed on view by the courtesy of Mrs. Harriman at the Blakeslee Galleries, through which they were sold several months ago, the larger one, it is reported, for much the highest price ever paid for a Copley. This is a group portrait of Mrs. Montague, lady of Rear Admiral Montague, and her brother. It was exhibited in the Royal Academy in 1804. The composition is extremely dignified, the lady standing under a marble arch the curve of which is broken on the right by the outlines of a large ornamental vase. The head and shoulders, delicately drawn and extremely refined in type, are relieved against a fine sky heaped with rich masses of cloud.

The youth at the left of the composition is of the same patrician aspect. He is seated, and holds out a paper toward his sister, who points to it with her right hand. The color is chiefly blue, creamy white, and rich yellow. Both figures are painted life size and full length. The portrait was bought from a branch of the family for whom it was painted.

The second portrait is that of Miss Mary Warner, with her dog and her parrot, the kneeling child a charming rendering of smiling youth, demure and gracious, and the beautiful spaniel watching his mistress not less charming. Mary Warner was the daughter of the Hon. Jonathan Warner of Boston, who was appointed a member of King George's Council in 1766, the year before Copley painted the little girl. This portrait was the second that Copley sent to Benjamin West in England for exhibition there, the first one being the famous "Boy with the Squirrel," which won the praise of West before he knew anything about the artist. Copley went to England himself shortly before the Revolution, and remained there the rest of his life, gaining fluency of brushwork and richness of palette, but losing something of the simplicity of his American style.

The Royal Princesses sat to him, and he became the fashion in a portrait-loving community. There is in his early work, however, a dry veracity and patient interrogation of character that make such portraits as this of little Mary Warner, in her rose-colored dress, more completely engaging than the important paintings of the English years upon which the foreign schools had made their impression.

These fine examples of Copley's two periods will be at the Blakeslee Galleries for only a few days, after which they will go to Mrs. Harriman's home at Arden.

A NEW LABOR ORGANIZATION.

Federated Central Body Professes to Represent 400,000 Men.

The announcement was made yesterday on behalf of the principal central labor bodies of New York and nearby towns and some districts of New Jersey that they have organized a new central body in which they will be represented, to be known as the Federated Central Body, which represents in the neighborhood of 400,000 workers.

The new body was formed at a secret meeting in this city of delegates of the Central Federated Union of Manhattan, the Brooklyn Central Labor Union, the United Hebrew Trades of New York, the Yonkers Central Labor Union, the White Plains Central Labor Union, and the following New Jersey bodies: Essex Trades Council, Hudson County Central Labor Union, United Trades and Labor Council of Paterson and the Passaic Trades and Labor Council.

ASSAILS MITCHELL AS CAPITAL'S TOOL

T. L. Lewis Attacks Former President of Miners and Convention Summons Him to Answer.

NEW CIVIC FEDERATION ROW

Mitchell Gets Highest Vote in Annual Election—Recognition of Socialism Soundly Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 18.—With a declaration that he had never been employed as a labor leader and as a tool of capitalists at the same time, Thomas L. Lewis, former President of the United Mine Workers of America, in speaking before the convention this afternoon attacked John Mitchell for his previous affiliations with the Civic Federation.

When the tellers' report of the miners' election was read it made known that John P. White had beren re-elected President by a majority of 45,424½ over Thomas L. Lewis, and that Mitchell had received 107,487 votes for delegate to the American Federation of Labor. Of the six other delegates chosen, President White got the highest vote, 91,306.

It was after this report was read that an opportunity was given Mr. Lewis to tell of his feelings toward the present officers.

"I am going to ask the indulgence of this convention," said he, "with the hope that what I may say will be accepted for the good of the United Mine Workers of America.

"This organization will never be destroyed by forces outside of our union. If the time ever comes when we lose our power, you can look to the inside of our union for the trouble. I will never accept wages from capital and from the labor movement at the same time. I will not be a United Mine Worker and also a member of a capitalistic movement. Men of this character should be put outside of the organization."

It immediately became evident that the old Civic Federation fight would be fought out on the floor of this convention. A resolution was passed demanding that John Mitchell and W. B. Wilson, delegates from the mine workers to the American Federation of Labor, appear and explain why they worked in the interests of the Civic Federation in the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Atlanta, when they had been instructed to work against the Federation.

The Secretary was directed to send telegrams to both Wilson and Mitchell ordering them to appear before the convention before its adjournment. Mr. Lewis and other delegates spoke for the resolution. The former intimated that Mitchell broke faith with the miners' organization at the Atlanta Convention, and he has promised to demand from Mitchell an explanation of his attitude there.

Mitchell will appear before the convention to defend his advocacy of the National Civic Federation, from which he resigned last year in compliance with a resolution adopted by the miners' convention at Columbus, Ohio, and the assembly voted to pay the expenses of his trip to this city. He has declared the Columbus convention was "packed" against him.

Antagonists of Mitchell, Samuel Gompers, the Federation of Labor, and the National Civic Federation failed in an effort to bring about secession of the miners' union from the Federation of Labor, but they promised to renew the attack when Mitchell addresses the convention. They allege leaders of the Federation of Labor are not representing the interests of the labor unions.

The hilarity of Socialist leaders over their resolution, introduced yesterday, which asked the convention to indorse their party as the party for the working classes, changed to mourning to-day when a substitute resolution of the committee was accepted by a vote of 515 to 155.

The substitute resolution provided that the convention should indorse a movement that would enable labor unionists to cast their ballots in favor of the labor movement's policies.

BRONX COUNTY BILL HAS CHANCE TO WIN

Senator Stilwell Assured of Assembly's Support if It Passes the Senate.

MURPHY STILL OPPOSES IT

Senator Griffin Introduces Bills to Limit Sales of Profit-Sharing Realty Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Senator Stephen J. Stilwell, author of the Bronx County bill, now pending before the Legislature, received assurances to-day that if he could see that measure through the Senate safely it would pass the Republican Assembly. When this became known it gave Robert F. Wagner, President pro tem. of the Senate, and his Tammany following food for serious thought, for while Tammany Leader Murphy ostensibly has given in to a sentiment in the Borough of the Bronx, which at the last election proved strong enough to defeat every Democrat who ran for office, it may be stated on good authority that he is just as determined as ever that the Borough of the Bronx shall not become a separate political unit.

Young Gives Assurances.

The assurances to-day came from Assemblyman Frank L. Young of Westchester, Republican floor leader of the lower house.

"The Bronx bill was good enough for the Republicans last year, and there is no reason why the present bill should not appeal to them as strongly," said Mr. Young. "We can pass the bill here if Senator Stilwell can get votes enough for it in the Senate."

Senator Stilwell, after this statement had been made, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that Mr. Young's assurances indicated the passage of the bill.

"I have five Democratic Senators outside of the Bronx who have pledged themselves to make common cause with me in plugging this bill," said the Senator. "That, with the aid of the Republicans in this house and in the Assembly, will insure its passage."

In connection with this it is known that Senator Stilwell may count on assistance from four out of the five Democratic Senators from Brooklyn. It is said that in addition they will have the vote of Senator James F Duhamel, the Independent Leaguer in the upper house.

Mr. Yule, a Republican member from the Bronx, showed his interest in the proposed Bronx County legislation by introducing a bill in the Assembly to-day proposing that the question of the emancipation of the Bronx be submitted to a referendum of the voters within that borough. It was rumored that this was a move to anticipate similar action on the part of Tammany members.

Bill Affecting Realty Bonds.

In the Senate to-day Senator Griffin introduced two bills aimed at certain realty companies which he said were selling profit-sharing bonds without proper security. The companies referred to own small quantities of unimproved land in remote parts of New York, the assessed value being much less than the value as appraised by the companies. While the assets are comparatively small, large numbers of bonds are sold every year. Senator Griffin's proposed legislation will make it a felony to sell such bonds in excess of 80 per cent. of the actual value of the security. It also places the operations of such companies under the supervision of the State Banking Department.

The first Socialistic proposal before the Legislature was offered to-day when Assemblyman Merrill of Schenectady, the Socialist member, introduced an amendment to the Constitution to take from the State the power to govern cities except as to taxation and contracting debts. Under the Merrill amendment each town, village, and city may adopt its own charter and regulate the hours and wages of all municipal employes. City charters would be adopted by charter conventions and submitted to a referendum.

Dean Nelson of the Twenty-first District of New York County introduced a bill to-day providing for the formation of a colored regiment in the National Guard. In the National Guard convention in Albany to-day Adjt. Gen. Verbeck stated that he had received a communication from the authorities at Washington to the effect that the creation of new units before the present regiments were fully recruited would not be tolerated by the Federal Government, nor would money be forthcoming for their maintenance. The idea of a colored regiment is unpopular with the guardsmen.

TAKES ISSUE WITH GAYNOR.

Mayor Shank Points Out Way to Reduce the Cost of Living.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—"The position of Mayor Gaynor that the high cost of living is a good thing may be true from the wealthy man's standpoint, but I know it is not relished by the man who has a large family to support and who earns from $12 to $14 a week and is idle at times during the Winter months," declared Mayor Samuel Shank of Indianapolis to-day.

"I also take issue with Mayor Gaynor," continued Mayor Shank, "that the middle man is a necessity. I feel that the Mayor must be a man of wealth and never came in close contact with the mode of living of the poor and middle-class people.

"I am firmly convinced that the middleman can be abolished by establishing municipal purchasing agents in large cities where they have public markets. He should keep in touch with the markets of the different States in regard to the price of the different commodities, and whenever the prices are too high on the city market, such as potatoes selling for $2 a bushel, he should telephone or telegraph to any locality where the producer has comodities to sell and get them to ship to the markets. If this is done, I believe the producer could get more and the consumer could buy cheaper."

GAYNOR CONFERS WITH DIX.

Successor to Doty and Public Service Berth Discussed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Before leaving for New York at noon to-day Mayor Gaynor had a talk with Gov. Dix with regard to the pending question of who shall succeed Alvah H. Doty as Health Officer of the Port of New York and William McCarroll as member of the Public Service Commission of the First District. Commissioner McCarroll's term will expire on Feb. 1, and it is expected that nominations for both places will be sent to the Senate some time next week.

The conference occurred at the Executive Mansion, Gov. Dix being confined to his bed by a cold. Mayor Gaynor declined to divulge whom he had proposed for either place, though he is understood to have candidates of his own for both.

A Democratic Senator of prominence said to-day that Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell of Brooklyn, a friend of Mayor Gaynor, stood just as good a chance to land the Health Officer's place as anybody, although Tammany Leader Murphy has not given up hope of getting the place for Dr. James A. Irwin of New York, who is looked upon as Tammany's candidate.

EXPENSE OF ALBANY INQUIRY.

More Than $12,000 Paid to Osborne—No More Testimony to be Taken.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The first installment of vouchers showing expenditures of $26,652.79 of the fund of $50,000 appropriated by the Legislature for the Albany investigation was filed to-day with the State Controller.

Three payments, aggregating $12,366.38, were made to James W. Osborne, counsel to the Senate Investigating Committee. Robert McClellan, a New York detective, who investigated conditions in the Red Light District here, received $750. The Municipal Reporting Company has been paid $4,916.75.

On account of the Court of Appeals decision upholding William Barnes, Jr., in his refusal to answer certain questions asked him by the committee, no further testimony will be taken. The Legislature is expected to extend the time for the submission of the committee's report to Feb. 7.

LEAGUE TO FIGHT BOSSES.

Thomas M. Osborne Postpones Meeting of General Committee Till Feb. 14.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Primary fights by the Democratic League against the regular Democratic organization are foreshadowed by Thomas Mott Osborne, Chairman of the League State Committee, in a statement which he issued to-day postponing the meeting of the league's General Committee until Feb. 14.

Mr. Osborne says in his statement that the present primary law is about to be greatly improved and Democrats throughout the State should be prepared to take advantage of its provisions in order to strengthen the party and carry the State in the National election.

Four Factory Inspectors Exempt.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The State Civil Service Commission to-day made a final disposition of the classification of the eight supervising Factory Inspectors in the State Labor Department, authorized by a law passed last year, by placing four of the positions in the exempt schedule and the other four in the competitive class. The position pays a salary of $2,500 a year.

Out of Sheriff Quinn's Pay.

Supreme Court Justice Lehman signed an order yesterday ordering the City Paymaster to subtract $83.08 each month from the salary of Sheriff Thomas M. Quinn of Queens County, until a judgment debt due to ex-Sheriff Herbert S. Harvey, amounting to $2,200, has been paid. Quinn's salary is $833.33 a month. Sheriff Quinn confessed judgment when his predecessor sued him, but the attachment for the amount was returned unsatisfied.

TO ISOLATE PUPILS WHO HAVE TRACHOMA

This Is the Plan of Dr. Park, Who Thinks the Eye Disease Can Be Stamped Out.

ONE ROOM NOW SET APART

And If Needed a Special School Is Proposed—Clinics Have Not Been Successful Is Now Admitted.

Separate schools for children with sore eyes is the latest plan of Dr. William H. Park, Director of the Health Department's research laboratories, for controlling and banishing from the city's school-going population the much-discussed disease known as trachoma.

Behind the plan to get the afflicted children away from the others lies an implied confession, which Dr. Park admitted last night to be a true one, that the doctors who have worked with the trachoma problem have been confused in their efforts to handle it.

It is admitted that grappling with the disease by means of treatments in clinics and at dispensaries has failed, and that there is something more to be found out than the doctors have yet learned about the means by which the disease finds its way from eye to eye and student to student.

Not only will an effort be made to conquer trachoma along the new lines of isolating in groups all those who suffer from the disease in a marked degree, but at the same time surgeons whose specialty is research in bacteriology will seek to find the elusive micro-organism that causes trachoma.

Plans at Public School 21.

A beginning on the new method is to be made at once in Public School 21, at Mott and Spring Streets, which is in the heart of a district largely populated by families who have not been in this country for a long time. Trachoma among the children has been rather marked, and seems in many cases to date back to the lands from which they came.

School 21 was picked out as a point of beginning for the new experiment not only because its Principal, John Doty, welcomed the trial, but because the school is located a long distance from the Willard Parker and Gouverneur Hospitals, where treatment for trachoma has been administered for some time. Complaints have come from parents of children afflicted with sore eyes that it was too far for them to go alone to the hospitals named, and that sometimes girls who attempted to visit the hospitals were offended by young hoodlums of the neighborhood.

The first plan was merely to open a clinic at School 21, and in a room especially prepared for the work to perform operations and administer treatment to students whose parents sent them to the doctors in charge. The Health Department agreed to send a nurse and a qualified ophthalmologist for that purpose. It soon developed that there was an opportunity to do much more than merely open an additional clinic for treatment of the disease. Dr. Park was not satisfied with the results of the treatment at clinics, as efforts have been continuously made since 1902 to stamp out trachoma by clinic and dispensary treatment, and the Health Department has yet to announce that its work has approached success.

A Separate Room at First.

The proposal of Dr. Park is that there be selected a room, separated if possible from the main school building, at a point where children can come to it from several schools. In this room a teacher will be installed, and the Health Department will contribute a nurse and surgeons. As many of these special schools as the city needs are to be established, according to Dr. Park's plan. The Department of Education has had the proposal under consideration for some time, and while it has given its consent to the opening of the work in School 21, at first as a clinic, the matter of expanding the system to the full plan as proposed by Dr. Park has yet to be finally approved. No opposition to the plan is expected, however, as the isolation of the pupils will not cut them off from continuing their studies, and it is hope to make the stay of each afflicted pupil in the special study room a matter of a few days or weeks only.

Dr. Park, at his home, 315 West Seventy-sixth Street, last night told something of what he hopes to accomplish under the new method of attacking the disease.

"In the first place," he said, "it must be made clear that there are no more children with sore eyes now than there have been for many years. In fact, there are many less. So it is not an epidemic we are facing, but merely a question of advancing our methods to get better results than the clinics have afforded.

"It is a fine thing to have the Board of Education willing to co-operate in such a matter, and after all what is done will be exactly what the Board of Education wishes, as naturally the schools, as a final matter, are under its control.

It Can Be Stamped Out.

"I believe trachoma can be absolutely stamped out of the city's population, and that something we do not yet fully understand accounts for its spread in spite of the dispensary treatment. This leaves children to share common towels in their homes, borrow one another's handkerchiefs, and hold hands with each other as they play. If we stop those things in the critical period of the disease, maybe we will get some interesting results. Trachoma is comparatively harmless in some cases, but if not cured dangerous results follow in thickened, scarred, or distorted eyelids."

Dr. Walter Bensel, Sanitary Superintendent of the Health Department, has long been interested in the problem of fighting the spread of eye diseases.

In 1902 Dr. Bensel had charge of opening the first clinic for eye diseases. This was at the Gouverneur Slip, and since that time two other clinics have been opened. "These clinics," said Dr. Bensel, "will continue as usual under the new programme. The effort being made is to expand the work to take in the new method of school treatment. We had a pretty crude way of doing things at first. Trachoma came in from overseas, and when we found one case in a school which we could reach it was often surrounded by eight or ten other cases at home which we could not get at. So the 'cures' were not very permanent or frequent. We have improved a great deal since then. The recent practice has been to examine all students in public schools at the opening of each year, and to assign a nurse to watch those who have inflamed eyes, with instructions to exclude from the schools all those who eyes are acutely inflamed or who refuse to visit dispensaries or secure private treatment."

According to the Health Department records, one student out of every five had trachoma in some form in 1902. In 1908 the percentage had fallen to 7 per cent., and in 1910 to 3 per cent. In 1909 1,392 children were excluded from the schools on account of sore eyes, and in 1910, 498 were excluded. The figures for 1911 have not yet been compiled.

MISS BUEHLER IS DISOWNED.

Chicago Girl Found Here Loses Foster Parents and Prospective Fortune.

The escapade of Violet Buehler, the runaway Chicago girl, who was found on Monday living as a nurse and companion in the home of Miss Anna Britt, 340 East Seventieth Street, has cost her her foster parents as well as the prospects of inheriting $100,000. Mrs. Anna Buehler of Chicago repudiated the girl before Justice Olmsted in the Children Court yesterday, and last evening Violet started back to Chicago in charge of Detective Sergt. John W. Norton of Chicago, where she is to be taken before the Juvenile Court and probably committed to some institution.

Mrs. Buehler said on the stand that she had taken Violet thirteen years ago, when she was 2½ years old. She said that the girl had caused no trouble until she ran away on Nov. 25. In reply to questions, she threw much light upon the claim that the girl is to inherit $100,000.

Violet, she said, came of a very poor and very large family. It was to relieve the mother of a part of her responsibility that she, at the request of the grandmother, took the child to live with her. As to the legacy, she said her brother-in-law, Fred Bothman, who had made a fortune in the restaurant business, was very fond of the girl, and that it was understood that he would leave her his money. She admitted she did not think the girl would get the fortune now.

Magistrate Olmsted asked if she would take Violet back to live with her. She replied that after what had happened she would not assume the responsibility. She said she had not legally adopted Violet.

Supt. T. D. Walsh of the Children's Society put in evidence a report of the Illinois Humane Society, showing that the girl had not led altogether a home life, and so the Justice turned her over to the Humane Society. Violet cried a little, but did not have much to say.

The girl is accompanied to Chicago by the detective Sergeant, Supt. Walsh, Mrs. Buehler, and a woman attendant.

ADOLF LINK ACTS IN 'ONE OF OURS'

Spirited Performance of Comedy with Music at the German Theatre.

WELCOMED AS OLD FRIEND

Actor, Who Has Passed His Sixtieth Year, Pleases Equally in Singing and Acting.

Adolf Link, from the Hoftheater in Meiningen, Germany, began a brief season at the Irving Place Theatre last night in a comedy with music, entitled "Einer von Unsere Leut," ("One of Ours.") Herr Link is well known to the German theatregoers of New York, having played an engagement here about ten years ago, and his reception last night indicated that many of his old friends were in the audience.

"Einer von Unsere Leut" is in five acts, with occasional songs interpolated. The author is C. S. Berg. Herr Link had the rôle of Isaac Stern, a good-hearted Jewish peddler, who succeeds in straightening out the tangled affairs of the family of Fruehauf, a respectable burgher.

Although Herr Link has passed his sixtieth birthday, his performance was so spirited and as varied as that of a much younger man. Underneath his acting was a characterization that was unmistakable in its close semblance to life. His singing, which was rather recitation, seemed to please the audience quite as much as his acting.

To-night the play will be "Have You Nothing to Declare?" and to-morrow night Herr Link will appear in "Der Stoerenfried." Sunday night there will be a concert in which Herr Link will appear, and to which the members of the "Sumurun" company that are now at the Casino Theatre have been invited.

Gustav Amberg, manager of the Irving Place Theatre, yesterday sent invitations to Prof. Richard Ordynski, Camilla Eibenschuetz, Leopoldine Konstantin, Emil Lind, and the other members of "The Sumurun" company, now playing at the Casino Theatre, to a reception to be given in their honor at the Irving Place Theatre next Sunday night. Mr. Amberg's German company will put on the three-act play, "One of Us," for the entertainment of the guests. Adolph Link, who is a visiting star at the Irving Place, will be seen in the principal rôle of this play.

PHILHARMONIC'S CONCERT.

Stransky Devotes Half of Programme to Pre-Beethoven Music.

At the concert of the Philharmonic Society last evening Josef Stransky devoted half of the programme to pre-Beethoven music. The first name was that of Haydn, who was represented by a symphony; Bach's name was down for a double concerto, and Mozart's for his overture to "Die Entführung aus dem Serail."

The symphony was that variously known and catalogued as Breitkopf, and Härtel, No. 9, and No. 5 of the Salomon set. Its key is C minor. There is a 'cello solo in the trio of the minuet movement, and after it Leo Schulz was called upon to rise and bow.

The Bach concerto was played on two pianos, by Messrs. Consolo and Fraemke, although the work was written for more ancient instruments. The programme furnished the information, also that the two pianos were of different makes.

Although "Die Entführung aus dem Serail" has been heard in New York, the overture has been infrequently played here, never before in the version heard last evening with the concert ending devised by Busoni.

After the intermission the orchestra played three Wagner selections, the overture to "Der Fliegende Holländer," the "Siegfried Idyl," and the "Kaisermarsch."

"SIEGFRIED" AT THE OPERA.

Mme. Fremstad as Brunnhilde in First Appearance Since Her Illness.

Mme. Fremstad reappeared in the part of Brünnhilde in "Siegfried," which was given last evening again at the Metropolitan Opera House. It was the first time she has sung since her absence from the stage of the opera house enforced by her recent illness, and the occasion was thus a significant one for lovers of Wagner's music drama, who have admired Mme. Fremstad's splendid impersonation of this character and her heroic and impassioned singing of the great scene at the end. She was again in excellent voice last evening, and her performance was one of great and moving power.

The rest of the cast were those who have appeared in the previous performances of the work this season. Mr. Burrian, the Siegfried, did much singing that was remarkably fine. Mr. Griswold as the Wanderer hardly seemed at his best, for there were times when his voice was unsteady, beautiful and expressive as it is in quality. Mme. Matzenauer gave great distinction to the music of Erda in the last act, and the Mime of Mr. Reiss was, as it has so often been before, the most complete embodiment of all Wagner intended to express in that personage of the drama.

A performance of much dramatic force and effectiveness, of great richness and color in the orchestral part, was conducted by Mr. Herz.

Mme. Tetrazzini in "La Traviata."

Another special matinée performance yesterday afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House was devoted to "La Traviata," with Luisa Tetrazzini as Violetta. The soprano must have surprised even her most ardent admirers upon her first entrance, for her dress was of the most startling nature. The foundation was a violent and unusual shade of green. Wound around this was a scarf of shining deep blue scales. There was also much gold fringe. Assisting Mme. Tetrazzini in the presentation of the opera were Messrs. Smirnoff and Amato. Mr. Sturani conducted.

Dramatic Arts Seniors Give a Play.

The first performance of the season by the senior members of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts was given at the Empire Theatre yesterday afternoon. "The Congressman," a three-act play, by John D. Barry, was presented by a cast made up of Dillon M. Deasy, F. Seril Peck, Gordon Gunniss, Frederick Bond, Jr., Thomas J. Macdonald, Maurice Sylbert, Helena Francis, Maude Eddy, Ellen Kraeer, and Harriette Rossignol.

Robert Edeson to Enter Vaudeville.

Robert Edeson, who has just closed an engagement in "The Arab," has been booked by Percy G. Williams for a season in vaudeville. Mr. Edeson will present the big scene from "Strongheart," with a company of about forty people. He will make his first appearance at the Colonial Theatre on Feb. 5. This will be Mr. Edeson's first appearance in vaudeville in a dramatic sketch.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Gustav von Seiffertitz has been engaged by Margaret Anglin for the production of Henry Arthur Jones's new play, "Lydia Gilmore," which will be presented at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, next Wednesday.

There will be a special matinee of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre next Thursday afternoon, Jan. 25, in addition to the regular matinee on Saturday. This will give Lewis Waller his first opportunity of seeing the play of which he is the producer.

Charles Dickson, author of "Three Twins" and "Bright Eyes," will appear in New York soon in a one-act play called "In the Suburbs."

A special bill made up entirely of women headliners will be presented at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre the week of Jan. 29.

KLYTIA IS SOLD FOR $975.

Replica of Benk's Statue Will Adorn Capt. De Lamar's New Home.

The beautiful marble and bronze lifesized figure of Klytia, with its arch of electric lights, went last night at the concluding Hermann Schaus sale at the American Art Galleries to Capt. J. R. De Lamar and will go, it is said, to his big new house on Long Island.

This figure is a replica by Johannes Benk, the sculptor, of his statue in the Hofburg Theatre in Vienna. Benk being commissioned to adorn the Imperial Couloir of the theatre with a figure typical of the love of light, chose the unhappy Klytia who, after having been transformed into a blue flower, the Helianthus, turned her face ever to her faithless lover, Phoebus, the sun. The figure was of marble and the drapery and the branches and flowers supporting the lights of bronze.

The replica, which Mr. Benk considered finer than the original, was made for William Schaus at a cost of $5,000, and starting at $500 last night it was finally knocked down to Capt. De Lamar for $975. This was the highest price of the evening.

Of the watercolors, the Signorinis, of which there were a number, brought the best prices. Capt. De Lamar paid one of the highest prices, "Chez L'Antiquaire" going to him for $350 and "Heureuse Recontre" for $200. Peter W. Rouss paid $390 for "Cadeaux des Noces" and $340 for "Le Neveu du Cardinal," $145 for "Amateur D'Echecs" and $140 for "Musique Egyptienne." J. J. Campbell paid $190 for "Esclaves Arabes Musiciens," J. C. Evans gave $145 each for "Fumeur D'Opium" and "Sentinelle de Cherif." These were all by Signorini. A Verboeckhoven sold in an extra lot after the watercolors went to E. McDermott for $145.

The returns for the evening were $5,650 and the total for the four sales of pictures $159,741.

Morosco to Stage "The Truth Wagon."

Oliver Morosco, the Los Angeles theatrical manager, whose production of "The Bird of Paradise" is now playing here, announces that he will make an early production in the East of Haydon Talbot's comedy, "The Truth Wagon." In the cast will be Max Figman, Edwin Arden, Frank Sheridan, and Christine Norman. The first New York performance will probably be given early in February.

TWO MORE DAYS FOR MOTOR TRUCK SHOW

Representatives of More Than 100 Lines of Industry Have Visited Exhibition.

Now running as the only exhibit of motor cars in New York, the Commercial Vehicle Show in Madison Square Garden is seeing some brisk business done this week. Each day the attendance becomes larger and the interest increases, and big crowds are expected during the two remaining days of the show. Representatives of concerns in more than one hundred different lines of industry have visited the show in the past few days. One man purchased a truck to cart marshmallows exclusively, and another wagon, purchased by a large junk dealer, will be used chiefly for carting old iron and metal. These are examples of how useful the motor truck has become in this age of specialists and specialization.

Among the interested spectators yesterday was Col. William F. Cody, (Buffalo Bill), who always has had a great love for horse-flesh, but he admits that the motor propelled vehicle has an advantage over the equine drawn wagon nowadays. He was particularly interested in the "Prairie Schooner," the truck which made a transcontinental trip last summer. Attached to it are souvenirs of many places in the Far West through which it passed, and through which Buffalo Bill has likewise passed many times with mule and horse drawn prairie Schooners in the pioneer days.

That a feature on one of the trucks at the Garden dates back as far as the year 70 A. D., or thereabout, may sound strange, yet it is being demonstrated daily to show its efficiency. It is a part of the mechanism of a sand or grain truck in the form of an Archimedean screw propeller. This worm screw is used for discharging the load by connecting it with the motor through the transmission gear. When it is desired to unload, the regular driving gears are thrown into "Neutral," and after engaging a special gear which actuates the propeller, the clutch is let in and the cargo emptied at the side of the vehicle through a telescopic chute.

A characteristic of 1912 truck models is that many are equipped with all metal bodies rather than wood. Some of these are of pressed steel construction, having no rivets. Several makers show cars with metal wheels, some with spokes and hub cast in one solid piece and machined down to true shape.

Among the visitors last night was one of the largest sanitary appliance manufacturers in this country, who said that he intended to use a motor truck as a traveling demonstration of the plumbing goods and supplies manufactured by his company. He was looking for a truck with a full panel body, into which he intended to build the most modern bath room that sanitary science can devise. Every fitting, such as tub, shower bath, trap, etc., even the floors and walls, will be tiled, and a cork mat is to repose beside the tub. When completed the truck will be sent on a demonstration tour of the country.

One of the interesting details of construction exhibited at the 1912 commercial car show is a rubber cushion drive on one of the trucks. This drive was developed ten years ago when the first drive of this sort was put into use upon a 10-ton truck.

NEW RETAIL AUTO FIRM.

Million-Dollar Corporation to Handle Commer and Vaughan Cars.

A big deal in motor vehicles was consummated last week, when Wyckoff, Church & Partridge, Incorporated, entered into a contract with the Transportation Sales Company, involving the purchase by the latter concern of Commer trucks and Guy Vaughan pleasure cars to the extent of a minimum of $1,000,000 dollars during the year 1912. This deal takes with it the exclusive representation in Greater New York.

The new company will operate from the present address of Wyckoff, Church & Partridge, Incorporated, at Fifty-sixth Street and Broadway, having taken a lease of that location for its salesroom and offices.

The broadened plans of the new company include the erection of a large six-story building in which will be installed a complete repair shop and service department. This same building will also include a mammoth public truck garage with spaces and accommodations for at least 200 motor vehicles.

Since last March, when the first announcements were made by Wyckoff, Church & Partridge, regarding the exclusive importation and manufacture of Commer trucks in the United States, the demand has developed greatly in excess of the ability to meet the needs of the firm's customers. In May every Commer truck which could be imported from England had been sold. By June 55 per cent. of the firm's customers had given repeat orders.

Big Order for Motor Trucks.

One of the largest purchases of motor trucks reported at the Madison Square Truck Show was made yesterday by the Standard Oil Company when it ordered eighteen chassis from the Peerless Motor Car Company of Cleveland. These trucks will be distributed to various parts of the country.

K. O. BROWN WINS; ABE ATTELL STALLS

Record Crowd at National Sporting Club Served with Unsatisfactory Bout.

Knockout Brown and Abe Attell went the full distance in the ten-round bout at the National Sporting Club last night, and the bout, that was carded as likely to be the "best in months," proved most unsatisfactory to a crowd which outnumbered any that has ever jammed its way into the clubhouse. When the pair climbed out of the ring Brown carried victory with him, having won by a considerable margin over the featherweight champion. He bore every appearance of a defeated boxer, his left eye closed and his face badly swollen, but he was the aggressor from the start, landed the harder punches all the way, and hit Attell much more frequently than Abe hit him.

Brown did not win through smothering the cleverness of Attell, the only way which victory seemed possible before they went into the ring. He won because Attell failed to show his much-advertised cleverness. It was a bout between a boxer who had nothing but ruggedness and willingness against an opponent who has shown himself to be the greatest little ring general the game has produced in years. Last night Brown showed all he ever had and Attell failed to show anything of the speed and cleverness that has gained him fame. It was a battle that was very disappointing to the followers of Attell, because Abe showed only occasional outbursts of speed, and they came so seldom that they were lost in the storm of hard wallops that Brown was sending in from first to last.

About the only thing that Attell showed at all time was power to assimilate punishment, and in doing this he further proved that Brown's so-called knockout wallop is a nonentity. The little Teuton realized early that he had very little to fear in the line of punishment from Attell and he tore in all the way as if intent on bringing the battle to a finish by the knockout route. He landed often enough and on a few occasions he had Abe backed against the ropes, with Abe making no effort to ward off the terrific swings. The punches reached home and bounded off Attell's face as if they were falling off a heavyweight. But they failed even to put the champion off his feet or place him in any apparent distress. The only time during the bout that Attell appeared to be in any trouble was in the sixth round when he complained to the referee that he had been hit low, and then he came back quickly, showing that he had not been hurt to any extent. He was off his feet once and then it was due to over-exertion in wrestling himself free from a clinch, rather than from any hard punch by Brown. Close followers of Brown who considered that Knockout had a chance to put Attell away with his so-called terrible left were as much disappointed at his inability to deliver it as were the Attell enthusiasts at the weak exhibition of the featherweight champion.

Brown did not display a bit more ability in carrying off the honors last night than he has in any of his recent bouts hereabouts. He was the same clumsy performer as before, but he was always strong and never let up any in aggressiveness. It was never considered that Brown could defeat Attell on the form he has previously shown, especially so since Abe has been able to take care of much cleverer lightweights, but he upset the dope last night.

A crowd of about 3,000 enthusiasts witnessed the battle. Every seat on the main floor, in the gallery, on the extra bleachers behind the west balcony, and on the stage was taken and hundreds more occupied the space in the rear of the hall, the only place where standing was possible. All the low priced seats were gone long before the first preliminary bout went on and late arrivals had to pay the top figure for reservations. On the streets speculators did a thriving business, the same as in the old days before the laws against speculators were passed, and many who saw the bout had to pay far beyond the regular price for the coveted pasteboards.

Before the men went on there was considerable talk that plenty of money had been wagered on the outcome, but inside the clubhouse the regulations regarding betting were strictly observed. There was a report that much money had been placed that Attell would be knocked out by so-called "wise" bettors, but Abe disproved this by failing to show at any time any disposition to go to the canvas.

After the last preliminary the principals subjected the crowd to the same tactics of delay, and fifteen minutes elapsed before the boxers made their appearance. Both were ready in their dressing rooms, which adjoined each other on the stage, and each held back, waiting for the other to make the first move. More than five minutes of wasted appeals were consumed by a club representative before Brown started the parade to the ring, Attell bringing up the rear. Brown was handled by Danny Morgan, Adam Brown, Willie Chandler, and Mike Smolick. Attell's seconds were Danny Goodman, Kid Broad, Jimmy Carroll, and Larry Ryan. It was announced that Brown had weighed in at 128 pounds at 6 o'clock, and that Attell weighed 121 pounds. Each announcement was met with smiles and groans.

"DIXIE KID" KNOCKED OUT.

Harry Lewis Puts His Opponent Away in Eighth Round.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 18.—Harry Lewis and "Dixie Kid," the American welterweight fighters, boxed here to-night in a fast bout. Lewis showed to greater advantage and knocked his opponent out in the eighth round.

Substitute Bout at Fordon A. C.

For some unknown reason, the advertised star bout of ten rounds between Mike Wagner and Jimmie Murray, at the weekly stag of the Fordon Athletic Club, last night, did not materialize, and the management of the clubhouse had to substitute a couple of preliminary boxers as the main event. In the substituted main bout Young Ketchell and Young Lefty, both east side featherweights, were the contestants, and the latter won. It was one of the most uninteresting bouts ever staged at this clubhouse, and neither boxer displayed any inclination to mix matters, and the bout was marked by much stalling and hugging tactics. In the semi-final bout of six rounds "Chicken" Raskin won from Young Marino.

NEW YORK Y. C. MEETING.

First General Assemblage of Club for 1912—Six New Members.

Vice Commodore Dallas B. Pratt presided last night at the first general meeting for 1912 of the New York Yacht Club at the clubhouse, 37 West Forty-fourth Street. Of the hundred or more yachtsmen present twenty were yacht owners, who voted on the various questions that came up.

Arthur Curtiss James, William E. Iselin. and J. Frederick Tams, the committee appointed by Commodore Blair to draft the memorial resolutions to be sent to the family of the late A. Cary Smith, were instructed by the resolution adopted to complete their work.

The Chairman of the Committee on the Revision of Racing and Measurement Rules, and the Chairmen of other committees reported progress. Secretary George A. Cormack reported that there are now 2,315 members, of which 1,623 are active; navy, 505; life, 136; honorary, 30; flag, 14, and foreign, 7.

Six members were elected, three regular and three navy. The yachtsmen present included Henry E. Sloane, Arthur Curtiss James, George M. Pynchon, James B. Ford, J. M. MacDonough, William Gardner, Henry G. S. Noble, Grenville Kane, James A. Alker, and J. F. O'Rourke.

FLIERS WANT SAFETY ISLES.

Park Commissioners Hear Plea for Landing Places in This City.

A proposal to set aside in this city safety isles on which aviators might alight was discussed yesterday at the meeting of the Board of Park Commissioners in the Arsenal in Central Park. Commissioner Stover presided, with Commissioners Higgins of the Bronx, Kennedy of Brooklyn, and Eliot of Queens as conferees.

At the invitation of the board John E. Sloane, head of aeroplane company; Ladis Lewkowicz, an aviator; Thomas A. Hill, Acting President of the Aeronautical Society; Leo Stevens, A. L. Lawson, E. L. Jones, H. B. Sherman, the Williams College aviator; Henry B. Wise, and Henry W. Wood of the Aero Club of America attended the meeting. Mr. Sloane thought that the safety of the public as well as of individual aviators demanded the creation of spots in various parts of the city where aviators might land without danger to themselves or others.

He was supported by all the others, except Mr. Wood, who said that flying over any city is dangerous, even to an experienced aviator, and that he believed the creation of special landing places would induce inexperienced men to attempt such flights.

ATLANTIC Y. C. DINNER.

Commodore Barnard Presented with Silver Loving Cup.

One hundred and fifty yachtsmen who sail in the Lower Bay under the flag of the Atlantic Yacht Club showed their earnest appreciation of the work done by their retiring Commodore, William H. Barnard, by presenting him with a silver loving cup last night at the annual mess dinner, held in the Belvedere Room at the Hotel Astor.

Richard C. Veit was the toastmaster, and among those present were J. H. Blackton, the present Commodore; Vice Commodore W. U. Taylor, Rear Commodore A. W. Teele, Fleet Captain Malcolm, F. M. Wilson, W. H. Sykes, Jr., Dr. J. E. De Mund, Horace Boucher, Warren Sheppard, Thomas Fleming Day, G E. Graef, and Bartow Weeks.

CHARLESTON GETS LICENSE.

Racing Which Starts Jan. 24 Sanctioned by The Jockey Club.

The sanction of the stewards of The Jockey Club was granted yesterday to the Charleston (S. C.) Fair and Racing Association to conduct a race meeting at Charleston, S. C., from Jan. 24 to April 19. E. C. Smith was appointed steward to represent The Jockey Club.

Recently The Jockey Club announced that it would declare the Charleston meeting an outlaw unless certain conditions were complied with. Yesterday John Marshall, President of the Charleston Racing Association, appeared before a special meeting of the stewards of The Jockey Club and made formal application for a sanction, which was granted.

Regarding the meeting at Columbia last Fall, which was declared an outlaw meeting, the stewards adopted the following resolution:

"The stewards of The Jockey Club hereby give notice that on personal application they will consider the question of reinstating all owners, trainers, jockeys, and horses which participated in the meeting held at Columbia, S. C., Nov. 30 to Dec. 30 last."

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

At the Irving A. C., Irving and Flatbush Avenues, Brooklyn, next Monday there will be a double windup, which will call out Eddie Sherman vs. Charley Goldman and Owney Langdon vs. Jack Martin. There will also be five other bouts.

The match between Eddie Smith of Yorkville and "Wee Wee" Barton of the west side has created much interest since it was announced that they have been matched to appear in the main bout of ten rounds at the Malvern A. C. of the Bronx next Monday night.

To-morrow night the Gowanus A. C. of South Brooklyn will stage a ten-round bout of more than ordinary interest to local enthusiasts. Willie Jones and Irish Paddy have been matched, and, as this will be their first clash, there is much speculation as to the outcome.

In addition to the ten-round contest between Jack Goodman, the "Pride of the West Side," and Young Otto at the Olympic Club, on West 125th Street, on Monday night, Manager McMahon will put on two additional ten-round bouts. In the first Pinkey Burns of the east side will box Battling Reddy, while in the second Eddie McDonald of Brooklyn will tackle Eddie Kelley of the Morningside A. C.

Young Rielly, the west side youngster, who is making a good showing among the featherweights, is to fight Willie Chandler of the Boys' Club at the Long Acre A. A. to-morrow night. Chandler is the sparring partner of Knockout Brown, who will be his adviser and chief second. The winner of this bout will be matched with Mike Malia.

Forty-two rounds of boxing will be served to the patrons of the Fairmont A. C. at its popular-priced show to-morrow night. The most evenly matched boys in New York will clash in the five contests scheduled. In the main event of the three ten-rounders Kid Burns will box Joe White. In the other two the pairs are Andy Cordes vs. Walter McGirr and Young Leroy vs. Jim Sullivan. Eddie King and Young Kampe and Jack Lyons and Joe Allen get together in two six-rounders.

Mike Gibbons starts work this morning at the New Polo A. A. to prepare for his bout with Jack Denning at the Fairmont A. C. next Tuesday night. Gibbons will have three middleweights to spar with. He worked a week in St. Paul before starting for New York, so that all he has to do is to keep moving. Gibbons realizes that in Denning he is opposing the cleverest boy he has tackled since getting into the front rank. He will have to bring all his skill into play to retain the welterweight title. Denning is improving rapidly. The easy manner in which he disposed of Moreau, a full-fledged middleweight, proves that he possesses all the qualities of a champion.

A ten-round bout between Willie Howard and Battling Mantell is the feature of the weekly boxing show of the American A. A. of Brooklyn to-night. This will be Howard's first fight since he boxed Battling Nelson, and the crack Brooklyn lightweight is in fine shape. As Mantell is also fit a great go is looked for.

Johnny Dundee of New York and Willie Jones, the Brooklyn boxer, are to be the attraction at the Long Acre Club next Wednesday night. In the second ten-round bout Jimmy Murray will face Mike Wagner, and the third ten-rounder will bring together Young Le Roy and Mike Clancy.

Young Cashman of the Fourth Ward and Young Sammy Smith of Philadelphia are slated to box next Monday evening at the Fordan A. C., Grand Street, corner of Orchard Street.

Next Monday evening Phillie McGovern will box Mike Malia in the star bout at the Carlyle A. C. This match has been hanging fire a long time. This will be Brooklyn against Jersey City, and Malia says that he will have 500 of his Jersey City friends on hand to root for him when they enter the ring.

WELD WINS IN CLASS C 18.2 BILLIARDS

Dr. Tuggle Beaten by Fifty-seven Points in Amateur Championship Tourney.

Sensational billiards marked the playing of last night's game at the Morningside Billiard Academy in the sixth game of the Class C 18.2 balkline amateur tournament for the championship of America, in which Robert Weld of Washington Heights defeated Dr. T. W. Tuggle of Harlem 200 to 143 in sixty-five innings.

As the tournament progresses the players show marked improvement in their cue work, but the skill of Weld last night eclipsed anything shown thus far. In addition to running out the game in the shortest time recorded he was successful in making the best high run and average of the games played to date. He bettered the high run established on Wednesday of 18 made by T. Harris by first equalling it, then passing it with a run of 26, and he increased the best average, which was 2 64-68, to 3.

His play throughout would have done justice to a Class B or a Class A player, as he exhibited some very pretty open play and good nursing of the ivories. The style of both contestants varied to extremes, the victor getting his scores by nursing and open table shots, while his opponents showed unusually well at three-cushion work.

The afternoon game scheduled for yesterday was not played owing to the failure of H. W. Desmond, who was to oppose C. B. Terry, to put in an appearance.

This afternoon W. W. Harris will play G. Moon, Jr., and in the evening game M. J. Doyle will oppose E. R. Hollander. The scores:

Robert Weld—2 4 0 0 2 4 0 1 1 0 1 4 6 0 1 0 0 0 12 1 0 6 4 0 0 4 2 0 7 2 15 3 8 10 1 1 2 0 0 5 1 0 0 10 3 5 1 2 0 0 0 18 9 26 3 8 0 0 7 0 1 0 1 6. Total, 200. Average, 3 5-65.

Dr. J. W. Tuggle—3 9 3 4 6 1 1 12 0 8 8 2 1 1 1 0 0 0 0 5 5 0 0 0 0 2 1 0 2 4 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 6 2 0 6 0 4 0 3 0 1 4 4 0 2 1 1 5 1 1 0 5 0 1 2 3 6 7 5. Total, 143. Average, 2 13-65.

MAYER DEFEATS MILLETTE.

Quaker Billiardist Averages 12 in Amateur Handicap Tourney.

J. Mayer of Philadelphia, playing scratch, last night defeated J. Millette of Brooklyn, handicapped at 180, in the 18.2 balk-line handicap amateur billiard tournament at the Knickerbocker Billiard Academy, Brooklyn, by the score of 300 to 87. Mayer was at his best, and averaged 12, the highest in the tournament. He began poorly, but after the fifteenth inning developed remarkable form, and for the remaining ten turns at the table averaged 23.

In view of his recent work with the cue, Mayer was the favorite, despite his big handicap. His highest run for the first half of the contest was 18. With his sixteenth inning he began a series of runs that soon left his opponent far behind. After scoring 24, Mayer amassed 27 and 34 in consecutive innings. He was again seen to advantage in the twenty-second inning, when, by splendid manipulation of the ivories and splendid handling of the cue, he piled up 63 points before losing his hand on a difficult two-cushion bank. Two innings later he came back with a prettily executed 40, and then ran out his total with runs of 11 and 14.

Millette was never dangerous as a contender. He was clearly off his game and missed several hard-luck shots. His best single contribution was 14 and his average but 3 12-25. To-night's game will bring together C. Scheidig (200) and George D. Baxter, (180.) The score:

J. Mayer.—1 13 5 8 3 18 0 0 16 0 0 1 4 0 0 24 27 34 9 6 63 8 40 11 14. Total, 300. Average, 12. High runs, 63, 40, 34.

J. Millette.—0 5 0 0 3 1 4 1 14 0 0 0 7 0 8 0 3 0 10 7 1 7 4 5 7. Total, 87. Average, 3 12-25. High runs, 14, 10, 8.

Smith Winner in Pool Match.

In last night's game of the amateur handicap pool tournament at Doyle's Billiard Academy Charles Smith defeated Edward Seabury by the score of 75 to 48. The winner was playing at the scratch mark of 75 points, and ran out his necessary tally in nine frames. Seabury was handicapped at 65 points. Smith made a high run of 15 points, while his opponent made 8 points.

TRIPLE TIE FOR GOLF LEAD.

Three New Yorkers Qualify in "Ad" Men's Tourney with Scores of 82.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 18.—A triple tie for first place gave snap to to-day's qualification round in the annual Winter tournament of the advertising golfers. I. S. Robeson of Rochester, Lee W. Maxwell, and C. W. Brocker, both of New York, tied at 82. A series of ties led up to the limit of admission to the first division, where Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher of Washington, H. S. Paine and C. A. Speakman, both of New York, were bunched at 94. In the play off Mr. Speakman won, dropping Secretary Fisher into the second division which he leads.

Winners in the special events preceding the tournament proper begun Monday morning, were announced to-day, among them a class A win in a bogey handicap by Secretary Fisher, who, playing with a handicap of 8, finished first with a score of 7 up.

F. J. Clarke Wins Roller Race.

Eleven roller skaters took part in the one-mile amateur handicap last night at the Metropolitan Roller Rink, and the result showed a triumph for the scratch man, F. J. Clarke of this city, who just nosed out S. Kaplan of Pittsburgh, who was in receipt of 50 yards as a handicap. He in turn outsprinted A. Garriano, a Brooklyn skater, in the race, to the finish line. The winner's time was 3:12 2-5.

Olympic Games Finance Chairman.

Col. Robert M. Thompson, President of the American Committee of the Olympic Games, to be held at Stockholm, Sweden, in July next, has appointed Alfred H. Curtis Chairman of the Finance Committee. Mr. Curtis, who has been a member of the New York Athletic Club for the past forty years, has been one of the most active supporters of amateur athletics.

Barnard School Games.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Secretary of the Public Schools Athletic League, announces to the schoolboys of the Metropolitan district that the eligibility marks for December, 1911, will be the only marks necessary for qualification as to entry in the Barnard School games to be held in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on Feb. 3, at which he desires to see a representative number of lads from the public schools in competition in order that they can show their ability against the pick of the lads from the private schools. Aside from the short and middle distance runs, running high jump, and shot put, there will be relays open only to lads sponsored by the Public Schools Athletic League. The distance of these races will be two laps, 352 yards, for ninety-pound lads, and a four lap, 704 yards, for boys weighing not more than 125 pounds.

NO TRADE FOR DEVLIN.

Boston Club Doesn't Want Giant Third Baseman in Exchange for Mattern.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—John M. Ward and James Gaffney, new owners of the Boston Nationals, had their first conference to-day with Johnny Kling, new manager of the club. Kling came from Kansas City for the meeting, Gaffney coming from New York.

According to Ward, there is no intention of trading Al Mattern, the little left-hander of the Boston Club, for Arthur Devlin of the Giants, as reported. "That talk did not come from us, I am sure," said Ward. "Mattern is a good pitcher. While I would like to have Devlin on third base—there is a lot of baseball left in him—I would not swap any of the present Boston Nationals for him."

Ward will suggest to the Rules Committee, of which he is a member, that players' spikes shall be reduced. He says that the present ones are too much like knives, and that the players could obtain as much speed with shorter ones.

Contracts have not been sent to all the players yet, as Ward wishes to discuss with Kling who shall be retained. Jeff Pfeiffer, pitcher, is the first to send in his contract.

SYRACUSE CLUB SOLD.

"Lefty" Burchell, Montreal Pitcher, Acquires Franchise in State League.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 18.—"Lefty" Burchell, a pitcher with the Montreal International League team, became owner late this afternoon of the Syracuse State League baseball franchise.

The deal, finally concluded after several months' negotiations, marks the retirement from baseball of George N. Kuntzsch and T. C. Griffin, both of whom have been actively connected with the sport for nearly a quarter of a century.

The amount involved in the sale of the Syracuse franchise was not made public. Mr. Burchell intends to give to the Syracuse fans a pennant-winning aggregation, and it is understood his plans include the bringing to Syracuse of several members of the Montreal team. He also proposes to secure new baseball grounds. He already has an option on a centrally located site.

Burchell is a resident of Jordan, N. Y., and he is now negotiating for his release from the Montreal Club. He formerly pitched for the Boston Red Sox.

McInnes writes that his injured wrist, which kept him out of the world's series games, is apparently as sound as ever.

BIG HOCKEY MATCH AT RINK.

Seventh Regiment and Squadron A in Annual Game To-night.

Representatives of two crack National Guard regiments will compete on the ice to-night, when the annual hockey match between Squadron A and the Seventh Regiment teams will be played at St. Nicholas Rink. Last year the Seventh won, and the year previous Squadron A carried off the honors. The guardsmen have engaged the rink for the night. Besides the hockey game there will be professional skating races for medals and an exhibition of Continental figure skating, probably by Irving Brokaw. There will be music by the regimental bands and the rink will be tastefully decorated with the colors of the two military organizations. Line-up:

Squadron A.	Position.	7th Regiment.
Kerr	Goal	F. Washburn
Johnson	Point	Milligan
Leake	Cover point	Yashburn

Yale to Test Cornell in Hockey.

Yale and Cornell will be opponents to-morrow night in the first hockey game of the intercollegiate championship series at the St. Nicholas Rink. The New Haven players have shown unexpected strength in their recent games, and since the defeat of Princeton in Cleveland are looked upon as the probable winners of the trophy. Capt. Harmon has had his men on the ice in the new Yale Rink every day since it was opened, and the result is shown in their improved condition. Cornell is the present holder of the intercollegiate championship trophy, having won it last season without the loss of a single game, and the team is making determined efforts to capture it again. In this it will have stronger opposition than it had last year, when the Yale and Princeton teams were weak in comparison to what they are now. To-morrow night's game will be the first real test of Cornell's ability.

Hackley School Hockey Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Hackley School hockey team defeated Holbrook School at Ossining this afternoon, 7 to 0. Owing to the poor condition of the ice the teams were handicapped.

Alco Truck Continues Run.

The Alco non-stop run truck reached the 300-hour mark at 5 P. M. yesterday. The former record held by the Alco was 168 hours. The truck put in its heaviest day hauling merchandise. It made twelve trips between Hoboken and Jersey City, carrying all told 43,978 pounds. The distance covered was 70 miles, and the number of stops made for loading and unloading was 96. As the end draws near, the run, which is one of the most practical yet attempted, the mechanism is reported to be working well.

Trinity School Wins at Basket Ball.

SCHOOLBOYS WIN BASKET BALL TITLES

P. S. 62 Wins Senior Championship and P. S. 64 the Junior Honors from P. S. 171.

There was a double-header for the basket ball championships yesterday at the new public gymnasium in East Fifty-fourth Street, when the premiership of the New York schools for both junior and senior divisions was decided. P. S. 171 furnished the losing team in each instance, the result in the juniors being P. S. 64 25 points, P. S. 171 8 points. In the senior match P. S. 62 administered a drubbing to the lads of 171, who scaled inside the 125-pound limit, the score being 36 to 4.

The contests marked the first held in the new gymnasium, which was turned over to the Public Recreation Commission early in the week. Considerable interest attached to the two games because of the fact that the teams of P. S. 171 had been coached by Miss Nancy B. Kirkman, who was Captain of the Normal College team during her last three years. Miss Kirkman's charges, in order to qualify for the final honors, had successfully gone through a tournament in which forty schools were represented, and this really fine showing warranted the presence of a "rooting" division which made itself heard during the progress of the playing.

The juniors, weighing inside 95 pounds, were the first on the floor, and from the outset the lads from P. S. 64 had the upper hand, finding the basket early and often. At the conclusion of the first half the tally was 13 to 1, and many goals were missed by the 64 lads because of the poor light. This defect was remedied between halves, and 171, through the services of F. Diskin, was enabled to run its score up to 8. Sondack and Sherman were the stars for the winners, as they tallied nine field goals between them.

In the senior championship some of the cleverest passing of the tournament was witnessed, the P. S. 62 boys being exceptionally fast, and with the ability to locate the basket from nearly any part of the floor. As in the junior contest the 171 lads were outclassed from the start, and the score at the end of the first half was 21 to 3 in favor of P. S. 62.

Holman was the star of the team and he was responsible for the caging of five field goals and three fouls. P. S. 62 covered well and never wasted time holding the ball. The passing was of high order and had it not been for the good defense of 171 the score would certainly have been well over the fifty mark. The line-ups:

C. Liebowitz	Centre	Sherman, Alter
F. Diskin	Left guard	Broder
Mandelowitz	Right guard	Mandell

Field goals—Sondack, (5,) Sherman, (4,) Rudish, F. Diskin. Foul goals—Sondack, (5,) F. Diskin, (6.) Referee—Dr. Way, P. S. A. L. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

P. S. 171, Senior.	Position.	P. S. 62, Senior.
Schwartz	Centre	Michaelson
W. Diskin	Left guard	Kantrowitz, Sabinsky
Polsky	Right guard	Weinberg

Field goals—Holman, (5,) Goldberg, (3,) Michaelson, (4,) Sabinsky, Weinberg, (2.) Foul goals—Holman, (3,) Goldberg, (3,) Schwartz, (4.) Referee—J. Silverman, P. S. A. L. Umpire—J. Clarke, P. S. A. L. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

Fordham Tyros Beat Xavier H. S.

The Fordham Tyros defeated the Xavier High School basket ball team yesterday in the former's gymnasium by a score of 8 to 0. Accurate shooting by Waldron, the Tyros, left forward, soon earned the home team a comfortable lead. At the conclusion of the first half the Xavier manager announced that he would not bring his team on for the concluding period. Waldron tallied all of the Tyros' goals. The line-up:

Fordham Tyros.	Position.	Xavier H. S.
Stanley	Right forward	Arbel
Ryan	Centre	Cennan
Webb	Right guard	Dealy

Field goals—Waldron (4.) Referee—Mr. Rapackie. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

Boston A. A. Wins Hockey Luckily.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—The Boston A. A. hockey team downed the Intercolonials, also of this city, at the Arena to-night by the score of 1 to 0. The championship of Boston went with the victory. Hicks, a former Harvard Captain, carried the puck down the ring. His shot for the cage hit one of the uprights, bounding back against Leslie's stick, from where it danced into the cage for the lone score of the game.

N. Y. U. vs. Georgetown To-night.

The New York University basket ball team plays Georgetown to-night in the gymnasium at University Heights. Capt. Moore of the Violet five has had his men working hard during the week in preparation for this game, and the outlook is very bright for the local quintet. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock, and dancing will follow.

Boston Athletes in I.-A. A. C. Games.

Boston will have a full representation in the athletic carnival of the Irish-American A. C., which will be held in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 25. Twelve Bostonese have signed entry blanks for the Winged Fist show and among the dozen are Sam Lawrence, who upset the crack N. Y. A. C. jumpers at the indoor championships with a jump of 6 feet 2⅞ inches; Oscar Hedlund, the game little miler who has taken Abel Kiviat's dust seven times, and yet has never been more than two yards back when they hit the tape; W. W. Coe, the shot putter, who formerly held the world's record; Whitney, the Dartmouth freshman, who under Harry Hillman's coaching has already put the 16-pound shot over 47 feet; Gidney, the crack high jumper, George Chisholm, the former Yale hurdler; Gram the sprinter, who figured in all the Boston-New York relay struggles, the New England "440" champion, and Reggie Foster, the former Harvard track Captain and intercollegiate sprint champion.

One of the most interesting events of the I.-A. A. C. games will be the team race for club teams of two men. The distance will be eight miles and the runners will be allowed to relieve each other as often as they desire at the end of any lap.

Relay Trophies at Stake To-morrow.

Bird S. Coler, former President of the Borough of Brooklyn, has shown much interest in promoting athletics among commercial institutions by offering a valuable trophy for a relay race for the department stores of New York City, which will be run off at the Millrose Athletic Association games to-morrow night in the Forty-seventh Regiment Armory, Brooklyn. As O'Neill-Adams, Macy's, and Wanamaker's have each obtained two legs each on the trophy, it will only require a victory to-morrow night to make it the permanent property of the winning store. This year's race has attracted a great deal more attention than formerly because crack teams have also been entered to represent Gimbel's, Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Co., Simpson Crawford, and A. I. Namm of Brooklyn. De La Salle is determined to annex the relay trophy donated by George H. Roberts, ex-Postmaster of Brooklyn, by winning their third victory to-morrow night at the Millrose games. Last year De Witt Clinton obtained a victory on the prize, and as an unusually large number of schools are entered, this relay will undoubtedly be the banner event in interscholastic competition this season.

AFTER SWIMMING TITLE.

Frizelle, Ritter, and Nerich Qualify for 220-Yard Championship Final.

Preliminaries of the 220-yard swimming championship of the Metropolitan district were held last night in the pool of the City Athletic Club, West Fifty-fourth Street with representatives of the New York A. C., City A. C., and the West Side Y. M. C. A. as contestants. The race was split in two heats, the final to be decided to-morrow night in the same pool.

According to the conditions the winner of each heat and the fastest second man of the heats were to qualify for the final. The City A. C. tank is sixty feet long. The men who took their marks for the first heat were R. E. Frizelle, City A. C., the 100-yard champion; N. F. Nerich, and Bud Goodwin, both the New York A. C.

Frizelle and Nerich had a battle royal throughout, swimming stroke for stroke, from end to end, with Frizelle the ultimate winner by about a foot, in 2:34. Nerich's time was 2:34 2-5, and Goodwin was beaten about ten yards.

For the second heat R. M. Ritter, City A. C.; J. H. Reilly, New York A. C., and J. P. Mantell, West Side Y. M. C. A., turned out. They finished in the above order, Ritter doing 2:33 2-5 for the distance, while Reilly was timed in 2:33 2-5, and Mantell ten yards back. Reilly was exhausted when he finished. This leaves Frizelle, Ritter and Nerich as the men who will contest for the honors to-morrow night. C. M. Daniels won the event last year, with Reilly second and Nerich third.

Swimming Races Postponed.

The scheduled swimming races for members of the New York A. C., carded for last night in the Winged Foot natatorium, were not held because of accidents and competition for the 220-yard Metropolitan championship, the preliminaries of which were held in the pool of the City A. C. Young Arthur McAleenan, the club's best fancy diver and the holder of several titles at the sport, injured himself playing basket ball, while the efforts of several of the other experts in the 220 race precluded the possibility of holding the series. No time has been set for the running of the races.

Midshipmen's First Swimming Test.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 18.—Columbia will be the opponents of the midshipmen next Saturday evening in the first swimming match the midshipmen ever had with representatives of another college. At the same time the finals of the inter-company gymnastic and wrestling tournament will take place. The midshipmen who will compete are: 220-yard swim, Hill and Spears; 100-yard swim, Whiting and Marshall; 140-yard swim, Elmer, Whiting, and Sackett; 160-yard relay, Elmer, Marshall, Whiting, and Sackett. Plunge for distance, Elmer and Waller.

COST OF JERSEY ROADS.

Outlay for Upkeep During 1912 May Reach $2,500,000.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—At to-day's meeting of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles J. B. R. Smith declared automobiles to be responsible for all road problems. He called attention to the fact that in 1907 repair charges amounted to $600,000, while the next year they totaled $800,000, and in 1909 had jumped to $1,421,000. For 1911, with the returns still incomplete, they had reached $1,565,000.

He asserted that the roads are rapidly falling into disrepair, and said that the worst is yet to come. "We are confronted with the fact," he continued, "that our great road system is in imminent danger of being wholly lost, for if heroic measures are not taken, in two years these roads will be well beyond repair. A very conservative estimate is that, even to keep the roads in a passable condition during 1912, it will require an immediate outlay of perhaps $2,500,000."

Morningside's Good Entry.

Solid gold prizes will be given in each event at the games of the Morningside A. C. and Company K on Saturday evening, Feb. 3, at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory. One of the big features will be the three-mile run. Entries have been received from such stars as Kramer, Collins, Smith, Masterson, Roth, Bellars, and others. Another big attraction will be the one-mile walk. Fred Kaiser, the National senior indoor champion, will start from scratch in this event and try to lower the mile record. Many other prominent walkers of the district will also start, among them being Renz, Swartz, Neudorfer, Voelmeke, Mann, and others. In the sprints many champions have entered. The other events are 60 yards, 300 yards, 1,000 yards, and three-mile bicycle race, all handicap. There will also be a 600-yard novice and a relay race open to small clubs of Greater New York. An added attraction will be the publication relay, open to publication houses for the championship cup donated by William F. Collier. Entries close on Saturday, Jan. 27, with Dieges & Clust; 20 John Street; F. A. Niles, 2,088 Third Avenue, and F. G. Norman, 430 West 125th Street.

DARTMOUTH TRACK PROSPECTS STRONG

Coach Harry Hillman Has Some Stars and Several Promising Athletes.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 18.—The chances that Harry Hillman, coach of the Dartmouth track team, will turn out a winning aggregation this season look exceedingly bright. The team will be composed largely of veterans, and the only misfortune came in the operation for appendicitis which was performed on Harmon, '13, the stellar miler, during the Christmas recess. With this exception the most prominent track men of last year, along with a wealth of new material, recruited mostly from last year's freshmen, have been practicing daily in Dartmouth's gymnasium.

In the weight events the Green will be particularly strong. A. H. Tilley, '13, holder of the New England Intercollegiate and the National Intercollegiate championship in the hammer throw, is the best performer in this department, but he is well supported by H. E. Marden, '12, who finished close to Tilley when he captured both om his championships.

In the dashes Dartmouth hopes for great performances on the part of W. Wilkins, '13, who equaled the college record of ten seconds in the hundred last Spring. In him and in Olsen and Tilley, both members of last season's freshman squad, the mainstay of the sprinting possibilities is centred. Capt. Steinert, Harry Haywood of the New York A. C., and Dolan, who also wears the colors of the Pastime Athletic Club, are the best middle-distance men in college, while in H. T. Ball, newly elected cross-country Captain, and Marceau, holder of the college record for the two-mile at nine minutes forty-eight seconds, will bear the brunt of the long distance work.

C. Buck, '13, and M. Wright, '13, are pole vaulters who have cleared eleven feet nine inches, while J. Enright, '13, holds a record in the high jump of an even six feet. Tilley, Estep, Gillis and Riley are all promising material for the hurdle events.

Coach Hillman has just published a list of track points won last season by wearers of the Green. He has counted only those points won by men now in college while representing their college, and he has credited each member of a winning relay team with five points and from ten to one points to men finishing from first to tenth place in the intercollegiate cross-country race.

Nine men have won more than 10 points. A. H. Tilley leads the list with 29; J. Enright, '13, is second with 23, and R. D. Mason is third with 21¼ points. The other men winning over 10 points are C. E. Buck, '13, 17¼; H. E. Marden, '12, 15; Capt. R. L. Steinert, '12, 12; W. Wilkins, '13, 10; C. P. Olsen, '14, 10, and J. Dolan, '13, 10.

To date only three indoor meets are on the schedule for the winter season. These are the Boston Athletic Club meet, Feb. 12; Columbia indoor meet, Feb. 18, and the Williams indoor meet, which will be held in Troy, Feb. 22.

Since its return as leader in the intercollegiate league the basket ball team has been practicing every evening. Dartmouth does not play another league game until Feb. 3, when Pennsylvania comes here. No changes in the line-up have been made, except that Jones has been playing in Gibson's position at left forward while Lowden and Snow have been alternating at right guard.

YALE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE.

New York University and Virginia Polytechnic Teams Dropped by Elis.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18.—The Yale football schedule for next Fall has been completed and will include ten games, the same number as in the past season. The two out-of-town games will be those at West Point and Princeton. The changes from the schedule just closed are that Lafayette displaces Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Washington and Jefferson will take the place of New York University. The opening game will be on Sept. 25. The schedule follows:

Sept. 25, Wesleyan; Sept. 28, Holy Cross; Oct. 5, Syracuse; Oct. 12, Lafayette; Oct. 19, West Point, at West Point; Oct. 26, Washington and Jefferson; Nov. 2, Colgate; Nov. 9, Brown; Nov. 16, Princeton, at Princeton; Nov. 23, Harvard, at New Haven.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JAN. 19, 1912.

THE PROGRESSIVE GOSPEL.

We wish the Progressives would be a little more definite and specific. Their doctrines are so interesting that they ought to be clearly defined, in order that the country may understand them. For instance, Gov. WOODROW WILSON told his audience at Detroit last night that "our laws lag almost a generation behind our business conditions and our political exigencies"; that those who insist upon undertaking to bring the laws up to date are called radicals, and that the radicals are not dangerous, they are perfectly sane, perfectly safe, and are really engaged in a salutary and conservative undertaking. But he did not say specifically what laws are out of date, what new laws are needed, or what we are to do to bring about a proper adjustment between the forces of Government and the forces of business. It is only by inference that we get out of his address the idea that the new laws must in some way be aimed at the abuses of business and finance. Certainly he might have spoken with greater definiteness.

Gov. WILSON is sure that the great progressive sentiment "now more and more dominates the country, and only awaits its opportunity to determine the policies of the Government." Mr. TAFT has been unable to check the rising Progressive tide, it is about to overwhelm the standpat Republicans; the country is breaking away from the old party formulas, and will "blaze a new path for itself in politics under a changed leadership and by new measures of reform." What measures of reform? Mr. WILSON assures us that it "will not be a doctrinaire programme, but common counsel. We must extend the lines of our debate to every class of society. We must by one means or another hold a grand assize again of the whole Nation." This, he says, "is the gospel of the Progressive," and we say that nothing could be more elevating or more vague and worthless as a political programme. Are the Progressives running away from their doctrines? Mr. WILSON has avowed his conversion to the initiative, the referendum, and the recall. He said not a word about these things at Detroit. Mr. BRYAN in his Outlook interview says that he is in favor of the recall and the initiative and the referendum, but that they "are not National issues." The direct primary is "also a State issue," and the recall is not an issue at all in many States. Mr. BRYAN'S chief concern, he calls it "just now the most important question," is "lest the railways shall control the appointments of all the Inter-State Commerce Commissioners and the United States Judges." So far as we have observed nobody but Mr. BRYAN is alarmed on that score.

What are the National issues of the Progressives? If they abandon to the States the various whimsies which make up the doctrine of direct government by the people, what is left? Nothing that we can see, save a bald, undisguised, old-fashioned hunt for the offices. Greed for power remains their only discoverable principle.

In spite of the vagueness of the gospel preached by Gov. WILSON and Mr. BRYAN, there are issues involved in the Progressive movement that have not escaped the attention of the country. If the movement tends anywhere at all, it tends toward structural changes in our institutions which would give them a very different character. If Progressivism means anything at all, it means an attack upon the representative principle of government. Four years ago a diligent student of our Constitutional system used these words in a university lecture:

> A Government must have organs. It cannot act inorganically, by masses. It must have a lawmaking body; it can no more make law through its voters than it can make law through its newspapers.

Those words were spoken by WOODROW WILSON in one of his lectures at Columbia University. We believe that the great mass of the intelligent people of this Republic share the conviction then expressed by Mr. WILSON, a conviction which he has since exchanged for one of a very different nature. The intelligent people of the Republic understand the foundation doctrine of Progressivism to be a direct denial of the principle proclaimed at Columbia by WOODROW WILSON. Mr. BRYAN and Mr. WILSON may think it wise to stop talking about their doctrines of direct government, but the people believe that that is what the Progressives aim at, that that is what they would attempt to fasten upon the country if, to use Mr. WILSON'S words, there should come to them the "opportunity to determine the policies of the Government."

TWO BILLIONS OF EXPORTS.

The Senator from Ohio who indignantly demanded what the United States had to do with abroad lived at a time when we had little to sell except what we could not eat, and what our foreign friends had to buy. If the Senator had lived until now he would have seen that we need for ourselves the foodstuffs we used to sell abroad, and that now we are competing in foreign markets to sell the surplus of our manufactures. How comes it that we can both more than feed ourselves and more than supply ourselves with many kinds of manufactures? When we were mainly an agricultural people we fed ourselves with difficulty, and for generations consumed each year what each harvest produced. We even imported food in the earlier portion of the last century.

It was impossible that this should continue in a country with the limitless agricultural resources of this continent, and with a people of such mechanical ingenuity as our own. It was the invention of agricultural machinery which enabled us to free ourselves from slavery to the soil, and set free the millions who now labor in our factories. If it had been a different country or a different people we should still be importing grains, and there would have been no possibility of creating or manning the magnificent mechanical plants which last year enabled us to export more than a billion dollars' worth of manufactures, being more than one-half of total exports which passed the two billion total for the first time.

To this notable result three concerns contributed over $200,000,000, and each of them is under the ban of the law or the Legislature. The Oil Trust has been condemned in the courts, and the Harvester and Steel Trusts are next on the list to feel the lash. Our exports of manufactures have more than doubled in ten years, and have quintupled in twenty years. The increase in this year almost equals the total of the year 1890. Of course the act of 1890 meant from the beginning what it was finally decided to mean in the year whose foreign trade results are so notable. It is interesting to conjecture what strides our trade will make now that it is freed from the menace of an unreasonable construction of the law. The present problem is one to be worked out by the great industrial concerns. The law will stand. We hope our exports of manufactures will never again fall below a billion a year. If administered with justice and intelligence and faithfully obeyed, the law need not be an obstacle to the growth of our export trade.

THE SITUATION IN CUBA.

The note of the United States Government has had the expected effect. The latest Cuban "incident" is all but closed. The demands of the "Veterans" that they should have all the offices in the administration's gift, and that exceptional administrative ability and zealous support of the Government on the part of persons who formerly upheld Spanish rule should be alike ignored, were utterly unreasonable. On the other hand, the threats of the hotheaded adherents of the "Veterans" were obviously absurd. The intimation that our Government might interfere to restore order in the republic has brought them to their senses. The office seekers and the Liberal Party generally do not want further intervention by the United States. They know well that if this country is compelled frequently to take over the government of Cuba, and teach the people how to administer their affairs, the time will come inevitably when there will be no further withdrawal.

The consummation devoutly wished by a numerically small proportion of the inhabitants of Cuba would soon follow. The island would be annexed to the United States. Many of the most prosperous planters and sugar refiners openly favor annexation. Most of the inhabitants of Spanish blood may regard that as the ultimate fate of Cuba. But a very much larger proportion of the inhabitants earnestly desire independence and a Government of their own, and believe themselves capable of working out their own destiny. As we have frequently noted, since the latest withdrawal of our troops from the island, they have thus far done as well as could be expected. Of the 2,000,000 inhabitants of Cuba, 1,500,000 are poor, illiterate, and of a mixed origin. They are slow to comprehend the principles of self-government. But there is no question that they are capable of improvement and that, if the young republic can survive the maladies incidental to childhood, its citizens will develop in industry and national pride.

At present it seems likely that President GOMEZ will profit politically by the outcome of the recent disturbance. All the factions have been drawn to his support, and he is fairly entitled to the credit of having averted intervention. A few months ago it seemed that he could not safely offer himself as a candidate for re-election. Many charges had been made against his administration, but some of these were as unworthy of credence as the threats of the "Veterans" that they would organize a general killing if their political plans were frustrated. The elections will not occur until October, however, and in the interval, with quiet restored and petty local quarrels forgotten, an intelligent and formidable opposition to the President may take shape. Cuba must have a statesman or two competent to administer the affairs of the nation for a Presidential term, and keep out of hot water while doing so.

THE NEW LAW COURTS.

With the action of the Board of Estimate yesterday the long struggle to secure a suitable site for the new law courts was ended. The building, which will be of huge proportions, will occupy the tract of land bounded by Leonard, Lafayette, Baxter, and Park Streets, while Centre Street, with its car tracks and footways, will run through its basement. The first cost of this site will be $4,425,500, and the cost of condemnation proceedings will not carry it much over $6,000,000. The first estimate of the cost of the building is $9,000,000. First estimates are not always to be relied upon. The Court House, with the land immediately surrounding it, will probably cost somewhat more than $15,000,000.

When the plan of the Board's Committee was first made known we expressed our disappointment because of the large outlay of money that would be required, and because of the danger that hesitation about spending so much money might open the way to renewed advocacy of a Court House site in the City Hall Park. But the step has now been taken. The plan has been accepted. It would be false economy now to postpone the acquirement of any of the neighboring land that will be needed to complete the plan of a civic centre. The blocks south, east, and west of the Court House site should be secured without delay. Real estate values in that neighborhood will soon be greatly increased. The city has undertaken an enormous work, and it should be carried through as soon as possible. We hope that when the Corporation Counsel is authorized to institute condemnation proceedings his instructions will include the whole area comprehended in the maps of the plan. It will be much cheaper to buy all of the land now than to wait until its price has increased 400 per cent. If the present expenditure for the whole improvement amounts to $25,000,000 or more it should be bravely met.

Mr. MCANENY explained yesterday that competent engineers had reported that a large building could safely be erected on the chosen site. We need not fear, therefore, a repetition of the experience the city has had with its Criminal Courts. A new building for those courts will probably be erected opposite the Tombs, north of the building of the civil courts. The new Federal Building for a downtown Post Office and the United States Courts will be in the same neighborhood. Now that the matter is settled, and the city is committed to the expenditure, every citizen will be inclined to make the best of it. Apart from the civic centre itself, the improvement of a part of Manhattan long neglected will be of great ultimate benefit. The Court House itself should be a public monument in which the great-grandchildren of the present generation will take pride. The prospect of a broad plaza connecting the terminals of the Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges, surrounded by parks and handsome public buildings, appeals strongly to the imagination. What is more, the restoration of City Hall Park to its original uses, with the Mullet Post Office and the Tweed Court House removed, will be a priceless boon.

THE WAY TO BUILD SEWERS.

Gov. DIX has received the tale of woe of the Bronx Sewer Commission. It took over a sewer which was complete except the outlet, and a deficit of $829,886, being the amount expended in excess of legal warrant. The Commission wants the deficit made good, and an additional allowance sufficient to construct the lacking outlet and to erect disposal works. If the disposal works had been erected in the first place, there would have been no need of the sewer to carry into the Hudson River the wastes of a district naturally draining into the Sound.

The sewer was undertaken because it was thought that nobody would object to a little more filth in the Hudson River, and thus no disposal works would be needed. Now the district which is being assessed for the work is paying for both, and paying more than was needed for either. It is learning all too late that there is a new standard of public housekeeping and that the woods are full of people who insist upon enforcing it. The landowners and residents along the banks of the Hudson have got out one injunction against using the sewer on the present plans, and the United States Government has got out another injunction forbidding the discharge of any sewage below the Federal standard of sanitation. And the Merchants' Association has a committee which follows all the various steps and communicates them to the press at intervals.

Altogether there are many encouraging signs of a set purpose to insist that sewage shall be purified as near as possible to where it is created, and not allowed to drain through a hundred miles or more of unprotected river, killing fish life, poisoning bathers, and creating centres of disease wherever the house fly penetrates. It is no longer a mere matter of the Bronx and the Passaic. The crusade is extending along the length of the Hudson. Within a few days the Federal officials engaged in dredging at Tarrytown informed the officials that their sewers were silting up the channels as fast as they were dug almost, and that something must be done about it if the Federal work is to be continued. The village officials have heard about the Bronx sewer troubles and are showing commendable anxiety to avert a like experience. Thus it happens that the horrible object lessons of the Bronx and Passaic sewers are doing good missionary work.

ARRESTS AND SENTENCES.

We print elsewhere Chief Magistrate MCADOO'S statement with respect to the recent complaint made by Police Commissioner WALDO, that thousands of men accused of slight or serious criminality get sentences which are suspended after conviction, are paroled, or have the charges against them minimized. Lest too much or too little weight be given to the Police Commissioner's complaint, we here reproduce a passage from his speech to the Washington Square Association:

> Thousands of persons get out of trouble through suspended sentences. A lad of 16 was arrested for burglary and was paroled. He was arrested again for the same crime and was again paroled. Again he was arrested and sent to the reformatory. A man stole a hansom and was arrested and charged with larceny. The policeman was ordered by the Magistrate to change the charge to disorderly conduct, and the man got off with a fine of $5. A policeman was not allowed to prosecute a lawbreaker because he got his evidence by looking through a window instead of being on the inside.

We think that, notwithstanding Judge MCADOO'S statement, there is ground for uneasiness. The Chief Magistrate cannot speak for the Court of Special Sessions, where the more serious cases are tried, and where sentences may be suspended without his official knowledge. But Commissioner WALDO has cited specific cases of dereliction in both the Magistrates' Courts and the Court of Special Sessions. Either the Commissioner has reports of such cases in his office, or he has spoken without warrant of fact. Mayor GAYNOR can obtain the reports, if they exist, and publish them, or he can tell the public that they do not exist, and that it need not worry about a possible lax enforcement of the law. We think the Mayor should act in the matter.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

More Than Ingratitude Is Involved.

Not only do a good many people seem to be leaping somewhat rashly—since they have as yet heard only one side of the story—to a conclusion as to the WILSON-HARVEY episode, but they all land on a conclusion containing the word "ingratitude," a word which, though not particularly short, is particularly ugly. It might perhaps be well for these hasty ones to remember that it doesn't take long to wait a minute; also, that there is or may be an element of truth in the proverbial saying as to ingratitude being a virtue in politics. To be sure, it isn't, but then again, to be sure it is—when those who make and elect a candidate for office do it for the purpose of benefiting themselves rather than the public.

To some of us, too, it seems a bit queer that the delicate-minded persons who are so shocked over what they consider a manifestation of ingratitude have not been once moved, as well they might be, to raise the question of confidences betrayed and private conversations revealed. When one asks an intimate friend for whom one has been doing something intended to be kind and helpful, just what that intimate friend thinks has been the effect of these services, he is sometimes put in a most embarrassing position. For it may be, and not infrequently is, the case—as everybody knows who has suffered from the over-zeal of friends, and who has not?—that truth requires the telling of the would-be benefactor that his wisdom does not equal his intention, and that it would be a real favor if he would make himself for a while or permanently an inactive and inconspicuous feature of the background.

Some people cannot do that and others can. It depends a good deal on the importance of the ends in view and the amount of harm that the over-zealous friend has done or is likely to do. Gov. WILSON received such an inquiry and he answered it. Doubtless he expected or hoped that his reply would have about the effect it did, but probably he did not expect, and certainly he did not hope, that the conversation would reach the public ear, either through the short and calm explanation made by one of its two bearers or the long and emotional one that has come from the other.

Far be it from us to attempt to decide the many and complex questions which this episode raises; we do not know who was wholly right or who was wholly wrong, or even if anybody was; our only desire is to call attention to the number and the complexity of the questions, and to suggest the wisdom of suspending judgment, of delaying harsh criticism of any of the gentlemen concerned, until the whole affair is clearer than it is now.

At Least Better Than Riot.

In Philadelphia, as here, the appearance of the Irish Players, or rather their performance of "The Playboy of the Western World," has been the signal for protests that the piece misrepresents and traduces the Irish peasant. The protests have taken the now familiar form of violent oratory in the orchestra and galleries of the theatre, the throwing to or toward the stage of some harmless missiles and the writing of indignant letters to the local papers. But in Philadelphia this was not, as in other cities, all there was to the demonstration, or even all there was to it except free advertising or the creating of an amount of "business" which these actors and their plays could hardly secure in any other way.

For there is in Philadelphia one GARRITY, a man whose moral sensibilities and powers of aesthetic discrimination have been so sharpened and sensitized by his own art or profession, which is that of selling rum, whisky, beer and other genial liquids to a thirsty and grateful public, that he had to do more than contented the manifestants of New York and Boston. He went to court, swore out warrants for all the Irish Players and had them arrested on the charge of presenting an indecent play. They were held for trial, but let out on bail, and the show went on.

Mr. GARRITY says that he would have done this even though the characters in the play had not been, or pretended to be, Irish. In other words, his objection to "The Playboy" is general, not racial. This assertion does credit to Mr. GARRITY'S sense, whatever doubts it may excite in cynical minds as to his veracity, for if the play is really indecent it certainly should be stopped, while the contention hitherto made—that the Irish peasant should be immune from presentation in a false or unpleasant light—is too absurd for consideration by anybody not eager to make his own virtues and patriotism notorious.

Dramatists have a perfect right to find, imagination helping, figures criminal or ridiculous, not less than figures heroic or pathetic, wherever they choose. Mr. GARRITY is on firm ground. Critics many and of supposed competency disagree with him as to the quality of "The Playboy," but he has a right to his opinion, as they to theirs, and he has taken the proper way to secure a judicial settlement of the question.

Further Action Is Needed.

What on the face of it looks like a case deserving of more investigation than it now seems likely to receive is that of the Syrian, SALIM TABET, who was arrested the other day and charged with carrying a loaded revolver. At the time of his arrest he vehemently declared that the weapon which the detectives said they found in his pocket had been placed there by themselves to justify their action. He seems to have had no difficulty in proving that he is a respectable and law-abiding citizen, and apparently the Grand Jury believed, not the detectives, but him, in regard to the revolver, for on Wednesday they dismissed the complaint.

Now if the detectives really did what TABET says they did, it was a police outrage of the very worst sort and deserving of the severest punishment. If they did not, that, too, should be demonstrated.

The arrest of an innocent man on suspicion, though unpleasant and highly to be regretted, may be, and often is, perfectly justifiable; but the deliberate manufacturing of false evidence against any man, innocent or guilty, is beyond pardon, and if ignored or condoned will inevitably lead to hideous and intolerable abuses.

So far as is now known, TABET was arrested because his complexion and those of the Black Hand men are of a like swarthiness. That was an excuse, but it was hardly a reason. The case would seem to be one worthy of careful attention from both Mayor GAYNOR and Commissioner WALDO.

TISSUES' AFFINITIES FOR DRUGS.

Homeopathist Says Hannemann, Not Ehrlich, Discovered the Principle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial article of Sunday, Jan. 14, on "Medicine as a Science," Prof. Ehrlich is given credit for announcing the principle underlying the action of drugs. Accurate as you usually are, in this article you have fallen upon error in two particulars: First, you give credit to Ehrlich when it should be given to Hahnemann; secondly, the "affinity" of which you speak is probably a property of the cells of the body and not of the chemical in the blood stream.

The pharmacologist has abandoned the idea that drugs have an "elective affinity" for certain parts of the body, and, in common with all scientific thinkers, now holds to the belief that the cells themselves have a selective affinity, or, in the new language, a "tissue proclivity" for certain chemicals, or chemical reactions.

That the theory of affinity has a reasonable basis is shown by many very interesting facts. For instance, silver taken into the system is not found in the general endothelium, but only in the endothelium of the vessels of the choroid plexus at the base of the brain. Strychnia affects the cells between the motor neurons and sensory neurons of the spinal cord and does not affect either of the two, even though the cells are apparently the same histologically. Carbon is found in the connective tissue of the joints and lungs, but not in the connective tissue of the kidney or in the stroma of other organs histologically the same. Tetanus toxin acts upon the motor nerve cells and nicotin upon the ganglion cells of the sympathetic system. Every homeopathic physician is familiar with the effect of serpent's venom upon the blood.

Peculiarities of English Pronunciation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the English names quoted in your article to-day, I have been telling a story in my lecture with the coronation pictures, of Mr. Mark Twain. When he returned from one of his early visits to England he was asked what he thought of the way they spoke over there, and he replied: "How can a stranger hope to speak a language, when the people spell a word 'Chumley' and then pronounce it 'Marchbanks'?"

There are many others, more simple and yet less known; for instance, how many people, even from England, pronounce the poet Cowper's name as it should be spoken, "Cooper"? Then there is the Irish, Geoghegan, which is Gugen, and Tyrrwhitt, which is spoken Tirret. In Devon there are some near neighbors, one family called Carey and another called Carew, yet the "Careys" are "Carews," and the "Carews" are "Careys."

You have a typographical error. "Choyne" should be "Cheyne" to rhyme with "raing." It refers to the well-known place in Chelsea "Cheyne Walk."

In America how many people pronounce your charming actress's name correctly, Miss "Taliaferro," which is "Tolliver"?

The Deceased Husband's Brother.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of your note under the above heading, "Deceased Husband's Brother," in today's TIMES, I can assure you that you are under a misapprehension in supposing that a marriage with a deceased husband's brother, like that just contracted by a widow at San Francisco, would give rise to ecclesiastical discussions and letters to the newspapers if contracted in England. The act passed several years ago by the British Parliament legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister also legalizes, ipso facto, marriage with a deceased husband's brother, and marriages of this character are now so common in the United Kingdom that they occasion no comment.

Even the Church of England, which for years offered strenuous opposition to the passing of the Deceased Wife's Sister Act, has at last realized the absurdity of the ecclesiastical law prohibiting marriages of this character—a law utterly without sound scriptural warrant—and licenses for these marriages may now be obtained from the Archbishop of Canterbury himself without difficulty. The Use of "Thon."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his plea for a personal pronoun of common gender Dr. Funk suggests that the need has been fairly met by "thon," as recorded in the Standard Dictionary, and credits Dr. Converse with the coinage of that word. As a native of the north of England, may I say that "thon," in the sense of that one or yon, though never of the pronoun of the third person, has been in common dialect use in Northumberland from time immemorial? "Who's thon lad?" used to be an everyday inquiry in the streets of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Similarly, the word "thonder" is heard for yonder. Both words occur also in the dialect of Scotland, whence, of course, they crossed the border.

Bryan's Disapproval of Harmon.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Bryan's violent denunciation should have a favorable effect on Gov. Harmon's candidacy. Thoughtful men will consider that the great good that Gov. Harmon has accomplished in Ohio, and which promises so much for the National Administration if he is in power, is the cause of Mr. Bryan's fierce opposition. Any promise of reform and enforced honesty in the administration of public affairs, seems to rouse the ire of the Nebraskan.

Gov. Harmon should esteem himself fortunate in obtaining Mr. Bryan's disapproval.

CHARGES AND CONVICTIONS.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo Discusses Police Commissioner's Complaint.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read the editorial article in this morning's TIMES anent the figures which I sent the Mayor. Most of the newspapers misprinted the figures, which were 107,225 arraignments on warrant and without, last year, as against 179,421, with and without warrants, for 1908.

You express some doubt as to whether or not this reduction was made with due regard to the proper enforcement of the law, and you say Commissioner Waldo complains that Magistrates too frequently order serious charges altered to those of a lesser degree, and, in other serious cases, Judges suspend a great number of sentences after conviction.

But attention has been called to the fact that a great number of cases of felonies and misdemeanors held by the Magistrates were dismissed by the Grand Jury for not having sufficient evidence to sustain them, and some of the Judges of the higher courts, and, I believe, the District Attorney, made complaint in a public way that the Magistrates ought to examine into the cases more carefully with the view to dismissing them in the first instance. In fact, I understand that this complaint was carried to a point where it was seriously contemplated to have the Grand Jury present the Magistrates for sending down too many serious charges against defendants which could not be sustained either in the Grand Jury room or on trial.

I made a public reply to this, at the request of the Magistrates, saying that it was only a short time before that the criticism was made that they were minimizing serious charges to lesser ones, and that now the pendulum had swung the other day, and they were in danger of being officially reprimanded for not reducing the gravity of the charges or dismissing the cases on the evidence presented to them.

An examination of the records here shows that for a period of six months about 48 per cent. of felony charges were found not to be sustained by the proof offered in Magistrates' courts.

It must be remembered in the practical workings of these courts that the Lieutenant at the police station generally takes without question the charge for the highest degree of offense from the police officer making the arrest, or accepts the statements of possibly aggrieved and angry complainants at their full face value. On closer investigation next day, in the courtroom, the evidence may be found not to sustain the higher offense charged.

As to the suspended sentences, so far as the Magistrates are concerned, I think you will find on examination they are mostly confined to cases of intoxication where the man or woman has been locked up over night, has given no trouble to the officer, has employment and is fairly respectable, has no money, and wants to go back to his or her work, and in addition where there is no record that he or she had ever been arrested before.

NOT ENOUGH DETECTIVES.

Merchant Complains of Shoplifters, Pickpockets, and Confidence Men.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note the report on the decrease in arrests. In the report and comment made thereon it is said that our respected Mayor feels it to be due to the extra efficiency of the force plus the cessation of arrests for petty things, but there is one phase of the situation which seems to be entirely overlooked, that is, the inadequate police protection through the detective branch of the service now rendered to large business organizations.

In the Tenderloin precinct, which has within its boundaries such concerns as Tiffany & Co., Gorham, Altman, McCreery, Rogers Peet, Waldorf-Astoria, Herald Square and other large hotels and business houses, there are but five detectives available for protection against shoplifters, confidence men, and that class of parasites that prey on business houses.

I can safely say, from my own experience, that the goods lost by the activity of shoplifters has been greater this year than in the history of our business, and I think that the same report would be made by our business associates within this section.

Pickpockets are as thick on Thirty-fourth Street as flies around a honey barrel. What chance has a uniformed man to arrest their activity, and how can five men only cover this district day and night and confine their activities to looking after this class of criminals when they are called upon to do much more serious work in looking after crimes such as grand larceny, &c.? Capital Punishment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The reason why many murderers escape punishment is that public sentiment is strongly averse from inflicting the death penalty for crimes of passion. It is generally agreed that the constant procession to the chair of ignorant, impetuous Southern Italians, who have killed in hot blood, is a stain upon the good name of the State.

On the other hand it is universally felt that to permit such fiends as Wolter and Richeson to escape the chair would affront the public conscience.

Why not have two degrees of murder, but let the distinction be "mitigating circumstances" as in France, instead of premeditation. Let murder in the first degree—sordid, deliberate murder—be punishable by death. Let murder in the second degree—with mitigating circumstances—be punishable by sentence of from one to twenty years' imprisonment.

The Suffering Horses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Certainly every reader of THE NEW YORK TIMES indorses the suggestion that appeared in last Sunday's issue of sprinkling clean ashes on asphalt that is as slippery as a china plate in order to give the horses a footing.

I have watched a horse strain every muscle to obey the lash and command of the driver on a steep grade; welts from the whip have stood out like cords on his body, while he was unable even to stand.

Dirty Downtown Streets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The streets in the neighborhood of the Equitable Building are one mass of slush, snow, and mud. 'HE, BEING DEAD, YET SPEAKETH'

Though "paths of glory lead but to the grave,"
Yet immortality awaits the brave,
Who laying down their lives, at duty's call,
Careless of self, have yet a care for all;
And even in death's grasp still bear in mind
The welfare of the friends they leave behind.
And such an one was Walsh—he greatly dared,
And having lost, remembered those who shared
The peril with him—bidding each to save
Himself—he sank into his fiery grave,
He speaketh yet—what though his form be gone,
He liveth still in that which he hath done.

FOOD PRICES HIGHER AND STILL RISING

Expected Fall After Christmas Didn't Take Place, but Instead Everything Went Up.

NOTHING AT ALL CHEAP

Meat, Vegetables, Butter, Eggs, Cheese Hitting Top Prices, Some of Them Making a New High Record.

Food prices have gone up again. The looked-for fall after Christmas failed to materialize, and in direct ratio to the fall in temperature there has been a strong and steady upward movement in prices of foodstuffs—meats, dairy products, and vegetables.

Beef of the better grades, for example, has increased from 2½ to 3 cents a pound in the last four weeks, with a proportionate increase in the cost of cheaper cuts. In the same time lamb has jumped from 10½ cents a pound to 13 and 14 cents. All poultry is on the upward wing, chickens having risen 2 cents in the last two weeks, while turkeys are getting scarcer and scarcer and geese are rareties. Moreover, dealers say, the fowls sold now are admittedly not so good as those sold earlier and cheaper. Good roasting chickens bring as much as 25 to 28 cents a pound, ducks 25 cents a pound.

Inclement weather has boosted also the price of dairy products. The "make" of butter has fallen off steadily in quantity throughout the Winter, and the supply of milk available for churning has been lessened by an increased demand for fresh milk to make condensed milk. Cheese is in greater demand, and the supply from abroad has fallen off, owing to last Summer's milk-drought in Europe. It is nearly impossible to-day to get imported Roquefort cheese, the market being higher than ever before. All American cheeses have gone up about 2 cents a pound, most of the better makes bringing 17 and 18 cents. First-grade butter costs 48 cents a pound, and even storage butter is much higher than usual, owing to heavy drafts upon the supply early in the Winter. The prospect is for still higher prices.

Vegetables of all kinds have gone up, and even canned goods have risen proportionately, canned tomatoes, for example, being 2 cents a can higher than a year ago. Potatoes are $3.50 a barrel to dealers, and $3.75 a barrel retail, and Brussels sprouts and other greens are scarce. Cauliflower, cabbages, turnips, parsnips, string beans, and peas—all are at record high prices, and are expected to maintain their attitude until the return of warm weather.

Eggs, while expensive, are rather less so than most of the other staple foodstuffs. The hen has been laying about her with friendly intentions toward the common people, and now that the pullets' cackle is soon to be heard loud through the land, prices of eggs are expected to go down a bit more. Good eggs can be turned into better omelettes at 48 cents a dozen wholesale, and groceries are selling them at 5 cents apiece.

Retailers stoutly disclaim all responsibility for the general rise in prices, pointing out that they themselves are among the worst sufferers, inasmuch as such conditions invariably result in a curtailing of purchases. Cold weather is generally credited by them with chief importance as a factor in the increased cost of living, while they blame, too, the intensely hot, dry weather of last Summer for weakening the food supply. The great increase in population, too, they say, has not been offset by corresponding increase in production, and farmers and cattle raisers are struggling under a continually growing handicap to meet the demands upon them.

"We retailers buy fowls at 16 cents a pound," said one dealer, "and have to buy them by the barrel to get them at even that price. We cannot sell enough to pay us back the purchase price."

"Customers fall away when prices go up," said one butcher. "People who have traded with us for years leave us when we have to charge them a cent a pound more for what they buy. They go to some other fellow, who charges them the same price, because they feel we ought to favor them because of their long dealing with us. We lose more than the public in the long run."

DRUGS PRICES UP NOW.

Many Medicinal Plants Indigenous to This Country Are Disappearing.

This higher cost of living recently has been manifested in another way than in the increased price of food products; the price of vegetable drugs has gone up. Even if the layman has not had notice to this effect served upon him yet it is probable that he will learn of it from his physician and his pharmacist before long. There has been a short crop in Europe of various drug-yielding plants, and there is a decline in this country in the production of others. The New York Medical Journal says:

"Those physicians who have had occasion to purchase drugs recently must have noticed that a considerable advance has occurred in the prices of a large number of vegetable drugs. This advance has been due to several causes, the two most important being the small crop yield in Central Europe, whence many of our more commonly used drugs are obtained, and the gradual depletion of the supply of indigenous drugs due to the disappearance of our wild forests. Coincident with the comparative failure of the drug crop in Central Europe there has been a very scanty crop of opium harvested in Asia Minor, with the result that this drug and its products have also materially advanced in price.

"It may be expected that in the course of events the prices of European drugs and of opium will, within a couple of years, again sink back to approximately the levels of cost which prevailed prior to the comparative failure of the crop of 1911. But with our indigenous drugs no such prospect is in sight. In fact, there is every probability of a steadily declining crop and advancing price in such drugs as hydrastis, senega, lobelia and serpentaria.

"Hitherto we have depended wholly upon the wild plants for our supply of these and a long list of domestic drugs. This supply is being rapidly depleted under the inroads which agriculture is making on our forests. The time is not far distant when some of these valuable indigenous drugs will become practically extinct unless active and effective measures are taken to preserve them.

"The United States Department of Agriculture now maintains several drug experiment stations, and the stations connected with several of the State agricultural colleges are making studies of botanical drugs indigenous to these States with a view to their artificial propagation. We cannot hope for supplies of these drugs except through their systematic growth on a generous scale.

"Several firms in Europe have made a distinct commercial success of the cultivation of medicinal plants, and the reports of the Department of Agriculture indicate that there is a good field for such ventures in the United States.

"One of the popular novels of the day, 'The Harvester,' by Mrs. Gene Stratton-Porter, paints a most alluring picture of the commercial possibilities of the expert cultivation of medicinal plants, and several of the colleges of pharmacy and one or two manufacturing houses have undertaken experimental work in these lines with very hopeful results. Notwithstanding the growing importance of synthetic products in medicine, we are still dependent on nature's laboratory for some of our most important drugs.

"It is true that the synthesis of hydrastin has just been announced and we may therefore be able to dispense with hydrastis canadensis, but there still remains a large series of drugs of botanic origin for which we must turn to the woods and the fields. It is, therefore, highly important that the cultivation of medicinal plants be established before the supply of wild plants has been completely exhausted.

"A Philadelphia professor of pharmacognosy has an interesting and beautiful garden of medicinal plants at his suburban residence. Such physicians as are happily possessed of ample grounds will find the experimental growth of medicinal plants a fascinating hobby, which might easily be developed into a profitable industry."

STOTESBURY GIVES MILLIONS TO BRIDE

Widow of Oliver Cromwell Receives Rare Jewels at Her Marriage to Philadelphia Banker.

DOWRY FROM BRIDEGROOM

President Taft Among 30 Guests at Ceremony at Bride's Home Performed by Bishop of Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Edward T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, a partner of J. Pierpont Morgan, and Mrs. Oliver Cromwell were married to-day at Mrs. Cromwell's home, 1,808 New Hampshire Avenue, this city, by the Right Rev. Alfred Harding, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Washington.

President Taft was one of thirty distinguished guests at the wedding, and was among the first to toast the bride at the informal wedding breakfast which followed. He was accompanied by his military aide, Major Archibald W. Butt.

The bride received among her wedding gifts diamond and pearl jewelry valued at several hundred thousand dollars. It was also reliably reported that a dowry of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in securities had been settled on her by her husband. Mrs. Stotesbury is 47 years old. Her former husband, Oliver Cromwell, died in December, 1909.

The pearls received by the bride from her husband and the diamonds from his senior partner, J. Pierpont Morgan, are said by experts to be unique in the world. The pearls of the bridegroom's gift necklace when hung about Mrs. Stotesbury's neck in a single strand reach to the ground. Each pearl is perfect in size and color. Mrs. Stotesbury can wrap this necklace seven times about her neck and the lower strand will still reach to her waist.

Sapphire Worth $100,000.

The necklace presented by Mr. Morgan consists of more than thirty diamonds of irregular shape, matched in color, each stone, set in platinum, with a pendant of one great pear shaped diamond, the size of a robin's egg. Mrs. Stotesbury also received a diamond necklace similar in form to the pearl necklace from her husband. From this necklace, a large placque shaped pendant, the size of a half dollar, is hung. The centre stone of the pendant is a sapphire, the bride's birthstone, the size of a thumb nail, said to be worth more than $100,000, and surrounded by diamonds, ranging in size from a pin head to a pea arranged in geometrical designs. Mrs. Stotesbury wore this necklace and her engagement ring as her only jewels during the wedding ceremony.

Another striking gift was a diamond tiara, with seven points, each tipped with a pear shaped pearl as large as the end of the bride's index finger.

Other gifts in jewelry were a red enameled watch bracelet, a corsage pin of diamonds, a bar of diamonds and rubies and several loose bracelets in sapphires, diamonds and rubies, each forming a separate band, a solid gold toilet set, with several jeweled clocks and picture frames which were personal gifts, several of them from trans-Atlantic friends.

The Ceremony Before Altar.

The ceremony was performed before what is ordinarily a handsome chimney place, to-day an altar, in a chapel like recess formed by two white velvet draped predeux, a pair of large church candlelebra and numerous smaller candles placed in ecclesiastic effect on the mantle, which was banked in bride roses, white azalias and farleyence ferns. The wall above the mantle was hung in Southern smilax to the ceiling as were the several doorways. American beauty roses stood above the two drawing rooms in handsome vases, while several baskets of orchids, violets and more roses, added their fragrance to the apartments.

During the assembling of the guests preceding the ceremony, which was set for 4 o'clock, an orchestra of stringed instruments played a nocturne from Chopin, the Swing Song by Barnes, the Evening Star from Tannehauser, and Humoreske by D'Vovak, all selected by the bride. The latter entered the room with her eldest son, who, like his late father, bears the name of Oliver Cromwell.

A woman of unusual beauty and great personal charm, she looked much less than forty-seven years, set forth in the marriage license. Her gown was of ivory white uncut velvet draped over a petticoat of old English point, the latter showing in a flat flounce on the front and side of the narrow skirt.

The train which lay twenty-seven inches on the floor, was square and crossed at the end by an eight inch band of sable. The top of the gown was cut out back and front and filled by a flat chimosette with high collar of the lace which also formed the set, in rather full sleeves ending just below the elbow. Two narrow lines of sable covered the seam where lace and velvet met. Mrs. Cromwell wore neither hat nor gloves, and from the wealth of jewels showered upon her were only a modest chain of small diamonds holding a pendant of sapphire and diamonds matching her famous engagement ring. She was unattended and dispensed with the usual bride bouquet or its substitute a white bound prayer book. She was met at the door by Mr. Stotesbury with his best man, Arthur Emlen Newbold of Philadelphia. Bride and bridegroom then walked to the floral altar where the Right. Rev. Alfred Harding, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, stood waiting to read the bridal service.

During the ceremony the orchestra played the Love Song from "Faust," and at its conclusion the familiar wedding march by Mendelssohn.

The President, who was accompanied by his Military Aide, Major A. W. Butt, arrived just before the ceremony, and was among the first to toast the bride at the informal breakfast which followed.

The Wedding Guests.

The small company present included, in addition to the Chief Executive and Mrs. Cromwell's children, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Emlen Hutchinson, sons-in-law and daughters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Newbold, Mr. and Mrs. Horatio G. Lloyd of Philadelphia, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William H. Porter, and her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Miss Julia Chester Wells, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Horatio G. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown, Mrs. Donald Swann of Baltimore, Rear Admiral Harmony, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Gaff, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hemphill, and Miss Helen Squier of Washington.

The bride and bridegroom left the house shortly before 6 o'clock for Mr. Stotesbury's private car, which has been in Washington several days. The bride's going-away gown was of gray taffeta made with blouse and skirt, the former showing an underblouse of white lace with accessories of delicate gray leather embossed in Persian colors. Her hat was trimmed in shaded ostrich plumes of blue and gray. The fur cloak which covered this toilet was of Russian sable made with the precision of a velvet or cloth semi-fitting cloak, enveloping its wearer from throat to ankles.

While the immediate movements of Mr. and Mrs. Stotesbury and their private car are unknown even to their children, they are expected at Palm Beach within the week. They will return to Washington Monday, Feb. 5, to pass several days before going to Philadelphia, where Mrs. Stotesbury will make her first appearance at the opera on the evening of Feb. 11.

The jewels received by Mrs. Stotesbury will make her collection one of the finest in America. The gifts were not on view this afternoon, and have been shown only to the intimate friends of the bride. The statement that Mr. Stotesbury to-day settled $3,000,000 on his bride, while neither denied or affirmed by the persons directly concerned, is said by close friends to be correct.

SOCIAL WELCOME AWAITS CONNAUGHTS

Duke, Duchess, and Princess's Visit to be Marked by Several Entertainments.

GUESTS OF WHITELAW REID

Mrs. Ogden Mills Among Their Hosts—Governor General's Party to Spend Two Days in Sightseeing.

Plans have been completed for the entertainment of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and their daughter, Princess Patricia, who will arrive here early on Monday morning from Ottawa, to be the guests of Whitelaw Reid, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Mrs. Reid, until the following Thursday, at their New York residence, 451 Madison Avenue.

The visit of the Duke, who is the new Governor General of Canada, will be purely informal. Several dinners and entertainments have been arranged for them during their four day's visit.

They will leave Ottawa on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 on the Ottawa and New York Railway, arriving at the Grand Central Station at 7:26 on Monday morning. The party will include, besides the Duke of Connaught, the Duchess and the Princess Patricia, one lady in waiting, Col. Lowther, Military Secretary of his Royal Highness, and Capt. Beaupre, Controller of the Vice-Regal household.

On Monday evening Ambassador and Mrs. Reid will give a dinner for their royal guests at their Madison Avenue home, and on Tuesday evening they will give another dinner, to be followed by dancing, to which additional guests will be asked. On Wednesday evening Mrs. Ogden Mills will entertain the royal visitors at dinner at her town residence, 2 East Sixty-ninth Street. On Thursday his Royal Highness and family will return to Ottawa.

It is not likely that the royal party will attend the opera on Monday night. On Tuesday and Wednesday they will probably go sight-seeing as this is the first visit of the Duke and Duchess and the Princess Patricia to New York, and they are naturally interested in the metropolis of the Western world. As is marks the first visit of royalty to New York, although in a purely social way, without any official significance, since the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia, ten years ago, the interest here is very keen and society is looking forward to the functions which have been arranged for the royal visitors by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid.

The Connaughts are the most popular royalties in England. His Royal Highness, the Duke, uncle of King George, is said to have been Queen Victoria's favorite son as the Princess Henry of Battenberg was her favorite daughter. He is a typical English gentleman and very democratic, and his children are like him in this respect. He is now a man of a little more than sixty and very distinguished looking, really more so than the late King Edward VII. He is a good sportsman, a straight shot and a hard rider. He entered upon his appointment as Governor General of Canada last October, arriving at Quebec on the Empress of Ireland on Oct. 12, with the Duchess. The Princess Patricia joined her parents at Ottawa in December.

The Duchess of Connaught is one of London's greatest hostesses. She is very pretty, always beautifully gowned and decidedly modern in ideas. She has always favored Americans and her daughters have many friends among the daughters of well-known Americans in London. Princess Patricia is the pet, not only of her parents but of all England as well. She is an enthusiastic golfer, rides well, and is an excellent artist and amateur photographer. Hunting, out-of-door sports and dancing are her favorite diversions, and she has already made herself very popular in Canada.

The Madison Avenue home of Ambassador Reid is a splendid one, and in exterior style it resembles somewhat the large town houses in London. It is situated at Madison Avenue and Fiftieth Street, directly opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral, and as the electric illumination of the cathedral will continue throughout the coming week, the site for visiting royalty could not be better, from a picturesque point of view.

During the Coronation festivities Ambassador and Mrs. Reid gave a large dinner to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at Dorchester House, in London. The Ambassador was suffering from a cold yesterday, but was able to be up and about his house.

MRS. VANDERBILT A HOSTESS.

The dinner tables were decorated with Mme. Jardin roses, jonquils, and farleyance ferns. The decorations of the dining hall and the ballroom were smilax, ferns, and palms. The guests included some of the younger people in society, as well as the older ones.

Several dinners were given last night, among the hostesses being Mrs. J. Allen Townsend, Mrs. William M. V. Hoffman, and Mrs. William Church Osborn.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brokaw gave a dinner dance at their residence, 985 Fifth Avenue, for young married people. The guests for the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Justin McCarthy Little, the Rev. Herbert Shipman and Mrs. Shipman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Tinker, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. David Wagstaff, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dalziel, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morris, Mr. and Mrs. George White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carroll, the Misses de Coppet, the Countess Festetics, Miss Marguerite Shonts, Miss Angelica Brown, and Miss Olga Wiborg; also Frederick Frelinghuysen, Griswold Thompson, George Scott, Ellis Hoffman, Charles Hayden, Samuel Babcock, Howard Willets, Campbell Steward, Lawrence Smith, and Addison Cammack.

MR. SEAGLE'S RECITAL.

An American Baritone with a Beautiful Voice and Fine Vocalization.

A song recital was given yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall by Oscar Seagle, baritone, with the assistance of Yves Nat, pianist, who played his accompaniments and also a number of solos. It was not Mr. Seagle's first appearance in New York, for he had sung earlier in the season at the Hippodrome in a concert of a miscellaneous character. He is an American, who has sung before in other places in this country, more or less distant from New York; he is well-known in Paris. But to most of his auditors yesterday he was, no doubt, a newcomer. To many his singing was a surprise in the manifold and remarkable excellences it displayed; and it was obvious that it gave a very real pleasure, that was unreservedly and enthusiastically manifested.

Mr. Seagle's voice, a baritone, is of unusual beauty of quality and exceptional power and sonority. It is, indeed, an exceptional gift of nature, but of quite equal importance are the fine training to which it has been submitted, the unerring control that Mr. Seagle has over it in almost every respect, and the high and dignified artistic uses to which he puts it. He is a pupil of Jean de Reszke, who has been able to appropriate something more than the externals of his distinguished teacher's methods and style. He is saturated with them through and through. And that means that he is possessed of many of the subtlest and most charming qualities in the art of vocalism, that give his singing, considered as an exemplification of that art, great value and interest.

Mr. Seagle's programme comprised songs of the older period in Italian and French—"Non Piu Andrai" from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro"; a song by Benedetto Marcello, and two old French songs of the seventeenth century; songs by modern French composers: Duparc, Fauré, and Debussy; songs in German by Dvorak, Brahms, Grieg, and Rachmaninoff; and in English by Roger Quilter, Winthrop Rogers, Blair Fairchild, and Walter Rummel. After the German group he added the prologue from Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," and after the English group the air "Vision Fugitive" from Massenet's "Hérodiade."

There was an infinite charm in Mr. Seagle's singing of the French songs; the old ones, especially, he delivered with finished phrasing and in a suave "mezza voce," perfectly placid and poised, and with a beautiful quality and gradation of tone. He was almost equally successful in the modern French songs, especially in Duparc's "Phidyté," of remarkable originality and profound beauty, and in the familiar "Mandoline" of Debussy, which he was obliged to repeat. The grace and delicacy of Brahms's "Serenade" he found appropriate expression for; and in the declamation of Grieg's "Eros" he was highly effective, as he was in the prologue to "Pagliacci." Mention ought to be made of Mr. Winthrop Rogers's half-humorous and tender "Let Miss Lindy Pass" and Mr. Blair Fairchild's "Memory," in which simplicity of means are directed to a deep expressiveness.

Notwithstanding the variety in power and in tonal quality that Mr. Seagle commands, there is yet a certain lack of variety in emotional expressiveness and characterization of mood in his singing of songs. Instead of upon these matters his attention seems more directed upon the qualities of vocalization, the attainment of beautiful utterance through the many purely technical resources of which he is master. And yet in the more obviously dramatic music that he sang he showed an abundance of interpretative power, whence it may be inferred that this will come to him sooner or later in the more difficult and elusive medium of songs. And it is well that this is so, for there is need at this time of emphasis upon the absolute necessity of a mastery of the art of vocalization.

Mr. Yves Nat not only played Mr. Seagle's accompaniments with the utmost finish and musical beauty. He showed himself also to be a brilliant solo player, whose performances had an interest of their own, though brilliancy and clear articulation were more notable in them than warmth of feeling or beauty of tone. Two movements from Beethoven's "Appassionata" sonata, two pieces by Debussy, and an etude by Saint-Säens were his contribution to the programme, to which he added a nocturne and two etudes by Chopin, for which he was much applauded.

CAREER OF OSCAR SEAGLE.

Southern Baritone Began Giving Concerts When Twelve Years Old.

Oscar Seagle, the baritone, who gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, was born in Chattanooga, Tenn., about thirty-four years ago. He says he doesn't remember when he began to sing, it was so early in life. His voice changed very early, too, and he gave a concert as a baritone when he was 12 years old.

"Thereafter," said Mr. Seagle recently, "I was always giving concerts. I toured extensively through the West and South from the time I was twelve until I was twenty. And although I had never studied singing, I had a good, natural talent, and when I did begin to study I found that although I had much to learn there was little I had to unlearn.

"When I was twenty I came to New York, and Mr. Savage, after hearing me, engaged me for his English opera company, then playing at the American Theatre. I sang such parts as Silvio and Escamillo, not very heavy baritone parts, some smaller even than these. At this time I took four or five lessons in singing. Then I began to sing in concert again.

"I was married when I was twenty-three, and my wife, who spoke Italian and French, was very keen that I should go abroad. So I packed up and went with $800. When I arrived in Paris in March, I did not know who to go to for study, but I finally went to Jean de Reszke. After he had heard me sing he said he could do something with me, and I started taking lessons of him.

"Even with careful living, however, my money was gone by October. Jean, however, said to me, 'Find money enough to live on and you won't have to pay for your lessons until you are making money of your own.' I did manage to borrow enough to live on, and I continued to study with Jean for two years.

"After that he started sending pupils to me, and in a short time I had all the pupils I could want. I gave a few concerts in Paris, I sang with the Colonne and Lamoureux Orchestras, and a little outside of Paris. Latterly I have given two concerts a year in Paris. For five years I have remained there, teaching most of the time, however, a thing I had no intention of doing when I went over.

"This year Jean told me to go away and sing for a time. That is why I am in this country. I shall go back in March, however."

Mr. Seagle says that he has no intention of singing in opera again.

"To sing in opera," he continued, "one must study for a long time, and then have practical experience in some of the smaller cities before one can have a success in the great theatres. I like my home in Paris too much to go in for that sort of thing now."

TARIFF LEAGUE OUT FOR HIGHER TARIFF

In Annual Meeting It Decides to Hold the Protection It Has and Ask for More.

EXPECTS TO MAKE PLATFORMS

Plans to be Laid at Both Party Conventions—The Country Flooded with Tons of Literature.

The American Protective Tariff League held its twenty-seventh annual meeting in its headquarters at 339 Broadway yesterday afternoon and resolved to fight harder than ever to preserve all the protection this Nation has at present and to increase it where more protection seems needed. There were about ninety members of the league present, and it was said that they represented at least $100,000,000 and more than 1,000,000 employes.

It was made clear that the only things that can interest the league are principles, and that these must appear in high tariff declarations to gain favorable attention. Efforts are to be made to put planks in the platforms of both of the big political parties, and to this extent politics was discussed. Any attempt to lower the tariff on anything will be hotly contested, and so will any attack on the existing tariff, and influence is to be sought to the end that the tariff on woolen goods may be increased and the products of farmers, fishermen, and other inadequately protected products may get in under the high tariff umbrella.

Inquiry as to whether the league could be persuaded in any circumstances to support a Democrat for President met with the statement that in one Southern State, where the league has twenty-three members, twenty-two of them are Democrats. Mr. Wakeman said:

"The league is absolutely non-political. We don't care a cuss what a man's politics are, but to secure our favor he must be for a protective tariff. We are for no candidate, but we might be against a candidate."

To Influence Platform Committees.

In the near future committees will be named to indorse men of proved fidelity to a high tariff for members of the Platform Committees at the National conventions. There are always some men of this character on these Platform Committees, but the league desires to have men that it knows will fight for what the league wants and not simply follow along the tariff lines of least resistance. They want aggressive, strong, influential men with oratorical powers of sufficient force to shape the platforms as the league wants them, or at least to keep out of them planks that threaten to weaken the barriers that are up.

The report on Schedule K was cordially approved by the league, as it was considered a complete vindication of the claims of the protectionists regarding difference in cost of production here and abroad and the need of protective duties.

Col. William Barbour, who has been President of the league for two years, resigned, and Francis L. Leland, President of the New York County National Bank, was elected in his stead. Col. Barbour is more or less interested in Schedule J, which relates to linens. He declined a re-election for "personal reasons." Mr. Wakeman said:

"We really ought to have a President who is not identified with any schedule of the tariff in order that he may be perfectly free to act, and as nearly every business man is likely to be interested in the tariff question we naturally turned toward the banking interests for our President, because these men are interested in the success of every business."

The other officers elected are: Edward H. Clift, Vice President; John E. Reyburn, former Mayor of Philadelphia, Second Vice President; Wilbur F. Wakeman, Treasurer and General Secretary; A. D. Juilliard and William Einstein of New York, Lyman B. Goff of Rhode Island, and John H. Eastwood of New Jersey, Executive Committee; A. D. Juilliard, Francis L. Leland, and A. M. Patterson of New York, Charles Cheney of Connecticut, Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, A. H. Heisey of Ohio, and Arthur J. Draper of North Carolina, the Board of Managers.

A Call to the Faithful.

Mr. Draper, who is the son of Gen. William F. Draper of Hopedale, Mass., succeeds Theodore Justice of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Patterson, who is the President of the Waterloo Manufacturing Company, succeeds Capt. H. S. Chamberlain of Tennessee. Resolutions reaffirming the doctrine of protection offered by Mr. Juilliard were unanimously adopted. They read:

> That if protection is to be preserved as a National policy the time has arrived when protectionists must interest themselves actively, energetically, and efficiently to that end. Wherefore we call upon all members of this league and upon protectionists everywhere to exert their rightful influence and strength toward stemming the tide of free trade in this country. We call upon protectionists to interest themselves in behalf of protection in their social, business, and political organization; in clubs, in municipal, county, State, Congressional, and National Conventions, in order to meet and counteract the mistaken theories which operate as indirect attacks upon protection. It is the lawful right, as it is the material interest and the patriotic duty, of protectionists to stand up and fight for the faith that is in them.
> In his connection we commend to the careful attention of protectionists the very able and comprehensive report of the Tariff Board recently submitted to Congress. The findings in this report completely justify the attitude of protectionists regarding the difference in production cost and the necessity for adequately protective duties in the schedule covered by the report of the Tariff Board. Protectionists invite inquiry as to facts, and are willing to stand upon the results of fair and thorough investigation.

Last year the league collected $42,334 and spent $41,061. There are now 5,391 publishers and editors throughout the country engaged in disseminating the literature of the league. The system of the league in getting its printed matter into the hands of every person who may be influenced by it is almost perfect. It knows how every editor in the country stands as between protection and free trade, it has lists of all the men who will vote the first time in November, and is in close touch with the Faculties of many colleges and universities. In one month, a few years ago, the league sent out twenty-four tons of printed matter.

A Few of the Infant Industries.

Mr. Wakeman said yesterday that the annual canvass of senior classes of colleges increased from 21,000 to over 26,000, covering 288 institutions of learning. The documents distributed amounted to 20,327,632 pages of literature.

Some of the big enterprises represented at the meeting of the league yesterday were The Continental Iron Works, George P. Ide Company, Julius Kayser & Co., American Lithographic Company, Pacific Coast Borax Company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, William Ryle & Co., Schwarzenbach, Huber & Co., Susquehanna Silk Mills, United States Gold Leaf Manufacturers' Association, Chipman Knitting Mills, Firth Sterling Steel Company, the W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Company, The Simons & Struve Hosiery Company, The United States Glass Company, William Ayres & Sons, The Winsted Hosiery Company, Edwards & Deutsch Lithographing Company, Hartford City Paper Company, American Woolen Company, Cheboygan Paper Company, J. A. Holmes Lumber Company, The St. Louis Plate Glass Company, The Sulloway Mills, The Bound Brook Woolen Mills, The Bronze Powder Works Company, National Lock Washer Company, Standard Essence Company, Weidmann Silk Dyeing Company, Columbus Iron and Steel Company, the Peerless Motor Car Company, and the Nekoosa Edwards Paper Company. The concerns represented nearly every section of the country.

PRAISES THE TARIFF BOARD.

National Tariff Association Pleased with Start Made on Schedule K.

The Executive Committee of the National Tariff Commission Association has been studying the report of the Tariff Board on Schedule K, and sent out yesterday from the headquarters of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, 200 Fifth Avenue, the report of the commission's President, John Candler Cobb, upon the result of their research.

This report praises the work of the Tariff Board as thorough and exhaustive, and promises to uphold the board's report as an "example of the efficiency of the scientific investigation of facts as applied to the tariff, and of the possibility of producing a statement of existing conditions so clearly set forth and so generally accepted that it can be used as a basis for tariff consideration without serious or intelligent attack on its reliability."

Mr. Cobb's report in part says:

> The publication of the Report of the Tariff Board on Schedule K—wool and woolens—gives us the first concrete opportunity to study and test the value of the work in which we are engaged, and it is of the greatest importance that the report should be read and analyzed, not only by those directly interested in wool and its manufacture, but also by all interested in the development of the Tariff Commission idea.
>
> It is an important part of the system advocated by the association that reports should be published and subjected to public examination and criticism before being accepted, and it is therefore not this report as issued that we indorse, but this report after it has withstood the test of public criticism, or has been corrected and amended to meet any errors or omissions developed by analysis. Already many members of Congress, the wool and woolen men generally, the importers, the labor men, and students of the tariff, are at work on the report, and it is safe to say that any weakness will be promptly developed, and our association intends to see to it that every criticism is either fairly met and answered by the Tariff Board, or frankly accepted.
> We expect through the medium of such reports as this to bring tariff consideration down to a business basis, and a discussion of tariff principles, and to eliminate the absurd debate and dispute over questions of ascertainable facts which have heretofore characterized and befogged our tariff making.

Henry R. Towne of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company was asked by a TIMES reporter yesterday why he, as a manufacturer of locks and builders' hardware, was so much interested in the revision of the woolen tariff schedule. Mr. Towne, who is Treasurer of the National Tariff Commission Association, replied:

"Because I want an intelligent and just tariff—whether it be high or low, on goods such as I manufacture as well as all others, and I thoroughly believe that the only way to get that is by means of a Tariff Board.

"The methods by which we have heretofore fixed tariff rates are crude, spasmodic, unscientific, and outgrown, producing inequalities which are unnecessary, unjust, harmful, and absurd. Tariff revision, in order to get the best results, should be continuous, not intermittent, so that rates may be adjusted promptly to current changes in industrial and commercial conditions at home and abroad; obviating the disastrous upheavals of business, which intermittent tariff revisions involve, and giving to the people continuity and steadiness, combined with reasonable flexibility.

"The Tariff Board should take care never to usurp the powers of Congress by attempting to fix tariff rates. You will notice that the splendid report of our present Tariff Board on Schedule K does not even recommend legislation, that is, as it should be."

EQUITABLE WALLS SAFE.

City Constructor So Reports—Agents Say Insurance Business Is Unimpaired.

The warmer weather of yesterday aided the big force of workmen materially in their task of clearing away the débris from the ruins of the Equitable Life Assurance Building. It raised again the report that the walls of the building were in danger of crumbling, but John O'Connor, Chief of Construction of the Building Department, after making a thorough examination that took him to every part of the ruins that was accessible, gave as his unqualified opinion that what is left of the structure is sound. "There isn't the slightest danger of the walls collapsing," he said.

Most of the workmen were kept digging away yesterday to gain an entrance to the basement on the Cedar Street side, where the vaults of the Mercantile Trust Company are located, in the hope of recovering the body of Frank J. Neidert, the missing watchman. One gang cut through thirty-six heavy bars in thirty-one minutes.

Workmen also started to tear away flooring and partitions on the upper floors yesterday morning, tossing the débris into the street and raising such clouds of dust that complanits were made about it. The work was finally stopped, and arrangements were made with Fire Commissioner Johnson for the installation of a sprinkling apparatus to-day.

The vault in the office of Kountze Brothers & Co., which was located on the second floor of the Cedar Street side of the building, over the vaults of the Mercantile Trust Company, was reached early yesterday morning, and the valuable books and securities of the firm, which were found unharmed, were removed to the new quarters at 141 Broadway.

There was a luncheon and reception for the agents who are attending the "Presidential Convention" in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon, at which several officials were present, including Vice President Wilson. This is really a yearly consultation between official heads and the agents on general business matters. These agents represent every State in the Union, and they all reported that the fire had not affected business. In fact, the reports showed a steady increase. The only reference made to a new building at the luncheon was that if a new building is erected it will be planned to represent the spirit of the "New Equitable." No definite plans were announced.

EQUITABLE AGENTS DINE.

Two Best Men in Each State See New York as the Company's Guests.

A dinner was given last night at the Waldorf-Astoria by the Equitable Life Assurance Society to its general agents in the field and an association of field agents known as "The Presidential Delegation." There were 250 persons present, including the President, Vice President, and twenty-six creditors of the Equitable.

Last September President Day of the Equitable made an arrangement with his agents by which the two best men in the field in each State were to be selected by the company as delegates to last night's dinner. These were present at the dinner last night, having been brought to New York from every city in the country as guests of the Equitable up to the time they reach their homes again. The wives of many of the agents were included in this arrangement.

Among those speaking last night were President William A. Day, John D. Kennan, a Director; William Whitman, a Director; George T. Wilson, Second Vice President, and Henry L. Rosenfeld, Insurance Assistant to the President, who has direct supervision over all the agents.

RICE MAKES HIS OWN PLEA.

Defendant in Scheftels Case Delivers Impassioned Address to Jury.

George Graham Rice addressed the jury in his own defense yesterday at the trial of the Directors of B. H. Scheftels & Co. before Judge Ray in the United States District Court, on the charge of having used the mails to defraud. He spoke after Emmanuel Myers had opened the case for the defense on behalf of Scheftels, Belser, and Stone, and Joseph Bondy had also spoken for Ralph Waterman, the fifth defendant. Rice's speech was delivered with dramatic emphasis, and appeared to have a considerable effect on the jury.

The defense, as outlined yesterday, relies on showing that the business of the Scheftels firm does not differ from that of other similar firms in Wall Street, and that it treated its customers fairly.

In speaking of his own reputation to the jury, Mr. Rice said: "There isn't a man that can say he ever got a bad deal from me, and I defy any man in Wall Street or any other street to say that I didn't stand behind my stocks with my last dollar, and I have gone broke scores of times in protecting the people that had confidence in me and followed my advice."

Some excitement was caused at the beginning of the day by a conference between Waterman and his counsel, Bondy, with Judge Ray. The Judge sent for a Marshal, and it was rumored that Waterman was about to enter a plea. Before the Marshal arrived, however, Waterman once more approached the bench and whispered to the Judge, and then the order for the Marshal was countermanded. The case will be continued this morning.

Plaza Guest Seeks Diamond Earring.

While on her way to the Plaza Hotel Wednesday evening, Mrs. Francis Gay, a guest at that hotel, lost a diamond and pearl earring. She took the Subway from 181st Street to Fifty-ninth Street, and rode from there to the hotel in a taxicab. A reward is advertised to-day in the Lost and Found column of THE TIMES.

QUICKLY SURRENDER OLD TOBACCO BONDS

Three-Quarters of the Recalled Issue Is In and Guaranty Trust Has Disbursed $41,000,000.

PRICES GO UP ON THE CURB

American Tobacco Stockholders Took Their Rights and Subscribed $36,000,000, Which Is Now in Hand.

Bonds of the American Tobacco Company to the amount of more than $78,000,000 were surrendered to the Guaranty Trust Company between Jan. 10 and the close of business yesterday, in exchange for cash and bonds of the Liggett & Myers Company and the P. Lorillard Company, as provided in the reorganization plan approved by the Circuit Court. This is about three quarters of the entire amount of bonds which the American Tobacco Company had outstanding and the exchanges have been effected with unexpected rapidity. They entail the payment of cash to half the amount of the bonds and on those so far turned in, with interest adjustments, this comes to between $40,000,000 and $41,000,000, all paid out by the Guaranty Trust Company in little more than a week.

Each holder of 6 per cent. bonds of the American Tobacco Company on surrendering them for cancellation, receives 7 per cent. bonds of the two new companies, amounting together to one-half the amount of the bonds surrendered, and cash at the rate of $120 and accrued interest per $100 for the other half. Each holder of the old 4 per cent. bonds receives 5 per cent. bonds of the new companies, amounting together to one-half the amount surrendered and cash at the rate of $96 and accrued interest per $100 for the other half. When all the bonds have been exchanged, the entire bonded indebtedness of the American Tobacco Company will have been cancelled.

The difference in the interest rate of the old and new bonds, together with the payment of half in cash, makes the exchange attractive and is also largely responsible for the rapidity with which they have been surrendered. The sooner they are exchanged the sooner the holder begins drawing interest at 7 per cent. and ceases drawing interest at 6 per cent. in the case of one class, or at 5 instead of 4 in the case of the other class, inasmuch as he receives the accrued interest on the bonds surrendered up to the date of the exchange, less interest accrued on the new bonds.

Dealing in Fractions.

There are a number of complications in these exchanges besides the interest adjustments. One is due to the fact that the bonds issued by the two new companies, while aggregating exactly half the American Tobacco issue, are not the same in the case of the Lorillard company as in that of Liggett & Myers. The proportion is 58.65 to 41.35, so that a person entitled to receive $1,000 in the new securities gets $586.50 in Liggett & Myers bonds and $413.50 in Lorillard bonds. For this and other reasons the bonds, instead of being issued in amounts of $1,000, as usual, are issued in denominations of $1,000, $500, $100, and $50. Even that is not sufficient to meet all requirements, and while no bond is issued for less than $50, scrip warrants are issued for smaller fractions, just as in the case of fractional shares of stock. The Guaranty Trust Company has had to arrange in consequence for the elimination of the fractions by purchase or sale at the option of the person making the exchange.

The exchange of preferred stock has been going on at the same time. Each holder of American Tobacco preferred, which pays 6 per cent., gets in exchange one-third the amount in 7 per cent. preferred stock of Lorillard and Liggett & Myers, divided between them in the same proportion as the bonds, and two-thirds in new certificates for 6 per cent. American Tobacco preferred with full voting rights, a new feature under the reorganization. The same provision is made for the elimination of fractional shares as in the case of the bonds. About half the preferred stock has been exchanged.

All this involves a vast amount of work on the part of the Guaranty Trust Company, but owing to the thoroughness of its preparations in advance of Jan. 10, the day fixed for the exchanges to begin, it had been able to deliver the cash and new bonds each day for the old bonds surrendered the day before. For this purpose tables were made up for everything, including interest tables for each date from Jan. 10 to Feb. 28, when the exchanges are to be concluded. The result is that whatever day the holder presents his bonds the clerk can tell from the tables at a glance just what interest adjustments amount to, as well as the fractional elements, which, of course, remain the same regardless of date.

Stockholders Accepted Rights.

Extra rooms were leased in the Mutual Life Building, where the Guaranty Trust is located, and fifteen extra clerks are at work there.

In order to raise the cash needed to pay off the bonds, the plan provided for the issue of common stock of the new companies to the amount of $36,651,925, to be sold for cash to the common stockholders of the American Tobacco Company. Provision was made for the purchase by others of any of this stock not so subscribed, but the entire amount has been subscribed in accordance with the rights of the common stockholders except about $88,000. This means that some $36,500,000 was paid in to the Guaranty Trust in cash.

Warrants were issued to the stockholders showing how many shares and fractions of shares they were entitled to subscribe for, but only full shares have been issued, the fractions being eliminated as in the other cases.

The issue of the new bonds, as a result of the exchanges so far made, have been in temporary form, but the appearance of these securities in the last week has put an end to the trading "when issued" in Lorillard 7s and 5s and Liggett & Myers 7s and 5s. This has been followed by trading to almost double the amount of the preceding week and the range of prices has been higher throughout. One of those interested in the reorganization said yesterday that he attributed the strength in the tobacco issues to the fact that up to now and almost from the time the American Tobacco Company was organized in its recent form it has been under the shadow of the Government suit.

"They are selling now 'ex-shadow' for the first time," he said, "while for years they sold 'shadow-on.'"

Another process in the reorganization that has nearly been concluded is the distribution of stocks of subsidiaries by the American Tobacco Company to its common stockholders. The first shares disposed of were those of the United Cigar Stores Company, which were distributed in December. Early in January those of the American Snuff Company, the George W. Helme Company, the Weyman-Bruton Company, the MacAndrews & Forbes Company, and the J. S. Young Company were sent out. Last week the stocks of the Conley Foil Company, the Johnston Tinfoil and Metal Company, the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company, and the British-American Tobacco Company were distributed. This leaves only the stock that will come to the American Tobacco Company later as a result of the reorganization of the American Stogie Company, the plan for which was announced this week.

The shares of all these subsidiaries were reduced to fractions with the denominator 401824 in figuring out how much each common stockholder of the American Tobacco Company should receive, as that is the number of American Tobacco shares outstanding. To reduce these to decimals would have introduced a slight error, which would have been appreciable in the aggregate. In issuing the certificates to individual stockholders, however, the company has reduced the fractions to decimals, the difference in each case being negligible. The fractional shares, therefore, are stated in 10,000ths, so that they show just how many dollars and cents of par value they represent. In the case of the British-American Tobacco Company, they have been reduced to 240ths, showing the number of pence.

The warrants for fractional shares are now being handled by the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., which is buying and selling them at market prices in order to consolidate them into whole shares. The aggregate of all the fractions over and above full shares were included in a certificate issued to the trust company, and when the consolidation has been effected, those who have come into possession of the full shares will get certificates from the American Tobacco Company.

This process has not progressed very far as yet because the stock distribution is so recent in several cases and for the further reason that the holders of fractional warrants are in doubt whether to buy or sell, the value of the subsidiary shares not yet having been definitely determined.

INDEPENDENTS CONSOLIDATING.

United Cigar Manufacturing Co. Arranging to Take Rivals Over.

Stockholders of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company will hold a special meeting immediately after the annual meeting on Feb. 1 to act upon the proposed increase in the company's stock from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. President Wertheim in a circular to stockholders explains that contracts have been authorized by the Directors for the purchase of 80 per cent. of the stock of the Theobald Oppenheimer Company of Philadelphia and although this will only require a small part of the increased stock in payment it is considered advisable to be prepared to take over other loans of established businesses if opportunity offers.

LAWRENCE AWAITS PEACE.

Strikers Refrain from Violence and Negotiations Proceed.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 18.—Despite the anticipation of serious trouble to-day, following previous disturbances in the strike of 15,000 textile workers, there was no serious disorder at any time. Militiamen still guarded the district where the mills stand, but they had a peaceful time and there were no serious clashes with strikers.

A better feeling was manifest on the part of the strikers toward the soldiers. During a parade of 10,000 strikers late this afternoon, militiamen, who saluted the American flag carried by one of the strikers, were applauded. Accustomed only to jeers from the mob, the soldiers regarded this incident with surprise. Throughout the line of march, which covered about five miles of slush-filled streets, the temper of the paraders seemed happy and cheering was frequent. At least 1,000 of the crowd were women, and it is said forty-five nationalities were represented in the line.

Prior to the parade, a mass meeting was held at which Alderman Robert S. Maloney and Joseph J. Ettor of New York, National Organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, urged the crowd to be orderly. The advice was followed, and no attempt was made to break through the cordon of soldiers about the mill district.

Efforts to bring about a settlement of the strike were continued to-day. Gov. Foss, who has been deeply interested in these efforts, said to-night that he was unable to make any statement at the present time. It is reported, however, that the strikers are ready to abandon their effort for a 15 per cent. increase in wages and will ask only that their wages under the new fifty-four-hour law be at the rate of fifty-six hours a week. The manufacturers' attitude toward this concession is not known.

Prominent in the negotiations are Col. E. Leroy Sweetser, Commander of the State militiamen; Max Mitchell, President of the Jewish Charities of Boston, and Bernard Supple, Secretary of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. Mr. Mitchell is quoted as saying that the outlook is hopeful.

Additional troops for the protection of the city and as a relief for those on duty since Monday were requested to-day of Gov. Foss by Mayor Scanlon. The Governor will not decide the question of sending more troops until to-morrow.

SHERIFF WILL BRING HILL.

Warrant Is Issued for Hotel Proprietor Wanted at Bank Hearing.

Late yesterday afternoon Justice Maddox of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, signed a warrant directing Sheriff Law to apprehend John Hill, proprietor of the Clarendon Hotel, and bring him to the hearing of the closed Borough Bank on next Wednesday.

In a statement Mr. Hill gave as a reason for refusing to testify earlier that he was only heeding the warning previously given to him at another hearing, to the effect that anything he would say might be used against him at another and future proceedings. He believes he is well within his legal rights in refusing to testify under these conditions. The bank investigators agree with him in his contention that he is not bound to testify if he fears that his testimony would incriminate him, but they say that he was legally wrong in refusing to be sworn in as a witness at the last hearing.

It is likely that the warrant issued by the court yesterday will not be served on Hill before next Wednesday, when the hearings on the closed Borough Bank will be resumed.

SEEKS ESTATE FROM HIS SONS

J. J. Armstrong Says His Wife Caused His Mother to Cut Him Off.

John James Armstrong, son of Mrs. Eliza Jane Haw, began suit yesterday in the Surrogates' Court to break her will, which left the estate principally to his sons, James C. and John R. Armstrong, with the condition that they should pay their father $25 a week for life out of the earnings of Mrs. Haw's paper box factory, at 87 White Street.

Armstrong accuses his wife, Jeannette, of having prevailed on his mother when she was mentally incompetent to make this provision, which he says is humiliating. Armstrong's wife and sons live at 410 West 145th Street and he lives at the Hotel Monticello, on West Sixty-fourth Street. The value of the estate was given in the petition for probate as more than $10,000.

THREE SUE THE LONG ISLAND.

Hoey, Bischoff, and Hart Say They Were Falsely Arrested.

Three suits for $5,000 damages each for false arrest and imprisonment were started in the Supreme Court yesterday against the Long Island Railroad Company by ex-Assemblyman James J. Hoey, Philip O. Bischoff, an accountant, and Emmanuel I. S. Hart, a lawyer.

They were carried past their station by the negligence of a conductor of the road, they say, and got off at Woodhaven Junction on the night of Sept. 22, 1910. They asked directions, they say, of the station agent, and he told them to walk back down the track, they assert. While they were doing so, they charge that they were set upon and arrested by two of the railroad's detectives and taken to a police station on a charge of trespass.

Hardware Firm to Move Uptown.

The Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company, dealers in locks and builders hardware, which for years has had its executive offices at 9 Murray Street, is the latest to join the uptown movement. A new twelve-story building for the exclusive use of the firm will soon spring up at 9 and 11 East Fortieth Street, and will be ready for occupancy on May 1, 1913. The old offices in Murray Street will be maintained for handling the company's export shipments, but the uptown site will prove more convenient to all out-of-town customers, as well as for those of the metropolitan district.

No New Northern Bank Dividend Yet.

Because the attorneys for the State Banking Department in charge of the liquidation of the Northern Bank of New York City applied to Supreme Court Justice Lehman for an order authorizing Superintendent of Banks Van Tuyl to pay a supplemental 10 per cent. dividend, the mistaken impression arose that the department intends to pay a second 10 per cent. dividend to creditors immediately. Supt. Van Tuyl was enabled to pay a 10 per cent. dividend on all claims accepted and proved on Nov. 21, and the application at this time was only for authority to make the 10 per cent. payment on claims filed after that date.

TO BARE MORGAN'S HARVESTER INTEREST

Lobeck Wants Inquiry Into What He and Others Got for Taking $20,000,000 Stock.

INQUIRY MAY NOT BE MADE

Rules Committee Disposed to Confine Its Attention to Investigating the Money and Shipping Trusts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representative Charles Lobeck, formerly a commercial traveler selling hardware to the merchants of Nebraska, now a Democratic member of Congress from that State, urged the House Rules Committee to-day to broaden the scope of the proposed investigation of the Harvester Trust, if it is made, so as to disclose the relations of J. P. Morgan & Co. and George W. Perkins with the formation of the alleged harvester combination.

"From information learned since the introduction of my resolution for an investigation," declared Mr. Lobeck, "I am convinced that its scope should be enlarged. I suggest that an effort be made to ascertain what consideration was paid by George W. Perkins, J. P. Morgan, Elbert H. Gary, and the Steel Trust, who became holders of $20,000,000 of International Harvester stock, and to what fund was this $20,000,000 credited; also that it be ascertained what procedure was followed by the different manufacturers to form and combine all the different plants into the combination; in what manner each plant was connected with the combination, whether the capital stock was on the basis of actual or inflated valuation; how they arrived at the valuation of assets of the different plants and of what did these assets consist and how valued."

Representative Lobeck charged that the Harvester combination received refunds of $3 a ton from the United States Steel Corporation on all steel used in manufacturing machinery for export, also that the Harvester Company had extended its operations to other implements, and is bending all its efforts to the establishment of monopoly in the manufacture of cultivators, harrows, manure spreaders, wagons, cream separators, and gasoline engines.

"In the formation of the International Harvester Company in 1902," asserted Representative Lobeck, "Judge Gary, who was the legal adviser in the formation of the American Harvester Company in 1890 was in close touch with George W. Perkins and J. P. Morgan & Co. in the merger of the harvester companies. The International Harvester Company was organized under New Jersey laws in August, 1902, with a capital of $120,000,000, about $15,000,000 in excess of the extreme figures at which the combining companies had estimated in their inventories, and stock certificates were issued by Cyrus J. McCormick, James Deering and George W. Perkins, who were authorized to issue them as follows:

"The stockholders of the McCormick Harvester Machine Company, $51,000,000.

"To partners of the Deering Harvester Company, $40,000,000.

"To stockholders of the Plano Manufacturing Company, $4,000,000.

"To stockholders of the Wardner, Bushnell & Glessner Company, $8,000,000.

"To Cyrus J. McCormick, for the $1,000,000 of the Milwaukee Harvester, $2,700,000.

"To J. P. Morgan & Co., $5,000,000.

"Balance reported sold for cash—$9,300,000.

"The International Harvester Trust immediately began business with offices at Chicago, but on Sept. 5, 1902, Mr. Perkins changed the name of the Milwaukee Harvester Company, which had been secured through an auction by Cyrus J. McCormick for $1,000,000, to the International Harvester Company of America.

"I understand it has the same Directors as the International Harvester Company," continued Mr. Lobeck. "The capital of the International Harvester Company of America was $1,000,000. The formation of this smaller company seems to have been a device by which the International Harvester Company could do business as a purely State concern. The International Harvester Company soon bought the properties of D. M. Osborne & Co., the Altman & Miller Company, the Minneapolis Harvester Company, and the Keystone Company. The plants of the Minneapolis Company and the Altman & Miller Company were immediately closed. They cost about $1,400,000, and in less than a year from the establishment of the Harvester Company it controlled 90 per cent. of the Harvester business of the country."

There will be no combined triple investigation of the Harvester Trust, the Money Trust, and the Shipping Trust. It is learned to-night that sentiment in the Rules Committee of the House is now in favor of splitting up the three proposed inquiries.

Sentiment has also developed rather strongly in the committee in favor of dropping the proposed Harvester Trust investigation at this session and concentrating attention upon the investigation of the Money and Shipping Trusts. It is now understood to be the plan of Chairman Henry's committee to recommend the appointment of a special committee to investigate the so-called Money Trust, and of another special committee to investigate the Shipping Trust, both of these inquiries to be prosecuted separately.

Representative Humphrey of Washington, who has been strenuously urging an investigation of the Shipping Trust, appeared to-day before the Rules Committee with a plea for a joint investigation of that combination by the House and Senate. He said that Senator Clapp, Chairman of the Senate Inter-State Commerce Committee, is desirous of having a joint inquiry, and that President Taft is anxious that the shipping investigation, if undertaken, should be jointly made by Senate and House. Mr. Humphrey also prefers a joint inquiry. He told the committee to-day that there were international aspects of the case, which might affect treaty relations, necessitating taking the Senate into any investigation of foreign shipping pools. Despite this appeal, it is understood to be the sentiment of a majority of the Rules Committee that the House should proceed with its investigation independently of the Senate.

WIRELESS TREATY REVIVED.

Taken from Senate Committee Pigeon Holes in the Hope of Passage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—After reposing for several years in the files of the Secretary of the Senate, the wireless telegraph treaty, which originally was entered into by several nations under the initiative of the United States, was referred back to-day to the Committee on Foreign Relations for renewed recommendation.

The treaty was favorably reported to the Sixtieth Congress, but the session adjourned without action, and afterward the document was apparently forgotten. Now that there is to be a new international conference, this country finds itself unable to enter it without being a party to the agreement, and the ancient document was brought to light to-day in the hope of getting action upon it. It is necessary that it should go through all the legislative stages. The committee will consider it before it is taken up by the Senate.

Injunction in Air Brake Suit.

Judge Hough granted yesterday in the United States District Court a preliminary injunction to restrain the New York Air Brake Company from infringing the slack adjuster patents owned by the American Brake Company. In his order he remarked: "If imitation be the sincerest flattery, it is impossible to conceive any more fulsome tribute to the value of the McKee devices, (one and all,) than defendant's machine or apparatus."

New York Firm Get Canal Contract.

PRICE CUTTING IN BUSINESS

Said to be Having a Far-Reaching and Demoralizing Effect Just Now.

Business men in many lines of trade are voicing their disgust just now over the demoralizing extent to which "price cutting" is being indulged in by manufacturers of all kinds. So eager are they to sell and so afraid to say "No" to the shrewd jobbers who harass them with threats of having their products left on their hands if they do not accept the prices offered instead of holding out for figures which will give a profit to their mills.

"What is the reason that price-cutting cannot be regulated?" they ask. "The Sherman law," some reply, while others say "overproduction." George Auchy, a practical chemist who is familiar with all the processes of steel making, gives his explanations of this puzzling state of affairs in the current issue of Iron Age, in these words:

"The very easy answer to our question is that hard times are primarily due to the fact that too much of the money in the country is invested, (that is, used in the production of goods,) thus leaving too little of the money of the country to be spent, (that is, used in a demand for goods)—a nunnatural and unhealthy condition of affairs.

"Now, what is the cause of this abnormal tendency to investment? Again the answer is absurdly easy. It is obviously because the wealth of the country has concentrated and is concentrating still more into a few hands. Money which if left with the people would be spent and would constitute a demand for goods, massed up in the possession of a few must be invested and used to produce goods, because it is a physical impossibility for these few to spend it however sumptuously they may live.

"The steelmaker plainly makes a mistake in thinking that his own prosperity is a thing apart from the prosperity of his ultimate customers, the masses of the people. If they cannot buy, he cannot sell. He also makes a mistake in thinking the people can be trusted to work out their own salvation. They are as incapable of it as a pack of children. Somebody must cut away the millstones they have hung around their necks in the shape of ridiculous laws that cramp business and paralyze industry, and must prevent them from passing still more such laws.

"There is one thing, and one thing only, it seems plain, that will lift business out of the slough and make financial panics and hard times bad dreams of the past, and that is to increase the buying capacity of the people and decrease the tendency to overinvestment. The stupid laws leading to wealth segregation must be ferreted out and repealed. If this is not done, nothing—protective tariffs, labor-saving machinery, improvements in production, trusts—nothing whatever will permanently avail and business will go on getting wound up tighter every year."

DISCUSS GARDEN'S FATE.

Boissevain Is for Tearing It Down, but Waits to See Circus Owner.

As a result of the meeting held yesterday by the Directors of the F. & D. Company, the new owners of Madison Square Garden, it was made clearly apparent that G. Louis Boissevain, the President of the company, who has just returned from Europe, is strongly inclined to adhere to the original plan of tearing down the Garden soon after Feb. 1 and beginning active work in erecting on the site the four twenty-five-story lofts tentatively agreed upon last Fall.

Mr. Boissevain, it was ascertained, has succeeded in raising from foreign bankers nearly all of the capital necessary to carry on the operation. Mr. Boissevain did not learn of the details regarding the leasing of the Garden for three to five years to the Ringling Brothers' circus until after his arrival.

Before making a definite decision it was considered best to have a personal conference with John Ringling, who will return from Florida to discuss the matter with Mr. Boissevain and the other Directors to-morrow afternoon. If the offer of the circus managers is accepted it will mean that the Garden arena will remain for three or five years, and when not used for circus performances will be leased for other exhibitions of the character which have hitheto been given in the building. In case the offer of the Ringling Brothers is accepted the Madison Avenue front will be improved with two tall commercial buildings, the greater part of which will be leased by the downtown commission houses of Iselin & Co. and Fleitman & Co.

A significant feature of the meeting yesterday was the presence of Harry S. Black, President of the United States Realty Company. Mr. Black's interest in the new operation was not disclosed, but his presence was taken to mean that he would have a financial interest in the proposed buildings to take the place of the Garden.

CALL NEVADA-UTAH SOLVENT.

Stockholders' Petition to See Books of Firm in Bankruptcy.

Notice has been served on Henry Melville, receiver for the Nevada-Utah Mines and Smelting Corporation to show cause why he should not allow the representatives of the Stockholders' Protective Committee to inspect the stock and transfer books of the corporation, which is in the bankruptcy courts.

In the petition to the District Court Frank D. Pavey, Albert C. Beebe, William B. Randall, David B. Simpson, and Charles V. Wagner, as members of the committee which they say stands for the owners of 50,000 shares, assert, through Dos Passos Brothers, their attorneys, that they have reason to believe the company is not really insolvent, and that it has been thrown into the court only to facilitate a reorganization plan. This plan, they allege, calls for the organization of a new company, with $6,000,000 of capital stock and $1,200,000 of bonds, and no stockholder of the old company can become a party to the plan of readjustment unless he subscribes 60 cents for each share he owns toward the new bonds.

It is also alleged that the scale of expenses to be allowed is too high, and they say that it is proposed in the plan to take over about $350,000 as the indebtedness of the old concern and its subsidiaries, part of which, they are informed and believe, is a claim for $125,000 on a note made and delivered by Ernest R. Woolley, as President of the company. Clement J. Caughey, Treasurer of the company, the papers say, has sworn that the corporation never received any benefit or consideration from this transaction.

WHITRIDGE TO COMMISSION.

Would Buy 29th Street Bonds — An Elephant Smashed a Car.

Frederick W. Whitridge, President of the Third Avenue Railway Company, appeared yesterday before the Public Service Commission in the proceedings on the reorganization of the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth Street Railroad Company. It is proposed that the company should issue $500,000 in stock and $1,000,000 in bonds, and that if the commission approves the Third Avenue Railway Company will buy the bonds at 80.

Since Dec. 18, 1910, the Third Avenue has been operating the road by means of storage battery cars, and Mr. Whitridge told of the steady increase in the traffic. The gross receipts in December, 1910, were $1,400; in January, 1911, $3,800; in February, $3,500; in March, over $4,500, and the high-water mark was reached in October last with over $6,700.

Mr. Whitridge had several spars with Commissioners Eustis and Maltbie, who were conducting the hearing.

"There was one accident on the line you never called to my attention," he remarked. "Most extraordinary, your inspectors overlooked it."

"That was a serious oversight," said Mr. Eustis.

"Yes; an elephant backed into one of our cars and smashed it pretty completely. It was a real elephant, too."

The Commissioners thought it a good opportunity to refer to certain complaints about unheated cars on the Third Avenue system. Mr. Whitridge parried by telling how on the same day, about perhaps the same car, he had a letter from a woman complaining of the stuffiness and a man of the cold.

"That happened about 1909, didn't it?" said Mr. Maltbie. "You've often told us that yarn."

"I think it was in 1910," said Mr. Whitridge, in no way abashed. "I'm glad you remember the story. It's quite a good one."

TRACES FIGURES TO INDICTED PACKERS

HAD TEST COST REPORTS

Steps Taken to Expedite Trial Which at Present Rate of Progress Would Last Till Fall.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Two of the defendants in the packers' case were mentioned to-day as having had personal knowledge of the test cost of beef through weekly reports mailed to them by a subordinate. Walter A. Wall, branch house manager of Morris & Co. at St. Joseph, Mo., testified that in 1906, 1907, and 1908 he mailed to Edward Morris and Louis H. Heyman reports on the test cost of beef. He mailed the reports to the Chicago office of Morris & Co. until January, 1909, when Mr. McFarland, head of the dressed beef department, instructed him to stop sending the reports to Mr. Morris. The witness said that after that he sent two copies of the figures to Louis H. Heyman.

This was the first time since the beginning of the trial that the Government has connected any defendant with the much-discussed test cost, which the prosecution contends played such an important part in the alleged combination.

Wall, who is now a clerk for the St. Louis Independent Packing Company, said the killing charge was changed several times while he was with Morris & Co. "A dollar a head was added to the killing charge in 1904," he said.

He believed the charge was $2.40 at that time, but was not certain. He was unable to remember the exact allowances made for fat and hides, but said no allowances were made for hides in April, 1909.

Harry A. Timmins, chief accountant for Morris & Co., began his sixth day on the witness stand when the trial was resumed in the morning. He declared the monthly accounts gave no accurate information regarding the profit or loss of the business except when the inventory of stock on hand was considered in connection with other figures.

Timmins mentioned the National Box Company, Morris Packing Company, Morris Beef Company, and Morris Fertilizer Company as subsidiary corporations of Morris & Co. He said the corporation also owned stock in Chamberlain & Co. of Boston and Meyer & Bush of Newark.

"Is it possible to ascertain the exact value of the by-products from a particular lot of cattle?" asked Attorney M. W. Borders.

"It is not, because they cannot be separated in the regular course of business," replied the witness.

John Hunter, office manager for Morris & Co., was the Government's tenth witness. He said he had searched for the margin and beef cost books used from 1906 to 1908, and had been unable to find them. "They must have been destroyed," he added.

Steps are being taken to expedite the trial. Taking of testimony began Dec. 21 and only ten witnesses have been heard, while eighty voluminous statistical documents have been offered in evidence. At the present rate it is estimated that it will take the Government until May 1 to complete its case, as District Attorney Wilkerson still has about seventy more witnesses to be called. The defense expects to call 100 witnesses and offer a mass of documentary evidence, so that the trial may not be concluded until August or September.

District Attorney Wilkerson to-day checked over the list of Government witnesses with a view to shortening the hearing. The plan now is to limit the questioning of witnesses to material points and introduce nothing but important documentary evidence in the hope of concluding the trial in May.

BATHTUB APPEAL HANGS FIRE

If Judge Angell Quashes Indictment Case Goes to Supreme Court.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 18.—Arguments on the motion to quash made by the Colwell Lead Company of New York, in the Government's criminal case against the bathtub trust closed here late to-day, and United States District Judge A. C. Angell took the matter under advisement. The closing arguments were made for the Government by Edward B. Grosvenor, special assistant to the Attorney General, and for the defense by Robert B. Honeyman of New York and Henry E. Bodman of Detroit.

The closing hour of the hearing was marked by Judge Angell remarking with some heat to Attorney Grosvenor that the latter would find no purpose on the part of the court to shirk its duty, and that no remarks made in that connection would influence the court against quashing the indictment if the court, upon consideration, found that it was its duty to do so.

The trial of the case is scheduled to begin Jan. 30, but the defense made a suggestion to-day that, in view of the important questions raised over the pending motion to quash the indictment, it might be advisable to carry the matter at once to the Supreme Court of the United States. This, it was explained, could be done only if Judge Angell sustained the motion to quash, as the defense is entitled to appeal only after trial and conviction, while the Government can appeal from an adverse ruling on the motion to quash.

POWER CHEAP IN CANADA.

Ontario Gets It for $9.40 Per Horse Power—Costs Rochester $25.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representatives of the Niagara Falls Electric Power Companies were heard to-day by the House Foreign Affairs Committee upon the proposed regulations for future use of water for generating electricity.

The cheapness of power in Canada was emphasized by Gen. Francis V. Greene of the Ontario Power Company. Gen. Greene's company sells power to the Hydroelectric Commission of Ontario for $9.40 per horse power, while the same power is retailed by the company at $25 in Rochester, N. Y. The cheap Canadian power was made possible by the Governmental distribution, he said.

Rome G. Brown, attorney for a Niagara company, stated that the owners of power rights were legally entitled to exercise water power rights to their full extent, even though it took all the water from the Falls. Representative Bartholdt of Missouri retorted that the people were more interested in saving the Falls than in considering rights of power companies.

WILL BUILD TO VANCOUVER.

Harriman System to Establish Direct Line from Seattle.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 18.—Announcement of the intention of the Harriman system to build a direct line from Seattle to Vancouver was made to-day by J. D. Farrell, President of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company. Mr. Farrell represents the Harriman interests in the Pacific Northwest.

"We will not halt at the Frazer River," Mr. Farrell said, "but will get into the very heart of Vancouver. The route has been carefully looked over."

The evening will be devoted to a discussion of sulphur with moving pictures showing the process invented by Frasch.

NEED $6,000,000 FOR ALLIS-CHALMERS

Bondholders No Longer Expect Their Securities to be Continued as a First Lien.

NO CHANCE FOR THE STOCK

Stockholders May Participate in Reorganization Only by Subscribing New Capital—Plans Tentative.

Bond and stock holders of the Allis-Chalmers Company, who have been following closely the work of the committees that are endeavoring to work out a financial plan without a receivership, have about reconciled themselves to the necessity of foregoing all hope of having the money sunk by them so far in the company represented by a first lien. As far as the stockholders are concerned, they recognize that they can participate in the reorganization only by contributing new capital.

It is conceded that drastic changes in policy must be made if the company is to be made into a steady money-maker, and consequently a substantial block of working capital will be required. In the tentative plans now being considered $6,000,000 has been fixed as the probable amount of new capital to be raised. This new capital will be represented by an issue of 5 per cent. bonds if present plans are followed, and the existing issue of 5 per cent. bonds, of which $11,148,000 is in the hands of the public, will, it is expected, be converted into some other class of security, which will not constitute a fixed charge on the company. This may take the form of income bonds, debenture or preferred stock, but many of the largest holders of these bonds have already conceded the folly of starting the company afresh with fixed charges as heavy as those now existing or with a burden of funded debt, on which interest must be paid in good times, and bad, under pain of foreclosure.

The company has a surplus at present of $7,130,000 in current assets over current liabilities, but $5,000,000 of these assets is represented by inventories at the plants, and $3,900,000 by receivables. There was $900,000 cash on hand on Dec. 31. Of the current liabilities the largest item is $1,420,000 notes payable, these notes including the $160,000, which is owing to Judge Gary. Other liabilities foot up to $1,250,000.

It could not be learned yesterday definitely what the ideas of the committees are on the relative consideration to be shown the preferred stock and the bonds in the matter of rights to subscribe to the new bond issue, through which it is expected the needed new capital will be obtained. Many of the bondholders feel that they have the situation in their own hands, and that if issues were forced to a foreclosure, the stock would be wiped out.

On the other hand, the stockholders point to the $7,130,000 surplus over current liabilities, which is more than the market value of the bonds, which now sell around 50, and express confidence that the bonds could be satisfied without wiping them out.

MUTUAL LIFE UNCONCERNED.

Insurance Company Is Not Worrying Over Recent French Decision.

At the office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company it as explained yesterday that the decision rendered against the company on Wednesday by the Civil Tribunal of the Seine was of little moment. The action was brought by three or four policyholders under the French law of 1905, requiring a foreign insurance company to keep on deposit in France funds sufficient to pay all future death claims. When this law was passed, the Mutual, which had written $30,000,000 or $40,000,000 of policies in France, decided not to conform with it, but to withdraw from the field.

In France, however, laws do not take effect until they are promulgated by the Government. The law was passed in December, 1905, but was not promulgated until June, 1906. In the interim the Mutual continued to write policies. It is some of those insured during this time who brought the present suit to have their policies canceled and the premiums returned. They contend that if the company intended to cease busines in France, it should have done so when the law was passed.

The number and amount of policies written in this period was not large, as it followed closely the insurance investigation here, which caused a lull in the insurance business generally.

It was pointed out yesterday that the decision rendered was only by the court of first instance, and is subject to appeal, an dthat if the company finally loses it will merely have to cancel the policies.

GOULD BANKERS UNCHANGED.

Morgan & Co. Not to Acquire an Interest in Missouri Pacific.

A report that J. P. Morgan & Co. were to acquire control of the Missouri Pacific system, or at least become bankers for that property, gained wide circulation in the financial district yesterday before it got an authoritative denial. James Speyer & Co., with Blair & Co., have acted as bankers for the principal Gould roads since the election of B. F. Bush as President of the Missouri Pacific to succeed George J. Gould.

The Missouri Pacific system embraces the St. Louis & Iron Mountain, the Denver & Rio Grande, to the presidency, of which Mr. Bush was elected a few weeks ago to succeed E. T. Jeffery, and the Western Pacific. At that time Mr. Gould resigned the Chairmanship of the Denver Board in favor of Mr. Jeffery and it has been reported that he intends getting out of other railroad connections. The Gould estate has owned a controlling interest in Missouri Pacific, with about one-quarter of its outstanding stock. The rumors which were circulated yesterday had it that the Denver & Rio Grande system was to be turned over to the Burlington, which is owned jointly by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

LOSES HOCKING POOL SUIT.

Hussey, in Keene's Combination, Declared to Have No Cause of Action.

Supreme Court Justice Gavegan received yesterday a sealed jury verdict of no cause of action in the $8,161 suit brought by Charles S. Hussey, a Standard Oil Company auditor, for his alleged losses in the Hocking pool, against the brokerage house of Wagner, Dickerson & Co. Hussey charged that he lost money because the brokers failed to sell 630 shares he held when he ordered them to do so.

The brokers retorted that Hussey held his stock in a pool of which James R. Keene was the manager, and that all the members of the pool were bound not to sell till Keene gave the word. They said Hussey anticipated Keene's authority in his order, and that, consequently, they failed to obey it. They have a suit pending against him for $14,000 for losses they say they sustained in handling his account.

RATE RAISE IS WITHDRAWN.

Western and Southwestern Lines Abandon Proposed Live Stock Charges.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—Voluntary withdrawal by the Western and Southwestern railway lines of proposed advances in the freight rates on live stock, particularly cattle and calves, induced the Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day to vacate its orders suspending the increased tariffs. This means the investigation proposed will be abandoned, and that the lower rates will continue in effect.

FARWELL FOR MONEY BILL.

Believes Monetary Commission Tried to Safeguard South and West.

John V. Farwell, the Chicago merchant, who is President of the National Citizens' League for the Promotion of Currency Reform, was quoted by the local branch of the league yesterday as strongly indorsing some of the features of the banking reform bill recently announced by the Monetary Commission. Mr. Farwell is in New York to attend a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Wholesale Dry Goods' Association. He goes to New Haven to-day for a meeting of the Yale Corporation.

"The report has been well received in the West," Mr. Farwell is quoted as saying. "If it had been made a few months ago, I believe it would have met with violent opposition in many quarters. This is convincing evidence that the almost united appeal that the business interests of the country are making for rational banking and currency reform has had its effect on the public mind.

"I believe the members of the commission have made a conscientious effort to do their work in the interest of the people of all sections of the country. In fact, the commission has 'leaned backward' in its efforts to recommend legislation that would remove the fears of many good Americans at a distance from the financial centres that a co-operative union of the banks might be misused by the politicians or the moneyed interests.

"In shaping the National Reserve Association, the commission has given less influence to sections having the greatest banking resources and more to the sections having the greatest need for credit facilities. This means that they have honestly tried to safeguard the interests of the West and South."

FINDS UNREST IN EUROPE.

John E. Gardin, Just Back, Doesn't Like the Looks of Things in England.

John E. Gardin, a Vice President of the National City Bank, was at his desk yesterday after a long absence in Europe. One of his objects in going abroad was to talk over the cotton bill of lading situation with some of the leading buyers and bankers in England. Mr. Gardin believes that the central bureau for the certification of bills should be transferred to Liverpool, and that it will never fulfill the expectations of its sponsors while it is located in New York.

Mr. Gardin said that he had been amazed to discover the extent of the unrest which has been spreading over Europe, and particularly its manifestations among the Germans. "Local conditions in England, in my opinion, are in a bad way," he said. "Socialism rules, and the methods of taxation now in force and being discussed are extremely detrimental. Parliament is being filled with men who have no idea of law-making, and they are enacting legislation which is seriously injuring the investing class. There is no demand for gilt-edged securities, and while a large amount of money is going into Canadian projects, there is none for home investments.

"European monetary conditions are quiet. There will undoubtedly be a heavy borrowing demand during the year, as nearly every State in Germany, the imperial Government, and Italy will all need funds. The City of Paris will put out a bond issue of 300,000,000 or 400,000,000 francs in the Spring, and if money remains as easy here as it is now this country will participate in many of the offerings of European nations. The Paris bonds should cause gold exports from the United States."

BID FROM OAKLEIGH THORNE.

He Offers to Buy Corporation Trust Stock Held by His Trust Company.

Oakleigh Thorne, President of the Trust Company of America, which is to be merged with the Equitable Trust Company and lose its identity if the Trust Company of America stockholders consent to sell two-thirds of the capital stock, is prepared to take over from the Trust Company of America its holdings of the stock of the Corporation Trust Company. The Trust Company of America owns 2,475 shares, which is practically all of it, and the price offered by President Thorne is $200 a share, which would call for the expenditure of $495,000. The Corporation Trust Company is not a banking institution, but does a business chiefly concerned with the organization of corporations.

Oakleigh Thorne is a Director of the company, and will probably become its President. "The purchase does not mean that Mr. Thorne is going to devote the rest of his life to the Corporation Trust Company," an associate of his said yesterday.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Trust Company of America has been called for Feb. 1 to ratify the sale of the Corporation Trust stock to Mr. Thorne.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Vermouth Lost on the Voyage Pays No Duty—Other Tariff Decisions.

A controversy between the Government and G. S. Nicholas & Co. was settled yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers in favor of the importers. The merchandise consisted of vermouth in octaves. It appears that during the voyage to this country a quantity leaked away. Collector Loeb made no allowance for this loss and exacted full duty on the invoiced quantity. Judge Somerville holds that the protest is well taken and it is accordingly sustained. The Collector is ordered to reliquidate the entries on the basis of actual loss of the contents.

The Board reversed the Collector's decision relating to drawnwork and scalloped articles of linen imported by Neuss, Hesslein & Co. They were returned at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem under the embroidery paragraph of the Act of 1897, and were alleged to be dutiable as woven flax articles under the former law according to the weight per square yard and the count of threads per square inch. Judge Cooper sustains the contention and holds the goods dutiable under paragraph 346 of the Dingley Act.

Fancy decorated postcards imported by William H. Stiner & Co. were held to be dutiable properly as printed matter with duty at the rate of 25 per cent. ad valorem. The Collector classified the merchandise as manufactures of paper and imposed a tax of 35 per cent. on the value. Judge Fischer sustains the protest and reverses Collector Loeb.

The Board overruled the following protests, as they were unsupported: H. Glass & Co., linen damask; Samstag & Hilder Brothers, Atlantic Novelty Company, Bernhard Ulmann & Co., Campbell, Metzger & Jacobson, cotton initials; G. S. Nicholas & Co., S. Stern, Bailey, Green & Elger, F. Schilomann & Co., Fuchs & Co., Rothschild & Co., B. Izzo, D. G. Gardiner, Arguimbau & Ramee, N. Nommer, and P. C. Kuyper & Co., unsupported; Rusch & Co., mercerized cottons; Quong Yee Wo, tea coverings; F. B. Vandegrift & Co., mercerized cottons; W. Schade & Co., and C. H. Wyman & Co., unsupported, and Ralph Pierson & Co. and others, overruled.

New Jersey Fire Co. Raises Capital.

The New Jersey Fire Insurance Company, in annual meeting yesterday, received a report from Vice President Hodson showing that 30,000 shares of the company had been sold, and it was voted by the Directors to sell 10,000 shares more, bringing the capital up to $1,000,000 paid-in stock. These officers were elected for the new year, which is the second of the company's organization: President, William G. Whilden; Vice Presidents, Rudolph F. Rabe, Charles L. Auger, and Clarence Hodson; Treasurer, E. C. Bataille; Secretary, George E. Lyon; Counsel, W. R. Codington. The board organized as follows: E. E. Sargeant, Chairman, and the Executive Committee as follows: President, Vice Presidents, and Treasurer—Messrs. E. B. Goodell, T. J. Hillery, W. A. Flint, W. R. Codington, and E. E. Sargeant.

The Stock Exchange has admitted these securities to listing: Utah Copper $566,510 capital stock, $500,000 of said stock on official notice of issuance in exchange for Bingham & Garfield Railway Company convertible bonds, and $56,510 of said stock on official notice of issuance in exchange for stock of the Bingham & Garfield Railway Company, and that it has passed beyond the control of the Utah Copper Company.

COFFEE EXCHANGE ELECTION.

Regular Ticket Wins—Changes in Other Concerns.

A number of financial, industrial, and other institutions held meetings yesterday at which officers or Directors were elected:

At the annual election of the Coffee Exchange the regular ticket was elected: President—Henry Schaefer; Vice President—William Bayne, Jr.; Treasurer—James H. Taylor. For members of the Board of Managers (to serve for two years)—J. D. Pickslay, Frank Norton, George W. Vanderhoef, Henry D. Turner, George Gravenhorst, and Samuel Lee.

Union N. Bethel, Vice President of the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, was elected a Director of the Liberty National Bank.

The Directors of the Lawyers' Mortgage Company elected these officers: C. C. Evers, Vice President; Peter Hamilton, Treasurer; Orland S. Isbell, Secretary, and John V. La Marche, Assistant Secretary. George A. Hurd, President of the Mortgage-Bond Company of New York was elected a Director of the company.

These were elected Directors of the Public Utility Securities Company: W. L. Church, President of the Ambursen Hydraulic Construction Company; E. Elmer Smith, President of the S. Morgan Smith Company; Arthur G. Luders, formerly of the Knickerbocker Trust Company; Charles E. Parsons and Eugene L. Ashley.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Cities Service Company B. G. Tremaine, Vice President of the National Electric Lamp Company of Cleveland, Ohio, was elected a Director to fill a vacancy.

MORGAN FINANCES COPPERS.

His Firm Is Underwriting Merger of Live Oak and Inspiration.

In connection with the announcement yesterday that a majority of the stockholders of the Live Oak Development Company and of the Inspiration Copper Company had deposited their stock in exchange for the shares of the Inspiration Consolidated Company, capitalized at $30,000,000 to merge the properties, it became known that J. P. Morgan & Co. had underwritten the Consolidated stock.

Importance was attached to this information because of the prominent part the banking house has played in copper affairs in recent years, and recalled the plan for a gigantic merger of copper properties brought up to a working basis three years ago, but abandoned, temporarily at least, until the limitations of such a merger to conform with the Supreme Court interpretation of the Sherman law might be determined. The new company includes besides Amalgamated Copper interests in its directorate such men as William G. Rockefeller, E. C. Converse, and Albert H. Wiggin, President of the Chase National Bank.

Biggest Year for Royal Bank.

The annual report of the Royal Bank of Canada shows 1911 to have been the biggest year in its history. Total deposits at the end of the year amounted to $88,294,808, an increase of $16,215,201. Call loans increased in the same period by $6,144,277, and commercial loans by $7,174,957. Total assets are reported at $110,528,512, an increase of more than $18,000,000. Net profits for the year amounted to $1,152,249, a gain of $200,913 over the previous year, and at the same time the proportion of liquid assets to liabilities increased from 49.33 per cent. to 49.54 per cent.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Down—In Other Markets Coffee Alone Shows Strength.

Wheat opened firmer on stronger European markets, but declined on increasing Western receipts. Feeding grain was strong early, but reacted on disappointing export demand for corn. Canadian oats are being sold in New York duty paid, and mill feed is selling at the highest price in eight years. Provisions were easier on record hog movement. Cotton values slowly declined on nervousness over the Lancashire labor situation, while recent bearish ginning figures and favorable reports regarding the soil had some influence. Coffee continues erratic, but in the main displayed a slightly improved undertone, with less urgent liquidation and a larger business in spots.

WHEAT.

WHEAT—The market closed at a small net loss for the day and dull at the decline. The opening was firm on the cables and on further damage reports from the Argentine, which brought in some covering of shorts, although the trading is so narrow as a whole that a limited movement either way gets the market long or short, and a limited movement back again forces out the shorts or the longs. The advance in Europe was accompanied by reports of better demand for Manitoba wheat, although only a few loads could be confirmed. Some business is doing in Manitoba wheat, however, nearly every day. The estimates now apparently accepted on the Argentine crop are for an export surplus about the same as last year, or slightly under 90,000,000 bushels and of inferior quality. The movement is delayed, and this delay in the movement has been one of the principal sources of the recent foreign strength. The Northwestern movement of wheat continues unexpectedly large. The receipts at Spring wheat points have been increasing, and the total primary movement in four days has gained 600,000 bushels over last week, notwithstanding the serious weather conditions. The weather was somewhat milder through the West for the day, and some of the snow covering will probably disappear. Cash prices were nominal, with No. 2 red, $1.01, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.20¼; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.10⅝; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.14½.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN was fairly active and firm, most of the session reacting a little in the afternoon on speculative realizing and some disappointment at the volume of export and cash demand. The close was at a small net decline for the day. Foreign markets were strong, but the bids for export corn were not quite in keeping with the recent American advance. There was some export demand reported, about 100,000 bushels, but part of this was claimed to be old business. Receipts West have been keeping up on the basis of last week, and interior cash markets have continued firm. Cash corn was firm, with No. 3 quoted at 73c, elevator, export; steamer, 71c, and No. 2, 71⅝c, free on board.

OATS were firm early, but some little selling developed in the afternoon, partly owing to the weakness in wheat and corn, and prices scored small net declines. The advance has carried the market to a point where Canadian oats are being sold, duty paid, and 60,000 bushels were reported sold in the local market at 56c. Cash oats were firm, with standards and No. 3 white quoted at 55½c; No. 2 white, 56c.

PROVISIONS.

PROVISIONS were quiet and fractionally easier. The hog movement was very heavy, totaling 174,000, making a record for the season at all points. Packing last week was also very large, 765,000, compared with 580,000 last year. Since Nov. 1 the packing has increased 1,845,000 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Offerings tended to increase on the slight advances, but net changes were not important. Crude was offered more freely on the basis of 33c., but recently has not followed the future market to the full extent of the reaction, so that the hedging basis is less satisfactory, although still permissible. Further selling for the account of longs was reported, and while a little support was rendered, buying lacked aggressiveness. Consuming inquiry appears to be less active, but the tendency for sales to aggregate to liberal proportions over a protracted period continues. The reactionary tendency of lard was a factor yesterday.

COTTON.

With yesterday's reaction of 5 to 10 points, the list was about 30 points under the high of the recent movement. It was asserted that determined efforts were made to force the May option to below the 9½c level, and while it was just about accomplished, there were no stop loss orders encountered, and the inquiry on the setback was very fair. Selling by a prominent William Street house attracted much attention, particularly as bearish advices were said to be emanating from that quarter, and prominent operators have been variously identified with these interests. It was inferred by some that the selling was predicated on prospects of a bearish ginning report, while others maintained that pressure was inspired by the favorable season in the ground to date in the Southwest.

The rainfall in Texas for the month of December was given at 4.99 inches, against 1.97 inches last year, and generally it is agreed that the Winter season has been beneficial to the soil. Government authorities are credited with the statement that the recent freeze has exterminated the boll weevil in many sections, while it is known that a hard freeze is equal to deep plowing. Meanwhile, private reports from the South are naturally conflicting as to the probability of decreased use of fertilizers and a curtailment of acreage at prevailing levels with the consensus of opinion that incentive for an important reduction in either will be lacking with new crop options bordering on the ten-cent levels.

Liverpool advices were below a parity and accountable for the initial declines of from 1 to 5 points. Spot business abroad also showed a contraction, amounting to only 6,000 bales, and incidently private authorities wired that a settlement of the labor difficulties at Lancashire was not assured for to-day. The prospects of a coal strike among the British miners on March 1 seemed to lead to skepticism in regard to expectations of an early termination of the labor unrest, but there would be considerable disappointment in the event of another postponement of negotiations between mill owners and operatives. The situation at Lawrence, Mass., is gradually being relieved.

Weather conditions at the South are still unfavorable in many localities. Into-sight to-day is estimated at from 360,000 to 385,000 bales, against 424,000 bales last week. Southern spot reports indicated a somewhat improved inquiry, but the small change in official spot quotations would suggest offerings about commensurate with this demand. Local warehouse stocks are expected to be reduced in the near future as a result of liberal purchases by Japan, it being stated that fully 30,000 January notices were stopped, representing cotton to be shipped to that country. Warehouse stocks at present are 160,000 bales, against 286,000 bales last year. The local spot market was 10c lower yesterday; middlings, 9.50c, and Southern spots mostly unchanged.

TO HOLDERS OF
First Mortgage Five Per Cent Bonds
OF THE
ALLIS-CHALMERS COMPANY

The default by the ALLIS-CHALMERS COMPANY in the payment of the coupon due January 1, 1912, on its First Mortgage Five Per Cent. bonds and the declaration of the Board of Directors that the business of the company cannot be profitably continued unless additional working capital be supplied and the fixed charges reduced, render it essential that the bondholders should act unitedly for the protection of their interests and the conservation of the business and property of the company as a going concern. The company has stated that the bonds issued and outstanding in the hands of purchasers amount to $11,148,000, and that $800,000 in addition have been pledged as collateral for loans. It also states that the current liabilities of the company, including those for which the $800,000 bonds are pledged, amount to $2,670,000, and that the surplus of current assets over current debts is estimated at $7,130,000. This estimate is assumed to be on the basis of value to a going concern. Serious loss to the bondholders, as the principal creditors of the company, may result if their interests are not properly represented and protected by a Bondholders Committee authorized to take action on their behalf. The undersigned have heretofore agreed to act as a Bondholders' Protective Committee, and bondholders are again urged promptly to deposit their bonds at the office of the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, with the January 1st, 1912, coupon attached, to be held under the terms of the Bondholders Agreement of December 8, 1911, of which copies will be furnished on application to the Depositary.

Certificates of deposit will be issued by the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, and application will be made in due course to list these Certificates on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Committee has arranged with the Depositary to advance to depositing bondholders the amount of the January 1st coupon upon the security of the respective bonds and coupons deposited. Interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum will be charged by the Depositary.

are the interests of investors who buy the securities we offer with our own interests, for we develop, operate and control the Public Utility corporations upon which those securities are based.

The record of those securities justifies the conservative investor in placing reliance in them. Moreover, they yield better returns than many other high-grade issues.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Trading in Stocks Falls to Smallest Volume Since Opening of the Year.

TOBACCO ISSUES ARE ACTIVE

Placing of Large German Government Loan Has Interest Here Because of Our Loans to Berlin.

Trading on the Stock Exchange became so inactive yesterday that traders lost nearly all interest in it and it was only in a very few issues that the day's movements attracted any attention. The transactions in stocks fell to much the smallest total since the beginning of the year, but the dealings in bonds, thanks in part to the continued activity in the Tobacco issues, were maintained at a pretty large total. The market for the Tobacco shares and for the bonds of the new companies is being viewed in some quarters of the financial district in the light of the reports that prior to the disintegration of the American Tobacco Company interests identified with it were large purchasers of the company's bonds with a view to assuring the consent of these bonds to the proposed plan of readjustment and that since that time the holdings so acquired or part of them have been in process of liquidation. In the late trading the stocks of the new tobacco companies, which presumably are still about as closely held as was the common stock of the American Tobacco Company itself, have risen much more rapidly than have the new bonds, and this is one of the facts which is being taken into account in the estimate of the present market for these securities which is here being referred to. In yesterday's trading most of the Tobacco bonds remained unchanged or receded slightly from their opening prices. From another viewpoint the recent improvement in the Tobacco issues reflects the release of the business represented by these companies from the shadow of the Government suit which long overhung the Tobacco Company.

Before the close of this month the Directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul are expected to act on the semi-annual dividends. Interest is naturally keen regarding the decision which the Directors will reach. Action will probably be taken next Thursday, but the holding of the Executive Committee yesterday served to focus attention on this dividend question. The earnings of the St. Paul so far this fiscal year have made a poorer showing than last year, and semi-official estimates indicated that the most that the St. Paul expects from its Puget Sound line for the current fiscal year is about $2,000,000 above the interest on that line's bonds. A month ago the business on part of the system showed signs of improvement, but it is understood that this has not held, and the present state of the company's earnings is such as to make it most probable that at next Thursday's meeting the question of reducing the dividend rate from the present 7 per cent. level will be carefully canvassed.

Announcement from Berlin yesterday of the placing of a $125,000,000 loan principally for Prussia, but in part to supply funds for imperial obligations, which mature this year, was news of a kind which would under ordinary circumstances attract only passing attention in this market, but because of the unusual relations lately maintained between this money market and those of Europe, particularly of Germany, this financing is of direct interest here. It will be recalled that New York bankers took most of the recent issue of Prussian short-term Treasury notes and our private loans in Germany were one of the striking features of last Fall's money market. The increased demand for money in Germany which will arise from this Government issue may well cause the renewal of some of our German loans which otherwise might have been repaid in the near future, and may also afford opportunity for further use abroad of funds which our bankers are finding it difficult to employ profitably in our own money market. Four months' loans were placed yesterday as low as 3 per cent., which shows clearly the degree of ease now prevailing here.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Talking Up Reading.

It is appropriate that at this season of the year public attention should centre to some extent on coal and the companies mining it. The formation of a separate sales company by the Lehigh Valley and the distribution of its stock to the railroad shareholders has focused Wall Street's attention on the other anthracite carriers. It is suggested that Reading may return to its old place as the speculative leader, largely on the possibilities which attach to its interest in the anthracite business. The Reading Coal and Iron Company has done an annual business of $35,000,000 without paying dividends. To a speculator this fact at once suggests large buried equities, since it is not conceivable that the coal company has been doing business without earning the same handsome margin of profit that other hard coal concerns have made.

When Regulation Becomes Obtrusive

It is always an open question as to how far commissions may properly go in initiating changes under the guise of regulating the public utilities under their control. The up-State Public Service Commission sometimes not only makes an order, but describes in what manner the order shall be carried out. Citizens of Watervliet, which is on the outskirts of Troy, recently complained to this body that they had no Western Union Telegraph office, and had to pay an extra fee for messages delivered from Troy. The commission ordered the telegraph company to extend its free delivery service to include the corporate limits of the city. The request for a local office with an operator in charge was dismissed, but the commission ordered the company to maintain a branch office in a Watervliet drug store. The order specifies that messages shall be received by the person in charge as the agent of the Western Union, "but the messages may be transmitted to the main office in Troy by telephone. The telephoning shall be done in a closed booth to the end that people in the office or drug store will not be able to hear or understand the operator in making such transmission." With an agency like this Watervliet ought to feel like a real city.

Third Avenue Declines.

People who bought the new Third Avenue stock on the report of the reorganization committee to the effect that it was almost certain that the company would be able to earn its full bond interest and nearly 3 per cent. on its stock, should have paid no attention to the uncomplimentary remarks of the Public Service Commission. The commission approved the reorganization, but made a wry face over it, explaining that the recent decision by the court left it no other choice. The commission volunteered the belief that the new company is overcapitalized by $30,000,000 and appeared to have little chance of earning its interest. The commission has held this view right along, but its reiteration was responsible for a drop of 2 points in the price of Third Avenue stock yesterday.

More Confidence in West.

Business conditions over a wide territory in the Central West are under close observation by the officials of the Tootle-Lemon National Bank of St. Joseph, Mo., one of the large institutions of that section, and its monthly summary of the situation has weight in Wall Street. The January issue says: "Throughout this territory a very fair volume of business is being done. This has not by any means reached the proportion of a boom, but the more confident tone which prevails in so many industries shows that a material enlargement in various lines may be expected early in 1912." After remarking on the great improvement in conditions in the packing industry, the circular says of general sentiment: "The country is still a good deal wrought up over the inquisitorial attitude of Congress. In the section tributary to St. Joseph, however, there has been relatively little concern felt over the possible development in political affairs next Spring, as people have been too busy with marketing their crops to become seriously alarmed about such uncertainties. Banks in this section are conducting their business with unusual conservatism, and nothing has occurred to indicate that the country banks this year were repeating the excesses of two or three years ago, when they made such abnormally heavy advances to speculators in land and various other undertakings."

Less Building Enterprise.

Completion of the building statistics collected by Bradstreet's from 120 cities of the United States covering the year make possible a comparison with previous years, which shows that 1911 was less active than either of the two preceding years. Permits were granted in these 120 cities in 1911 calling for the expenditure of $824,088,000, as against $846,712,000 in 1910, and $889,723,000 in 1909, the record year. This is a decline of 2.6 per cent. from 1910 and of 7.3 per cent. from 1909.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Traders on the Consolidated Stock Exchange who had taken on lines of stocks early in the session let them go in the later dealings because of the lack of snap that the market had displayed. This resulted in a weak closing. It appeared to be a waiting market throughout the day. Missouri Pacific in the early dealings had displayed exceptional firmness on active trading, touching a high price of 41⅝, compared with a New York Stock Exchange high of 41½, but it later softened with the rest of the list, selling down to 40⅝, against 40½ on the other board. Reading had the largest volume, with Union Pacific second and Steel common third.

Smaller Volume of Dealings in Thursday's Markets, with Irregular Price Changes.

LIVE OAK UP AT BOSTON

Reported Underwriting of the Merger with Inspiration Copper Helps Both Issues.

Stocks moved irregularly in a day of quiet trading yesterday.

The demand for bonds in Baltimore yesterday was greater than for many weeks, big blocks of Cotton Duck 5s, Consolidated Gas, United Railways, and New Orleans Great Northern being sold at a slight advance over previous call. Houston Oil certificates led the stocks at former prices.

Most Boston stocks, in spite of small selling for arbitrage accounts in a few leading issues, showed firmness of tone and reflected an undercurrent of quiet buying in prices of specialties, especially in copper shares. The leadership of this group, which was supported by the strength of the metal market, was switched to Live Oak and Inspiration owing to the reported underwriting of the merger financing by the house of Morgan. Inspiration touched 11 and Live Oak went to 44, an advance of 3 points. Centennial rose to 23, but reacted. In standard coppers there appeared to be more taking of profits, Calumet & Hecla sagging 5 points and Mohawk 1. North Butte sold below 27 and Wolverine under 100. American Woolen preferred advanced slightly on prospects that the Lawrence strike will be settled.

At Chicago the strength in Elevated Railways shares brought both issues up to new high records and attracted considerable attention. The preferred sold up to 93 and the common to 37½. There is very little of the stock outstanding in the hands of the public, representing only such shares as were given to stockholders of the old elevated railroad companies when taken over by the merger. On the other hand Booth Fisheries issues were conspicuous for their heaviness, the preferred at 84 closing 2 points under the previous final price, and the common off a point early in the day, closing unchanged. Fractional advances occurred in Sears-Roebuck, Match, Tool, and People's Gas, and recessions of a similar character marked Swift, Illinois Brick, and Chicago Railways Series 2.

The general local list in Philadelphia was very quiet. Even the arbitrage shares fluctuated uncertainly within narrow limits. Trading was much restricted everywhere as far as stocks were concerned. Odd lots of Cambria Steel were taken at 44, whereas U. G. I. eased off slightly. The traction issues were inclined to sag during the morning. Union Traction, Philadelphia Traction, and P. R. T. scored small fractional declines, but there was better demand for them in the last hour.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

Holligan Sells His Seat.

William R. Holligan, Exchange member of W. R. Holligan & Co., whose expulsion from the Stock Exchange was announced last week, for making a misstatement "on a material point" when he applied for membership in 1902, has lost no time in disposing of his seat. Its transfer to Phillip E. R. Greene was announced yesterday on the Exchange Bulletin, along with that of A. H. Rutherford to Muette Cammack.

Prices Firm in Paris—German-Prussian Loans of $125,000,000 Placed, and List Opens Jan. 29.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—It is learned on high authority that the huge loans which New York banks made to Germany in the last quarter of 1911, aggregating between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000, and which fall due at the end of this month and early in February, will not be renewed. The New York banks, it is said, offered to renew them, but money is so plentiful in Berlin that New York's proposal to prolong the loans for three or four months at 4 per cent. is considered not tempting enough. Therefore, there is a strong probability that the loans will be taken up as they become due.

The Prussian Treasury certificates amounting to $20,000,000 which were hypothecated in New York last Autumn will, however, be allowed to remain in New York until April instead of being redeemed before the due dates.

The market was not disturbed today by the official announcement of the issue of $105,000,000 of new Prussian consols and $20,000,000 of Imperial Treasury certificates, both at 4 per cent. Both loans will be offered for subscription on Jan. 29 at 101.40.

Prussia is borrowing for the improvement of various public utilities, including the electrification of some of the State railways. The Empire's loan is required merely to take up an issue shortly falling due.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 19.—The Times says in its city article to-day:

"Money market quotations for day-to-day advances and short fixtures remained unaltered yesterday. The inquiry was strong and could not be satisfied until a fair amount of short bills had been taken to the Bank of England for discount.

"Discount quotations were very firm in the open market, £400,000 in sovereigns being withdrawn for India. Bills continued very scarce.

"The Paris Cheque remained unaltered, but Berlin moved in favor of London.

"Business on the Stock Exchange was uninteresting."

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Money was firm today and discount rates hardened on the gold export to India.

The stock market was quiet and steady. The feature was the strength of Underground rails on the dividend announcement, while income bonds and Omnibus shares improved on the expectation of an official statement of the fusion of the companies to-morrow. The good bank statement helped gilt-edged securities, and Kaffirs also closed better.

American securities were quiet and featureless during the forenoon. In the afternoon Canadian Pacific declined, but the rest of the list barely moved, and the market closed dull.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3⅞ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3 5-11 per cent.

Gold premiums at Madrid, 7.90; at Lisbon, 9.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Prices were generally firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 95f. 30c. for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f. 22½c. for checks.

Private discount date, 3⅜ per cent.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—The Boerse opened weaker to-day. Prices strengthened later and closed steady.

Loans amounting to a total of 500,000,000 marks ($125,000,000) were placed today by the Imperial German Government and the State Government of Prussia, combined with a group of Berlin banks headed by the Prussian State Bank. The interest is to be 4 per cent. The German Empire's portion of the loan amounts to only 80,000,000 marks, and is intended for the redemption of part of the 240,000,000 marks of treasury notes maturing this year, the remainder of which have been prolonged or redeemed from the surplus in the treasury. There is thus no increase in the imperial debt. The loan of 420,000,000 marks issued by the Prusian State Government is for the construction of railroads and the acquisition of rolling stock, &c.

The subscription list opens on Jan. 29 at the rate of 101.40.

Money, 2@2½ per cent.

Private discount rate, 3 per cent.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Inspiration Copper and British-American Tobacco Have Active Day.

Inspiration Copper and British-American Tobacco were the features of the Curb market yesterday. The former had one of the most active days on record, reporting transactions of 16,700 shares, although the price moved only between 10¼ and 10⅝. The close was at 10⅝. British-American, like some of the other tobacco issues, was weak. After opening at 18, the price sagged to 16⅞, which was the closing level. McAndrews & Forbes was one of the exceptions, selling up from 170 to 185 and closing at 180. There were a number of small gains in the coppers, but Butte Coalition sold off from 22¼ to 21⅞.

Transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

FINANCIAL NOTES.

On Feb. 1 the foreign exchange brokerage firm of Freudenberger & Co., 56 Pine Street, will be reorganized under the same name, with Joseph A. Freudenberger and George Dosch, Jr., as partners.

The Illinois Central has organized a subsidiary corporation called the Central Fruit Dispatch, with $1,500,000 capital, to handle its fruit and vegetable traffic.

The Cities Service Company has increased its monthly dividend to one-third of 1 per cent., putting the common on a 4 per cent. basis. It has been paying 3 per cent.

Ackermann & Coles announce that they are prepared to complete fractional lots of the separate subsidiary companies of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to full shares by selling the fractions necessary. In addition, they will attend to all the details of transfer.

The Fitchburg Railroad has been authorized by the Public Service Commission to issue $1,200,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds at not less than par. The proceeds are to be used to refund $100,000 of Fitchburg bonds and to pay the Boston & Maine for expenditures made on the smaller line in the fifteen months ended with September, 1911.

S. N. Castle has complained to the Public Service Commission of the practice of the New Haven in detaching the same number of mileage coupons between New Rochelle and 125th Street and between New Rochelle and Grand Central, and of the charge of two extra coupons for the superior advantages of the Grand Central Terminal.

Stockholders of the Dominion Steel Corporation at a special meeting approved the proposal to issue $7,000,000 6 per cent. preferred stock, to be exchanged for 6 per cent. income bonds of the subsidiary companies. The total authorized is $17,500,000, and it is intended to offer the unissued balance to holders of Dominion Coal Company shares as well as to the stockholders of the steel company.

Fal De Saint Phalle, a young Frenchman who has been in the employ of J. P. Morgan & Co. for the past three years, and Xavier M. Audibert have been made general partners in the firm of Gude, Winmill & Co. Mr. De Saint Phalle will be the Stock Exchange member.

NO ACTION ON ST. PAUL.

Executive Committee Didn't Discuss Question of Dividend Rate.

The Executive Committee of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul held its last weekly meeting before the semi-annual Directors' meeting to act on the dividend yesterday afternoon, but it was said by some of them that a recommendation to the full board was not even discussed. There was a possibility that the Executive Committee might announce its intention of advising a reduction to 5 per cent., or the continuation of the present rate of 7 per cent., and for this reason yesterday's meeting was watched with unusual interest in the financial district.

Roswell P. Miller, Chairman of the Board of Directors, said after the meeting that the numerous stories to the effect that the board had already agreed unofficially on a reduction in the rate had no foundation in fact. "The question of the rate for the next semi-annual payment will be thrashed out when the time comes, probably at next Thursday's meeting," said Mr. Miller. "I do not believe that any Director, either on behalf of the board or as an individual, has made any prediction as to what action the board will take."

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two Business Leases of $400,000 Each in Insurance and Old Greenwich Districts—W. K. Vanderbilt Sells Long Island Acreage — Lively Bronx Market—Many Suburban Sales.

Two big leases, each aggregating $400,000, which will have an important effect in strengthening business conditions in their respective localities, were made yesterday, one in the insurance section and the other in the Greenwich Village district. The former was made by the Charles F. Noyes Company, which leased for the Woodbridge Company to the Phoenix Assurance Company, Limited, of London, 10,700 square feet of space in the Woodbridge Building on the southeast corner of William and John Streets. The space taken includes a large part of the ground floor now occupied by the Johns-Manville Company, which firm is about to move to its new building at Madison Avenue and Forty-first Street.

The present offices of the Phoenix Assurance Company, one of the largest of the English fire companies, are at 45 Cedar Street. A long term lease has been taken at an aggregate rental of $400,000. The Woodbridge Building, with the exception of a portion of the Johns-Manville space on the ground floor, is now fully tenanted, and this big deal illustrates the strength of the new insurance district in the vicinity of John and William Streets.

The Greenwich Village deal, which represents an aggregate net rental of $400,000, has been made by William A. White & Sons for the St. John's Park Realty Company (James H. Cruikshank and William D. Kilpatrick) to A. Klipstein & Co., importers of aniline dyes and chemicals, located in the Hanover Square section for forty years.

The firm has leased for its new home the new eight-story loft, 101 by 100 feet, on the southwest corner of Greenwich and Borrow Streets, opposite the Appraiser's Stores. This is the last of the three lofts remaining vacant on the block purchased by Mr. Cruikshank over a year ago from the Trinity Corporation and improved with high-class commercial structures. The C. F. Hoffman estate recently purchased the other two, giving in exchange the Cluett Building, running through from Eighteenth to Nineteenth Street, west of Fifth Avenue, and which was resold to the New York-Pennsylvania Realty Company.

In The Times Next Sunday

How John D. Rockefeller acquired control of the famous Missabe Mines and the details of his dealings with the Merritts. * * * A thrilling and interesting tale of High Finance involving millions, intrigue, trickery, attempts at blackmail and suicide. * * * What great capitalists have to contend with in dealing with schemers and promoters. * * * How they get in and how they get out. * * * An intimate view of a chapter in the life of John D. Rockefeller, written for The New York Times by Frederick T. Gates, who represents Mr. Rockefeller.

The attack made on Mr. Rockefeller concerning the Missabe Mines transaction by Leonidas and Alfred Merritt before the Stanley Committee in Washington recently caused a sensation. This article gives fully the Rockefeller side of the matter. It will occupy three pages of NEXT SUNDAY'S NEW YORK TIMES.

LAST YEAR'S EXPORTS EXCEED ALL RECORDS

1910 IMPORTS WERE GREATER

Value of Farm Products Here Declined as Compared with 1910—Cotton Exported in 1911 Less in Value.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The growing prosperity of the country and the enormously increased productiveness of its various industries is set forth in striking fashion in a bulletin issued yesterday by the Department of Commerce and Labor. In certain quarters there has been a tendency to pessimism in regard to the business of the country, and to deduce from a dark picture of our industrial affairs a moral bearing on the political outlook. But the bulletin shows that the past calendar year saw our exports increase beyond all records till they reached the unprecedented point of $2,092,373,141.

During the year the balance of trade was $559,441,280. But the balance of trade alone is no longer considered significant in itself, and large imports are considered to point as much to a healthy state of trade as large exportations. Last year our imports exceeded the record of all past years except 1910, and reached the point of $1,532,931,861. This makes the year's foreign trade—export and import together—reach the extraordinary figure of more than $3,500,000,000.

Boom in Breadstuffs.

This great booming of business is indicated particularly in the great staples and a special table has been prepared by the department showing our exports in breadstuffs, meat, and dairy products, food, animals, cotton, and mineral oils. In every one of these, with the single exception of cotton, our exports last year far exceeded the exports for the year before. Exports of breadstuffs last year amounted to $122,836,878 as against $95,703,988 for the year before. Meat and dairy products last year amounted to $136,630,390, against $107,938,379 the year before and cattle, hogs, and sheep in export jumped to about $14,000,000 last year from $9,000,000 the year before. Mineral oils were exported last year to the value of $98,900,000 as against $88,500,000 the year before.

Even cotton, which showed a falling in money value, actually increased its bulk of exports. Its value in the foreign trade fell from $530,000,000 a year ago to $515,000,000 last year. But the number of bales increased in the same period from 7,086,000 to 8,580,000.

This extraordinary boom in exports occurred in the face of what appeared to be a falling off in general farm values. But it is explained by the Department of Agriculture that the single item of prices received for food animals explained the decline.

The Department of Agriculture estimates this year's value of all farm products at $8,417,000,000, a decline of $277,000,000 from the total of 1910.

Fall in prices of farm animals and their products brought the aggregate value of that class of products, $321,000,000, below 1910's record, the estimated total being $2,913,000,000. But the crops, valued at $5,504,000,000, were $44,000,000 richer in value than in 1910.

The principal crops stood in the following order: Corn, cotton, hay, wheat, oats, potatoes, barley, tobacco, flaxseed, rye, sugar beets, hops, rice, and buckwheat. Of corn, the preliminary estimate was exceeded only in two preceding years and the farm price was higher early in December than ever before recorded except in 1883, the total crop being valued at $1,700,000,000.

The total cotton crop, estimated at 14,885,000 bales of 7,121,713,000 pounds lint, is valued at $775,000,000 for fibre and seed.

The value of the hay crop is put just short of $700,000,000.

Wheat, valued at $600,000,000, yielded a total of 656,000,000 bushels, of value less than the average. The oats crop, which for years had ranked fifth in value, was this year estimated to be worth $380,000,000, the crop being 874,000,000 bushels, a short crop, which raised the farm price so that the aggregate value of the oats yield was the largest on record excepting one year.

Customs Weighers Go to the Island.

Charles H. Wardell and Charles D. Drew, customs weighers, who were convicted in September, 1910, of accepting bribes for the false weighing of sugar and were sentenced to ten months' imprisonment, surrendered themselves yesterday to Marshal Henkel and were taken to Blackwell's Island. Their appeals had been turned down by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

7,935. VITROLITE OR SIMILAR MATERIALS.—A Canadian business firm importing buildings materials of all kinds informs an American Consular officer that it is desirous of getting in touch with American manufacturers of vitrolite or similar materials for use in the sanitary fitting of hospitals, dairies, slaughter houses, creameries, &c.

Such pumps are wanted for irrigation purposes.

7,942. CANDY MACHINERY AND STRAW HAT CLEANING MACHINERY.—A manufacturing firm in the United States writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that it has received from foreign correspondents inquiries for goods out of its lines, and it would like to have these inquirers put in touch with firms able to supply the goods. A business man in Japan writes that he would like to hear from manufacturers of candy-making machines. A letter from a merchant in Africa states that he is anxious to get in touch with American manufacturers of straw hat cleaning machinery.

7,943. KENTUCKY LEAF TOBACCO.—An American Consular officer in a South American country reports that a cigar manufacturer in his district desires to purchase Kentucky leaf tobacco in large quantities. Correspondence should be in Spanish, if possible.

7,944. GASOLINE AND RUBBER SHOES.—An American Consul in a Mediterranean country reports that a business man wants to communicate with American manufacturers of gasoline adapted to motor vehicles. The specific gravity should be 0690 to 0780. This merchant, who enjoys a good reputation, would also like to make arrangements for the agency of a certain type of American rubber shoes, which are not on the local market.

7,945. SOLDERING AND CANNING MACHINERY.—One of the largest commercial houses and manufacturing firms in Argentina informs an American Consular officer that it is in the market for soldering and canning machinery, assorted sizes; and also machinery for the preparation and preservation of fruits and vegetables, especially the very last models for peeling peaches and extracting peach stones.

7,946. ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANTS.—An American Consul reports that an electric light company has been granted a franchise to install electric light plants in two cities in the country in which he is located, and he suggests that it would be well for interested firms to get in touch with this company.

7,947. MOTOR FIRE APPARATUS.—A report from an American Consulate states that a city in his district is about to add to its equipment in the Fire Department. If convinced that motors in connection with engines and hook and ladder trucks can be used to good advantage, the new equipment will be along that line. THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The weather was much warmer Thursday throughout the Atlantic and Gulf States and the Ohio Valley, while decidedly colder weather prevailed over the Mississippi Valley and the Rocky Mountain region, and temperatures are again below zero in the Northwest. Temperature continued above seasonal west of the Rockies.

An area of low barometric pressure that extends in a narrow belt from the Middle Gulf States to Ontario caused rains during the last twenty-four hours, which became scattering snows in the North Atlantic States, and the Upper Mississippi Valley. Over other parts of the country the weather remained generally fair.

Indications are that the Western disturbance will advance to the Atlantic States during Friday attended by rain and snows throughout the Atlantic States. It will be followed by fair weather in these districts Saturday.

Considerable colder weather will overspread the region east of the Mississippi River Friday, and a further fall in temperature will take place Saturday in the South Atlantic States. Cold wave warnings have been issued for the region of the Great Lakes and the Ohio Valley.

Winds along the New England Coast will be brisk south, shifting to northwest Friday afternoon; Middle Atlantic Coast, brisk south, shifting to northwest; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk south, shifting to northwest Friday afternoon.

Steamships departing Friday for European ports will have brisk south, shifting to northwest, winds and rain or snow, followed by clearing weather, to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York—Rain or snow in north, rain in south portion, followed by clearing and colder Friday; cold wave north portion; Saturday fair; brisk south shifting to northwest winds.

New England—Rain or snow Friday, followed by clearing cold weather, Friday afternoon or night; Saturday fair and colder; brisk south shifting to northwest winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Rain or snow, followed by clearing and colder Friday; Saturday fair; brisk south shifting to northwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours, ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

COURT HOUSE SITE IS NOW DETERMINED

Board of Estimate Appoves Plan Placing It at Lafayette and Park Streets.

OTHER CHANGES MUST WAIT

Court House Commission at Once Sets to Work to Acquire the Land and Draw Plans for Building.

The Board of Estimate adopted yesterday without a dissenting voice a resolution designating as the site of the new Court House the four blocks between Leonard, Baxter, and Park Streets and the open spaces at the intersection of Lafayette and Park Streets. This secures these four blocks immediately from real estate speculators and the city can proceed to take the steps to purchase or acquire them without fear that the price will be increased on them by improvements undertaken merely for the sake of the damages to be obtained in condemnation proceedings.

No action was taken by the Board yesterday for the purchase of the block immediately north of the new Municipal Building, bounded by Duane and Pearl Streets, City Hall Place, and Park Street, or the half block bounded by Pearl and Park Streets and City Hall Place extended, which the McAneny report recommended should be taken as part of the improvement. But President McAneny said that he thought that steps should be taken to acquire these plots as soon as the city engineers have completed their work on the proposed street changes in this neighborhood, and it is likely that in two or three weeks the Board of Estimate may be asked to sanction this extension of the civic centre scheme.

In a statement made yesterday to the Board, Mr. McAneny altered in some degree the recommendations made by his committee report of the week previous with regard to the alteration of the streets in this locality. He then suggested that Leonard Street be carried across Mulberry Bend Park to Pell Street to provide a new thoroughfare to the Bowery. He now considers that it would be preferable to extend Park Street to the Manhattan Bridge Plaza. This would cut through the irregularly shaped blocks of Chinatown between Mott and Doyers Streets and the Bowery and would provide a new diagonal highway from the terminal of the Manhattan Bridge to the end of the Brooklyn Bridge.

This would lead, it is believed, to a large development of this neglected area, the value of which would pay an appreciable fraction of the cost of the Court House site. President McAneny informed the board yesterday that he thought the cost would be about $6,000,000, and that as the Court House itself ought to be erected for $9,000,000, the total cost of the new Court House and park should be $15,000,000. It should be remembered, he added, that the expenditure of this money in this fashion will also protect the City Hall Park from further invasion and will open up an area of development that is bound to stimulate private investment to the ultimate advantage of the city's coffers by reason of the increase of assessment values.

The changes contemplated in this area will result in a small change in the street car routes of the city. At present the Second Avenue Company runs cars through Worth Street to Broadway. The receivers have consented to their removal to one of the streets immediately north of Worth Street, when the city desires it.

The Board of Estimate having now chosen the site, the responsibility for the erection of the new Court House rests, under the Stillwell Act, with the Court House Commission, of which Morgan J. O'Brien is Chairman and Charles Steckler, Edward M. Grout, E. C. Potter, and L. Laflin Kellogg are the members. Mr. O'Brien was present at the board meeting in his private capacity, and asked Mr. McAneny whether there was likely to be any difficulty about the foundations of the Court House on the site the committee was recommending, as his Commission had feared a year or so ago to suggest this location on account of its fears of the nature of the ground. Mr. McAneny replied that he was advised by his engineers that by caisson construction all these difficulties could be overcome.

Immediately after the Board of Estimate meeting, the Court House Commission met to take the necessary steps to begin its work. It decided to engage an office and a working force of clerks and stenographers, and to retain a consulting architect. It will set in motion at once the proper machinery for the acquisition of the site, either by private negotiation or by condemnation proceedings. To avoid the expense and delay of the matter it is provided by the law that the Court House Commission may, with the approval of the Board of Estimate and the Controller, purchase at private sale the property of all owners who will inform it in writing the price that they are willing to accept for their holdings.

Meanwhile, as the acquisition of the property goes on, the question of the design and style of architecture will be under consideration, and it is hoped that by the time the city has obtained title and cleared the ground, the plans of the new Court House will be ready for the beginning of construction. Mr. Steckler said yesterday that he did not see why the Court House should not be ready for occupancy within three years from the present time.

The necessity of new quarters for the Supreme Court was made still more evident yesterday by the almost unprecedented action of Justice Gerard. He has decided to hold examinations of two continued Special Term cases in his own home at 725 Fifth Avenue. Every room in the old Tweed Court House is in use, even the library, and Justice Gerard is taking advantage of Section 87 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which provides: "The parties to an action or special procedure pending in a court of record may, with the consent of the Judge who is to try or hear it without a jury, stipulate in writing that it shall be tried or heard and determined elsewhere than at the Court House."

The site which has been recommended for the new Federal Building and Post Office comprises the block and a half which Mr. McAneny intends to recommend to the city for purchase in a week or two in connection with the new civic centre. The committee appointed by the twelve civic societies which fought the Court House proposal all through the Summer has suggested that one of these new buildings should be placed immediately north of the Municipal Building, and the other, divided from it by a street, should occupy the half of the park and Pearl Street block, thus obtaining a frontage on the new Court House Park and the extension of Mulberry Bend Park.

Senator O'Gorman has been approached on the subject and has expressed himself well disposed to the idea, and will consider it when he comes to town to-morrow. He intends to introduce the bill for the removal of the Post Office next week and will, as soon as it has been brought into the Senate, take the matter up with President Taft, Attorney General Wickersham, and Postmaster General Hitchcock.

A point that calls for consideration is whether the city should pay anything toward the cost of the new site or Federal buildings. As all the Government ever paid the city for the present site was $500,000, it is thought that it will not be insisted upon that there should be any local contributions to the new buildings.

Borough President McAneny introduced yesterday at the Board of Estimate meeting a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to consider the advisability of the appointment of a regular City Planning Commission. This brought forth some opposition from President Miller of the Bronx.

"I'm against commissions as a rule," he said. "People who could not be elected dog catcher get on commissions and tell people who could get elected what they ought to do."

In the end the five Borough Presidents were appointed a committee to see if a City Planning Commission is necessary and to draft a bill for its creation.

CRIMINAL COURT SAFE, HE SAYS.

Superintendent Miller Says There Are No New Cracks.

Supt. of Buildings Rudolph P. Miller has not much patience with the reports that have come from the Criminal Court Building as to their condition. He issued this statement yesterday with regard to it:

> There is positively no cause for alarm over the condition of the Criminal Court Building. The condition of that building is the same to-day as it has been for some time past. The existence of cracks in the building is no news whatever, every one of them having been described in a report to President Ahearn in 1909. I have been personally familiar with the building since 1907, having at that time been requested, with D. E. Moran, to make a report on the condition of the building. We kept the building under observation for nearly two years, during which time the Subway in Centre Street was under construction. Settlements occurred along the east front, and some of the cracks opened up while that work was going on, but none to any serious extent. In the report attention was called to the fact that after the completion of the Subway further movements were still possible and probable. Such movements have occurred, but to not as great an extent as might have been expected.

Habitues of the building on the other hand are not inclined to take matters so easily as Supt. Miller. They point to the new cracks that have lately appeared and the opening up of cracks which were plastered over when the last alarm caused the disuse of the building for several days. They fail to see that a wall through which daylight can be plainly discerned can be considered absolutely safe and they expect daily to hear that parts of the ornamental cornices have fallen into the street.

MYSTERY IN WOMAN'S DEATH.

Husband and Baby in Hospital Suffering from an Undiscovered Cause.

Coroner Charles Converse will hold an antopsy this morning on the body of Mrs. Antoinette Pisto to discover what caused the death of the young woman some time Wednesday night in her home, 727 Main Street, New Durham, N. J. Antonio Pisto, the woman's husband, is in the North Hudson Hospital in Weehawken. He was unconscious all day yesterday, but recovered toward evening. The physicians could not tell what had been the matter with him, and Pisto could offer no explanation. All he knew was that he and his wife and their ten-month-old son Joseph had retired as usual about 9 o'clock Wednesday night. He regained his senses to find himself in the hospital.

The husband, wife, and baby were found in bed in their flat at 8 o'clock yesterday morning by Dominick Favoriana, a plasterer, who had some work to finish in the Pisto flat. He knocked several times at the door, and finally, finding it unlatched, walked in. He thought that Mr. and Mrs. Pisto and the baby were dead, and ran to the North Bergen Police Station. The police sent for Dr. H. J. Spalding of Fulton Street, Union Hill, and he found that Pisto was still alive, while the baby appeared perfectly well. The wife was dead.

There were many bottles and flasks in the flat, and the police surmised at first that the couple had drunk some liquor containing wood alcohol. At the hospital, however, it was said that Pisto had not been drinking, and when he recovered his senses he declared that neither he nor his wife had had anything to drink before retiring.

TO JAIL FOR INSOLENCE.

Court Was About to Free Boy When He Made Sneering Remark.

For insolence to Justices Steinert, Mayo, and Salmon in Special Sessions yesterday, after they had put him on probation following his plea of guilty to the charge of stealing a silver mesh bag from a department store, Theodore Lewis of 374 High Street will spend the next three months in the penitentiary.

After he had pleaded guilty the defendant's father asked for clemency, saying that the youth had always been a good boy and was his only support. Justice Steinert then conferred with his associates and they agreed to place him on probation. As Justice Steinert announced the court's decision the youth made a sneering remark, and the three months' sentence was then quickly imposed.

MAYPROSECUTELAUNDRYMEN

Col. Reagan Suggests That State May Act on Evidence.

It was stated yesterday by Col. Michael J. Reagan, chief mediator of the New York branch of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, which will resume its hearing on the causes of the strike of the laundry workers at the City Hall today, with Commissioner Rogers presiding, that the inquiry may result in prosecutions for violations of the labor law by some employers. The State Board, he said, has not the power to conduct prosecutions in such cases, but may make recommendations for prosecutions.

However, I'm leaving it up to the clothes to prove the truth of such a claim. Being a manufacturing retailer, and because I save thousands of dollars in rent through my out-of-the-way location, I have always undersold the regular retailer by at least 33 1-3%. During my clearance sale these already low prices have been stripped and the clothes are now selling at 50% of their actual value.
